HITLER DECREES 'SPARTAN LIFE' FOR GERMANY

Prepares People for More Hardships.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 28.—Spartan simplicity, rivaling the patriotic self-abnegation of the Italians in recent months following the proclamation of league of nations sanctions against Italy, must be the keynote of the lives of all Germans.

This was announced to the German press today by Paul Koerner, secretary of state and right hand man of Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, newly appointed controller of national economics. Koerner warned the press to prepare the public for the necessity of new sacrifices.

New Row with France Looms.

Officials of the propaganda ministry further darkened the picture of the near future by telling the press it must prepare the public for a "stiffening of relations between France and Germany as soon as the French elections are finished." They also deplored the fact that relations with England have suffered.

The officials asserted they expected a period in which Germany would have to rely on its own resources and demanded that the press help create the atmosphere necessary to induce the public to "do its share."

Goering summoned the commissars for raw materials to a conference and warned them they must further restrict imports and help draft measures to increase exports. Only goods vitally necessary to the army and materials needed to produce goods for foreign export must be allowed to enter Germany, Goering decreed.

Await Action by Goering.

"Goering's appointment as controller of national economics will teach a lesson to industrialists and business men who still cling to capitalistic ideas and seek to sabotage the socialistic part of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's program," more radical interpreters of Naziism told their group leaders today.

Business men, on the other hand, expressed hope that the "sound common sense which has marked most of Goering's actions will eliminate some experiments by Nazi economists which we consider dangerous."

The business men assumed Goering will first help Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank and minister of economics, to carry on his policy, which attempts to reconcile Nazi and capitalist principles. Doubts were felt, however, about the ability of these two headstrong men to cooperate successfully in the long run.

Plan to Prolong Export Tax.

Captains of industry were summoned to meet Hitler's economic adviser, Wilhelm Kepler, on Thursday. They will discuss prolongation of the so-called "export contributions" which are due to expire April 30. This special tax on industrialists, producing about 250 million dollars yearly, has been used to subsidize German exports. Many industrialists who do not benefit want this levy stopped, but in view of the foreign trade situation this is improbable.

That the Nazis are prepared for all emergencies is seen in the extraordinary activity shown by the GSP [secret police], the security service of the Schutz Staffel [Hitler guards], and other police bodies.

Richard Heydrich, chief of the Berlin GSP, wrote an article for today's edition of the Voelkischer Beobachter on "Traitors to the Nation, Jews, Freemasons, and Political Priests." He referred indirectly to the capitalistic group, whose members are being roundly denounced as traitors at Nazi meetings because they object to the special supervisions of the Nazi police.

Hits "Political Clergy."

Acknowledging that "Naziism can only hold its own in the long run if the fight against state enemies is successful," Heydrich declared:

"In the economic field the Jews can always count on the selfish and treacherous elements for support."

He branded the activities of the "political clergy" as more dangerous than communist activity, and added that the GSP, in its task of controling the activities of state opponents, is reinforced by the security service, which is the "intelligence service of the Nazi party."

In an effort to patch up friendship with England the German government has postponed indefinitly the colonial congress scheduled for the end of May.

KANSAN PILES UP BIG LEAD IN MASSACHUSETTS

Roosevelt Far Ahead in Pennsylvania.

Presidential preference primaries were held in two big eastern states yesterday.

In Massachusetts, Gov. Alf Landon had a 10 to 1 lead in the Republican contest. President Roosevelt, who was unopposed, will receive the whole Democratic delegation.

In Pennsylvania, President Roosevelt had a 16 to 1 lead over Henry Breckinridge in the Democratic contest. Senator William E. Borah was unopposed for the Republican leadership.

In California, Landon followers will seek uninstructed delegation at Tuesday's primary, instead of slate pledged to him. Details on Page 6.

Boston, Mass., April 28.—(AP)—Mounting returns in Massachusetts' presidential preference primary tonight gave Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas a lead of more than 10 to one over his nearest opponent in the Republican votes.

The principal other preferences were for Senators William E. Borah and Arthur Vandenberg, former President Herbert Hoover, and Col. Frank Knox, none of whom had sought actively to have their names written in. Landon supporters, however, had been active for weeks.

Returns from 1,357 precincts out of 1,529, including 150 out of 357 in Boston, gave:

Landon	64,838
Hoover	6,218
Borah	3,824
Knox	1,707
Vandenberg	1,795

Statement by Landon Chief.

Edwin F. Parker, president of the Landon for President club of Massachusetts, said late tonight:

"The Landon vote expresses to the nation in unmistakable terms that the voters of Massachusetts appreciate the importance of electing as President of the United States a man who will clean up the mess in Washington which has been brought about in the name of the New Deal.

"The Massachusetts vote may be said to be the first test of Landon strength in the industrial east. It is a joining of hands with the agricultural west to accomplish a national housecleaning."

Delegates Not Bound.

The voters' preference in no way binds delegates elected today to the national conventions.

President Roosevelt was receiving a heavy majority of the Democratic preference votes. Democratic leaders maintained, however, there would be no real indication of Roosevelt strength in the number of preferences he received. They contended many voters cast their ballots for the Roosevelt pledged delegates without bother-to "write in" the President's name.

No attempt was being made to tabulate President Roosevelt's complete vote. It probably won't be available for several days.

Roosevelt Far in Front.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 29 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Mounting returns in Pennsylvania's Democratic presidential preferential primary early today gave President Roosevelt a wide and increasing lead over Col. Henry Breckinridge, the first candidate to oppose the chief executive's renomination in state-wide balloting.

Returns from 1,907 of the 7,983 districts in the state showed:

Roosevelt	180,804
Breckinridge	10,927

At the same time Senator William E. Borah polled 104,304 in 1,833 districts, as the lone candidate in the Republican preferential, although there were scattered "write-in" votes for Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, former President Herbert Hoover, and Senator Arthur Vandenburg of Michigan.

In Philadelphia, with 593 of 1,285 districts in, the President held a 17 to 1 lead over Breckinridge, 63,899 to 3,799. In the same districts Borah had 33,646. The same proportion in the voting existed in Dauphin county, in which is the capital city, Harrisburg.

Not Pledged Votes.

The preferential primary, results of which are not binding on the state's delegates to the national conventions, shared interest with fights for congressional nominations and minor offices in a colorless pre-primary campaign.

Among the former was the battle

WHISTLE CHORUS BLASTS SLUMBER —AROUSES AREA

For ten minutes last night a chorus of boat and train whistles sent the echoes bounding in the central business district of the city, causing hundreds of alarmed householders to telephone police headquarters and THE TRIBUNE to learn if the town was burning up. Many were awakened.

Among others disturbed were guests in downtown hotels who had retired and opened their windows. Late theater goers, puzzled by the prolonged whistling, added their inquiries to the others.

Southbound, in tow of two tugs, the freighter Fitzgerald approached the Roosevelt road bridge on the south branch of the Chicago river. The leading tug gave three short blasts, but the bridge failed to lift.

Bridgetender Edward Ripingner found the central lock was jammed. The freighter blew its whistle in protest. Switch engines in the Polk street yards replied. The bridge finally raised and the flotilla passed through with a few parting blasts.

Golf Walkout Grows; Clubs Warn Strikers

Announcing that they will do their own work if necessary, members and officials of several north shore golf clubs yesterday told their striking greenskeepers to return to work at once or not to return at all.

The clubmen's edict came after the greenskeepers and laborers of three more golf clubs joined those of six clubs who struck on Monday for a pay scale of 75 cents an hour and other benefits. There was no violence yesterday, although spokesmen for the clubs charged that their employés had been induced to strike by intimidation.

Walkouts at Three More Clubs.

The clubs whose golf course employés walked out yesterday are the Onwentsia in Lake Forest, the Bob O' Link in Highland Park, and the Shore Acres north of Lake Bluff.

Those whose employés struck Monday are the Lake Shore Country club in Glencoe, the Northmoor Country club, the Exmoor Country club and the Old Elm club in Highland Park, and the Knollwood club and Albert D. Lasker's private course on the Old Mill farm, both in Lake Forest.

Greenskeepers and laborers at all the clubs have been getting 47½ cents an hour for a nine hour day. They seek a 27½ cent hourly increase, an eight hour, five day week, with time and a half for Saturdays and double time for Sundays.

Union Threatens Picketing.

The men were called out by Tony Rossi, business agent of local 152 of the Hodcarriers and Building Common Laborers' Union of Lake County. Rossi said that the strike would be peaceful but that his union would picket any club which sought to employ strikebreakers.

Of some 200 men on strike from all nine clubs, Rossi said, about 125 have already joined the union.

Thomas R. Wyles, chairman of the greens committee of the Exmoor club, declared that all the clubs will refuse to recognize the union.

"The attempt to unionize our golf course employés is a racket," Wyles said. "If we give in, this will be only the beginning. They'll organize the caddies next.

"We have already offered to pay 55 cents an hour, recognize an eight hour day, and pay time and a half on Saturdays and double time on Sundays. But they turned that down.

"Forty members of my club have promised to get out tomorrow and cut grass and do other work on the course if we have any trouble getting men to take the places of the strikers.

FINDS SELF TURNING 'SISSY,' SUES DOCTOR FOR $100,000 DAMAGES

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—In a suit for $100,000 started in Supreme court today, Felix de Santis, charges that as a result of a poorly done operation for hernia he is developing "female characteristics."

The complainant is 27 and unmarried. He charges that he was injured in 1933 while working in Long Island City for the Cornell Electric company, and in June of 1933 was operated on for correction of a rupture.

Since then, his complaint sets forth, Mr. De Santis noted a marked change in his whole being. He alleges that his chest is becoming rounded and hairless and that his voice "will change."

The suit asks that $100,000 damages be awarded him from the physician, a prominent and reputable medical man of upper Madison avenue.

The complaint goes on to charge that two months after the operation Mr. De Santis found that he was no longer interested in women.

Norman P. S. Schloss, attorney for Mr. De Santis, told the jury that the only hope of arresting the development of more female characteristics is expensive treatment with pituitary extract.

HELPFUL CITIZEN GETS POLICEMAN IN $25,000 JAM

If the citizen who got a dutiful policeman into trouble will now come forward and get him out, Lieut. Frank Kreml of the Evanston police will be much obliged to him.

On Jan. 12, 1935, Lieut. Kreml was sitting in his parked car when a stranger pointed to another automobile and suggested that the driver be arrested as a suspicious character. Lieut. Kreml marched the driver to the station.

The driver was released with apologies after identifying himself as Durand Smith, son of Franklin P. Smith, 815 East Deerpath avenue, Lake Forest.

Young Smith sued Lieut. Kreml for $25,000, charging false arrest. The case will come up Monday in the Circuit court.

Mr. Zioncheck Adds Wedding to His Exploits

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Representative Marion A. Zioncheck, turbulent Democrat from the state of Washington, made news again today. He rang no door bells and did not speed—in fact, he broke into print without running afoul of the police or coming near to fisticuffs on the floor of the house.

He married Miss Rubye Louise Nix, 21 years old, a stenographer in the accounting division of the Public Works administration at Annapolis, Md.

The marriage was accomplished with the aid of two marriage licenses and a dash into Maryland after a strange search for a minister here.

Friends of Mr. Zioncheck said the marriage was all that he could desire—simple and stormy.

He Picks a Minister.

Clad in an old sweater and jersey, Zioncheck walked into the office of the clerk of the District Supreme court and demanded a marriage license. His bride, who is a native of Texarkana, was not with him.

Asked what minister he wanted to have perform the ceremony, Zioncheck said in the positive tone which irks his colleagues on Capitol hill, "I want the first one on the list." The girl clerk timidly said she believed the first preacher on the list had left the city.

"I don't care," Zioncheck snapped. "I want him anyhow."

After the clerk filled in the name of the Rev. Thomas L. Aaron, former pastor of the Pentecostal Holiness church, Zioncheck set out on his search for the divine despite the fact that the Rev. Mr. Aaron had left the city three years ago.

Zioncheck grabbed a telephone and attempted to call the minister. When he was told that Aaron was not listed as a subscriber, Zioncheck loudly announced he was going to hunt up the minister in person.

Ah, a Second Thought.

He turned before he left and after a moment's reflection announced that he thought he would get married out of the city. The clerk said she was sorry, but she could only issue licenses for marriage in the city of Washington.

"I don't care about that," Zioncheck said. "I want to get married out of the city."

The clerk said her hands were tied by the law.

"Don't try to tell me what the law is," Zioncheck barked angrily. "I know the law and I know what I want."

He left in a rush.

Three hours later the bride announced the marriage in Annapolis, Md., where Zioncheck procured a second license, and enlisted the Rev. Paul R. Diehl in his plans.

Borrows $2 for License.

"He asked me if I would take his watch as security," Merrill said. "I said that I wouldn't, but that I would let him have the $2. He gave it to Mrs. Goodman [Mrs. Rose Goodman, another deputy clerk] for the license and told me he would see me some time."

Mrs. Goodman had already refused to take the watch as security for the marriage license fee.

Mrs. Zioncheck was wearing a light ensemble trimmed in gray fur. Zioncheck had on a light suit. He had donned a coat and vest since he set out in Washington on his matrimonial mission wearing a sweater.

When Zioncheck returned to his

NEW DEAL JAMS 803 MILLION TAX THROUGH HOUSE

Bill Steam-Rollered in 3 Hours.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—The administration's 803 million dollar tax bill was jammed through the house this afternoon in less than three hours. This action was in effect approval of the measure, but a formal roll call will be taken tomorrow noon with the Democratic majority lined up against a solid Republican opposition.

Seldom in the hectic history of the house has a bill been steam-rollered to victory with such efficiency, veterans conceded. In exactly 16 minutes after reading of the bill was started shortly before 1 p. m. the heart of the measure, the tax upon the undistributed income of corporations, was stamped with the O. K. of the members, although most of them were unaware of that fact.

Clerk Skims Sections.

The reading clerk skimmed through the sections dealing with one of the most important tax experiments in a quarter of a century, turning the pages as rapidly as he could, reading only a word or two on each page. While the bewildered members tried to follow the flow of jargon that fell from the lips of the clerk, Representative Samuel B. Hill [Dem., Wash.], chairman of the subcommittee which drafted the measure, quickly offered three committee amendments which were adopted without a word of explanation.

By the time that the opposition had mustered its wits it was too late. Under the rigid parliamentary rules of the house, amendments must be offered to each section as it is read, and there can be no turning back of the pages. It was a political triumph for Chairman Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.], chairman of the ways and means committee, who munched peanuts happily.

Senate Revision Expected.

After formal passage tomorrow the bill will be sent to the senate, which will start committee hearings Thursday with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau as the first witness. Drastic alterations are scheduled in the senate, which will attempt to correct some of the defects exposed during debate in the house.

Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah], a member of the finance committee, today began drafting a substitute bill to raise a billion dollars.

His plan would reduce individual income tax exemptions, boost surtaxes on incomes of $20,000 to $100,000, and lift present corporation levies 1 or 2 per cent.

Seen to Remove "Lag."

The most important amendment to the bill approved today was one designed to remove a "lag" in revenue production estimated to amount to 100 million dollars in the first year. The amendment will, in effect, Hill admitted, require corporations to anticipate last quarter earnings and declare out dividends during the last quarter without actual figures on income for the period.

This amendment, which makes corporations guess their earnings in advance, was adopted with a feeble murmur of "ayes" from the Democratic side. Not a congressman arose to inquire what it meant, and no committee member offered to explain it, a course of action usually followed.

Approval Is Perfunctory.

Similar perfunctory approval was given to a second committee amendment intended to help corporations with deficits.

The original bill provided that corporations with a deficit should pay a 22½ per cent tax on the amount of earnings necessary to make up the deficit, the remainder of the earnings being taxed under the graduated rates that apply to corporate income in general. The amendment cut the 22½ per cent to 15 per cent.

The third amendment adopted affected foreign corporations which will be required to hold back a 10 per cent tax on dividends to nonresident alien stockholders. The tax will be required only when corporations obtain 85 per cent or more of their earnings from American sources, instead of 75 per cent as in the original bill.

Having procured approval of these three amendments, which the committee decided to offer after a surprise meeting at 11 o'clock this morning, the leaders sat back while the

He was turning page 66 when Representative Harry Sauthoff [Prog., Wis.] asked for unanimous consent of the house to turn back to page 42, where he wished to offer an amendment. Representative Jere Cooper [Dem., Tenn.], one of the committee members, objected.

This enraged another Wisconsin Progressive, Gardner R. Withrow. He and a few other members had begun to realize that the rapid fire reading of the clerk had carried the bill through the most controversial sections without an opportunity having been afforded for amendments.

"This isn't fair, and you all know it," he charged the committee leader. "No member can follow such 'scientific' reading. Are you afraid to permit amendments and discussion of them? I call this steamrolling of the worst type. You're cutting us off from proper consideration of the measure."

Filibuster Threatened.

Threats of a filibuster finally forced the committee members to permit a return to the first part of the bill, and Sauthoff offered an amendment intended to give employers who increase their pay rolls the benefit of an exemption in gross income equal to 50 per cent of the amount of the increase. Doughton opposed the amendment and it was voted down, 67 to 22.

The only other amendment offered during the time required to read the bill was proposed by Representative Allen T. Treadway [Rep., Mass.]. He suggested eliminating from the revenue act the provision providing publication of the names of corporation employés receiving $15,000 and up annually. It also was defeated without a record vote.

The so-called "windfall" tax, providing a tax of 80 per cent upon AAA processing taxes not paid by the processor but passed on, was made the subject of a brief "explanation" by Representative John W. MacCormack [Dem., Mass.] and it, too, was given perfunctory approval.

Clerk Ends with Flourish.

With a flourish the clerk turned the last page of the bulky bill, and the Democrats applauded as Chairman Doughton reported to Speaker Joseph W. Byrns that the house, sitting as a committee of the whole house, had approved the bill and recommended its passage.

Treadway offered the usual opposition motion to recommit the measure to the committee, but did not ask for a record vote, and the motion was defeated vocally.

At no time during the entire reading of the bill, which has been termed one of the most revolutionary in American history, were there more than 100 members present, and on several occasions only 30 to 40 were in the chamber.

The bill reached the voting stage exactly eight weeks to the day after President Roosevelt demanded additional revenue in a message to congress March 3 and suggested the tax on the undistributed income of corporations. The ways and means committee spent seven weeks drafting the measure, and general debate began last Wednesday.

JUDGES UPHOLD WISCONSIN TAX ON ALIEN TRUCKS

Madison, Wis., April 28.—[Special.]—This state's registration law to tax trucks from other states, acting as common carriers, was upheld today by three federal judges. Two from Chicago, Judges Evan A. Evans and John Barnes, sat with Judge Patrick T. Stone of Madison.

They dissolved a temporary injunction against the enforcement of the state law of 1933, obtained by outside trucking companies. The injunction had followed a legislative order to enforce the law, which had been held in abeyance by "gentlemen's agreements' with other states not to invoke similar laws against companies operating trucks from Wisconsin.

About $100,000 a year, for highway purposes, is expected from the ruling of the federal jurists today.

CHIEF FREEMAN GIVEN BLOOD BY ONE OF HIS MEN

Chief of Police William O. Freeman of Evanston underwent a blood transfusion last night at St. Francis hospital, Evanston, where he has been since Thursday with a serious peritoneal infection. After the transfusion, Dr. David L. Hedberg, one of the three atending physicians, reported Chief Freeman's condition much improved. Policeman Fred H. Eichler, the tallest man on the Evanston force, who has given six other transfusions during his career, was the blood donor. Dr. Hedberg said the doctors still are uncertain what has caused the infection.

SENATE PASSES U. S. VOCATIONAL EDUCATION BILL

Ignores Warning Against Burocratic Trend.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Ignoring a warning from Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah] that the present trend of burocracy is toward control of the press, education, and of thought, the senate today passed a new vocational education bill calling for an expenditure of more than $14,000,000 a year by the federal government.

Senator King emphasized that he was not opposing education but insisted that it was a responsibility of the states and no proper concern of the central government. He merely objected to the trend represented by the vocational education bill, as well as the New Deal's national youth movement, as being dangerous to the nation's democratic institutions.

"Feared Grasping Government."

"Thomas Jefferson and the founders of the Democratic party, indeed the founders of the republic," said Senator King, "were very much concerned with the question of education and all domestic affairs. But one of the clearest expressions that we find in their writings is that the question of education should be left exclusively to the states. They feared an aggressive, grasping, all pervading federal government.

"They appreciated the fact that one of the weapons used by powerful governments to bring the masses of the people into subjection under a strong central government was to control the methods of thinking, to control the press, to control the fountains of education, the springs of intellectual progress, and those great liberalizing forces that result in a progressive civilization.

"That young men and women should be taught in a manual way, educated in regard to the soil, its productivity, indeed educated in all the arts and sciences and the activities of life, goes without saying.

"Only the Beginning."

"I am wondering, however, if with this so-called youth movement, these fields which the federal government is constantly being made to take over, we are not pursuing a path which in the end will be injurious to our democratic institutions and the foundations upon which our government rests.

"This is only the beginning, perhaps."

Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.], recalling his efforts on the senate floor to authorize an RFC loan for the school teachers of Chicago, asked Senator King what he would do when there was no money in the states to provide education.

"Mr. President, the senator assumes the incompetency of the states to manage their own affairs," Senator King replied. "A rich state like Illinois, one of the pillars of the republic, with Chicago and those other great cities and that splendid agricultural district, has the power, the capacity and the financial resources, I believe, to manage its own affairs."

"If the states are all bankrupt the federal government is bankrupt, because it has to go to Illinois and to the other states and put its hands into their pockets to put into the federal treasury the money to loan back to them."

The bill passed today, introduced by Senator Walter F. George [Dem., Ga.] and supported by Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, authorizes an annual appropriation of $12,000,000 to be distributed among the states on a matching basis, in proportion to population. In addition it authorizes $1,200,000 a year to be allotted for the payment of salaries and travel expenses of vocational teachers, and $1,000,000 a year to be allotted for the preparation of teachers and supervisors.

Senator Gore Files for Re-Election in Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 28.—(AP)—Senator Thomas P. Gore formally filed for reëlection tonight against a field of contenders for the Democratic nomination including Gov. E. W. Marland, representative Josh Lee of Norman, and Gomer T. Smith of Oklahoma City.

NEW DEALERS ENLIST AID OF INDEPENDENTS; HINT NORRIS SUPPORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—The support of disaffected liberals, progressives, and radicals nominally in the Republican party will be enlisted for President Roosevelt at the polls next November, it was indicated today by Postmaster General James A. Farley, national chairman of the Democratic party.

Farley said he expected Senator George Norris [Rad., Neb.] to be elected. The statement was regarded as tantamount to New Deal indorsement and a distinct snub for Terry Carpenter, former representative and Townsendite, who was nominated by Nebraska Democrats in the recent primary.

Norris, a Republican in name only, has been one of the loudest cheer leaders for the New Deal since its inception. Staying out of the primary, Norris is expected to run as an independent in the fall.

On Minnesota Farley was not so outspoken. He said he wanted to see the candidate first. New Deal support for Gov. Floyd Olson, Farmer-Labor chief, who has declared his intention of running for the senate, is expected. Olson's impaired health may be a factor in the situation.

It was learned on good authority that Senator Bennett Champ Clark [Dem., Mo.] had been selected tentatively as chairman of the rules committee, which will make recommendations to the convention.

In Pittsburgh Mayor William N. McNair dropped into the rear in his contest with Herman P. Eberharter for the Democratic nomination for United States representative.

McNair was 644 votes behind in the first 60 districts tabulated. The vote was McNair, 3,158; Eberharter, 3,802.

Kansans Back Roosevelt.

Wichita, Kas., April 28.—(AP)—Praising President Roosevelt as a "sincere friend of agriculture and the middle west," the Democratic state convention tonight instructed Kansas' 22 delegates to the national convention to vote for his renomination.

The convention criticized the administration of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, Republican presidential possibility. It demanded, through resolutions, that the governor call a special session of the legislature to act on assistance phases of the federal social security program.

Lynn R. Brodrick, Marysville publisher, was reëlected national committeeman without opposition.

N. Y. Headquarters Ready.

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—The Kansans' New York committee for Landon, of which Brock Pemberton is chairman, will open headquarters tomorrow at the Murray Hill hotel.

This committee, which was formed two weeks ago, has the approval of John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national committeeman from Kansas and campaign manager for Gov. Alf M. Landon in the latter's quest for the nomination for President.

Warm, moist air, blowing up from the Gulf of Mexico, met the chill air rising from the surface of Lake Michigan, yesterday afternoon, and condensed in a low hanging fog that dimmed city streets. Intermittently there was a light drizzle. Upper floors of tall loop office buildings emerged above the fog bank which clung to the ground. Forecaster C. A. Donnel explained that just the right temperature of air and moisture is needed to cause such a fog.

CREATE JOBS OR BE TAXED, ROPER TELLS BUSINESS

Warns Earnings Must Pay for Relief.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—The blunt threat that if business does not pick up the slack in employment, taxes for relief will come out of its earnings was made today by Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper before the convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The Roper ultimatum came as a surprise to the assemblage of more than 2,000 business leaders from all parts of the country, for it followed a "middle of the road" speech by Harper Sibley, president of the chamber, in which he declared that reëmployment was the joint problem of government and business. Sibley asserted that private enterprise had increased employment by 5 million persons from the depths of the depression to the end of 1935.

If the delegates had hoped for another promise of a "breathing spell" for business in the Roper utterances they were disappointed.

Employment or Taxes.

"It is the responsibility of all business and industrial enterprise," said Roper, "and not of one particular segment or of the government to increase its efforts for greater employment. If a substantial measure of increased reëmployment does not take place the taxation for relief purposes will come largely from business earnings. There must be reëmployment or a longer period of increased taxation."

Roper admitted that the administration had fostered burocracy, but insisted that it was occasioned by an emergency, and responsibility for its decrease again lay at the door of private business.

"Prompt and vigorous action will serve to decrease burocracy in the national government that comes from carrying responsibilities which should be reassumed now by business, other private organizations, states, and localities," said the secretary. "The best way to take burocracy out of government is to place more responsibility on nongovernmental agencies."

Affects Future of Nation.

Mr. Sibley asserted that the questions of unemployment, relief, taxation, federal fiscal policy, and social security involved consideration of the broadest fundamentals of national policy and cast a shadow over the future course of the American system.

Reëmployment will depend on how much the government will recognize the capacity, far-sightedness, and responsibility of business management, Sibley said.

"Government, in its proper desire to wage war upon destructive and subversive forces, must not shackle all of its citizenry," he asserted. "In its indignation against the chiselers, it must not lay burdens upon the average man too heavy for him to bear. It must never be forgotten that any injury to business inevitably results in injury to labor and the public as well.

"No, the answer, to my mind, is not punitive action, not resort to a régime of government in business or constant official controls, but, rather, a proper alliance between business and government, together to eliminate waste and inefficiency, to put down unfair and unwholesome practices destructive of the public welfare and in their place to encourage and support vigorously all right principles of business organization and conduct."

Sees Spending as Deterrent.

A different tack was taken by Lewis H. Brown, president of Johns-Manville corporation, who declared that governmental spending and fruitless experimentation had retarded business rather than aided it. In direct contrast to the polite silence that existed during Roper's talk, frequent bursts of applause greeted Brown's remarks.

Brown said that every so often the government had insisted that private enterprise arbitrarily reëmploy the unemployed under the false assumptions that industry employs workmen when there is no work to do and that it has a source of income out of which to pay wages other than the sale of goods to customers.

"It is the conviction of over 90 per cent of the business men of this country," Brown asserted, "that some of the government policies that have been followed are unsympathetic to the encouragement of business and are definitly preventing reëmployment.

Government Efforts Fail.

"The inescapable fact remains that today, after two years during which the government has primed the pumps with billions of public money, we still have substantially the same number of unemployed and, in addition, more millions on relief than we had then."

Reëmployment was discussed at a round table meeting presided over by John W. O'Leary of Chicago, president of the Machinery and Allied Products institute. O'Leary succeeded yesterday in having the chamber's board of directors authorize the appointment of a special committee to survey the situation.

MAYOR GEHAN LEADS IN RE-ELECTION RACE AT ST. PAUL POLLING

St. Paul, Minn., April 28.—(AP)—With votes from 216 of the city's 237 precincts tabulated Mayor Mark Gehan led William Mahoney by more than 5,000 votes in his mayoralty race for reëlection.

Gehan had 44,489 votes to 39,121 cast for Mahoney, former mayor indorsed by labor. Six councilmen, a city controler, and other officials also were balloted on.

Among incumbent councilmen seeking reëlection was H. W. Warren, commissioner of public safety the last two years. He campaigned on the issue that he had rid the city of virtually all major crime and had removed the stigma cast on St. Paul when Attorney General Homer Cummings characterized the city as a center of lawlessness.

ROOSEVELT SEES END OF PARTY'S TWO-THIRDS RULE

Asserts Method Causes Delay, Confusion.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today said he believed the two-thirds rule of the Democratic party would be abrogated in the national convention at Philadelphia next June. Under the rule a candidate must have a two-thirds' vote rather than a majority to win the presidential nomination.

Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that there is no reason for the party to be tied up as it has been in the past, citing the deadlock of the 1924 convention and other conventions. He observed that the rule has caused delay and confusion.

He Expects No Delay.

Such delay and confusion, he added, does not help any political party. He grinned to reveal that he does not expect any delay in the Philadelphia convention.

Mr. Roosevelt volunteered the information that in his short stay at his family estate in Hyde Park he had talked by radio telephone with Ambassador William C. Bullitt in Moscow. The President returned to the White House early this morning from Hyde Park, where he rested for two days after his address Saturday night before the National Democratic club.

Talk Mostly of Weather.

The conversation, he said, was the first official government talk by radio phone if not the first talk on any kind through that channel. He revealed that it was confined largely to the weather. Asked if the charges were reversed Mr. Roosevelt said he forgot to inquire.

He revealed that his projected trip to Texas the first week in June, at the time Republicans will gather in Cleveland, still was in the tentative state. All, he said, depends on congress.

He then switched his press conference to a discussion of the method of financing flood control projects, stating that federal aid depends entirely on local situations.

SESSION WILL LAST UNTIL JULY 4, SENATE IS WARNED BY LEWIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—A fight over efforts to take up the Robinson-Patman anti-chain store bill in the senate today brought a prophesy from Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, the Democratic whip, that congress would be here until July 4.

Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, who had expressed a forlorn hope that the session would end in time for the national political conventions in June, called Senator Lewis "a brilliant, most excellent whip," but "a prophet of evil" who was too optimistic by nature to be so pessimistic.

"If it were not for the new tax bill we'd be out of here now," put in Minority Leader Charles L. McNary of Oregon. Robinson asked unanimous consent to bring up his anti-chain store bill, but Senator Warren R. Austin [Rep., Vt.] objected on the ground that the senate hearings had not been printed. Robinson then moved to bring it up and the motion carried.

POP IS GUILTY; MUST PAY $250 FOR TUB SCRUB

Charles E. [Pop] Parker of Maywood, 66 years old, rotund and romantic, will have to pay for sitting nude in a bathtub and having his back scrubbed by Mrs. Georgia Farber, 30 years old and blonde and the mother of two little girls.

Judge Michael Feinberg of the Circuit court held yesterday, after reviewing the evidence in the $25,000 damage suit filed by Michael Farber, former husband of Georgia, that Pop was guilty of alienating her affections. He fixed the amount of damages at $250.

A Lothario of the Tub.

In his summing up Judge Feinberg said that Pop was "a gay Lothario who drafted himself into a life of romance and baths attended by this young wife." Pop, declared the judge, broke up a home which, though it had no bathroom when he first entered it, was yet a haven of conjugal love.

"The facts are not beyond understanding," said the court. "This plaintif [Farber] and his wife came here from a small town in Minnesota and, so far as the evidence discloses, maintained a happy married life until some time in 1933. Two children were born, both girls, who are now 12 and 6 years old. Their future is, in prospect, anything but happy.

Industry Provides a Home.

"This plaintif was industrious. He worked for a mail order company by day and sought employment as a shoe clerk at night. Through his industry the couple were able to buy a small home. Modest as it was, without heating or bathroom facilities, it was a real home. Then, on a visit to a house in Maywood, owned by this defendant, the couple met Parker.

"From that chance acquaintance, it is claimed, an invitation was extended for him to visit the Farber home in peaceful Norwood Park.

"After several visits the defendant Parker, who willingly admits being a gay Lothario seeking thrills—even at his age—developed an unnatural interest in the household.

Pop Takes an Interest.

"The first sign of this interest was a down payment on a refrigerator. Then he rebuilt the kitchen, with a new sink and linoleum, and put in a water heater. The circumstances of his bath might form the central drama in a play like "Tobacco Road," which was barred from Chicago. Such things have no place in real life. This drama was played by people devoid of the fundamental principles of decency.

"The defendant unblushingly admits that in the presence of two small children who were in the parlor he asked this young mother to scrub his back. I wonder if he would have allowed any one to ask his own wife, now deceased, to scrub his back. He has no shame, no decency, not even self-respect—this Lothario of the tub.

Seizes His Opportunities.

"While the husband was in the hospital Parker took advantage of his opportunities. The neighbors saw his car parked in front of the [Farber] home all night. If he were sincere in his claim of affection for the children he would not have broken up that home."

Speaking of Mrs. Farber, Judge Feinberg said:

"Young and irresponsible, she had a taste for bright lights. She is to be pitied rather than censured. She went to taverns for meals and moonshine—the defendant boasted of his whoopee parties. Finally, when the young mother left her husband, she moved to Oak Park, and the defendant followed her. She was the type willing to be persuaded to that kind of life."

The judge also had something to say about Farber.

"It is hard to conceive," he declared, "that the husband only 'registered a large protest,' to use his own words, when he found the defendant in the tub having his back scrubbed. A red blooded husband would have acted differently. Because of his seeming indifference, the court will not allow him to become enriched from this case."

Charles S. Parker, the sturdy 24 year old son of Pop, who admitted in court on Monday that he had taken Mrs. Farber to Eagle River, Wis., after she separated from her husband, also was criticized by Judge Feinberg for combining in a "partnership of affection" with his parent.

Father to Fight for Girls.

Farber declared he was satisfied with the verdict. He said he would now try to gain custody of his two daughters, Mary Louise, 12 years old, and Gloria May, 6. They are living with their mother in the Parker home at 417 North 9th avenue, Maywood.

Pop Parker, who smiled in apparent relief when he learned the amount of the verdict was not too large, had one question to ask after court was adjourned.

"What is this Lothario business?" he demanded.

The now notorious bath took place in July, 1934, but there was a conflict in testimony as to the exact date. Mrs. Farber declared it was on a Saturday when her husband was home and a party was in progress. Farber, who divorced his wife last February, asserted that it was on a Thursday and that he just happened on it by accident.

ZIONCHECK WEDS TEXAS GIRL

office here he was met by a score of reporters.

"Are you married?" they asked.

"Now, isn't that a funny thing," he replied, "I wonder who could think such a thing."

Every time the blue eyed bride opened her mouth to reply to queries, the congressman would interrupt with—"Say, I'm wearing the pants here, look at 'em!"

Zioncheck finally broke down and admitted he knew Miss Nix.

"Sure," he said, "I met her about a week ago when she called me up one night."

"Did she make a date with you?" asked a woman reporter.

"Well," he pondered, "I would not exactly say that. She asked me down and so I went down and looked her over.

"She was OK," he added with a wink.

Bride Reports for Work.

By this time the bride had reported for work at the accountant's office of the Public Works administration. Besieged by newsmen she readily admitted the marriage and said it was the result of a whirlwind courtship.

Later Zioncheck drove his wife to his apartment which overlooks the Washington zoo.

"Had you rather stay here and eat stew or watch me go feed the monkeys?" he asked accompanying newspaper men.

Informed that they had rather remain in the apartment, the congressman proceeded in rapid succession to don an Indian headgear, demonstrate his prowess at ping-pong and mixed up a batch of stew.

BOY, 11, TOUCHES 44,000 VOLT WIRE; KILLED IN FALL

Richard Stokes, 11 years old, 103 Bloomingdale road, Riverside, was fatally injured last night when he climbed a steel tower carrying high tension wires, touched a cable charged with 44,000 volts, and fell 30 feet to the ground.

The accident happened in Summit, just south of the drainage canal and east of Harlem avenue. A motorist took young Stokes to the Berwyn hospital, where he died from burns and a fractured skull.

Richard's brother, William, 14 years old, and Stanton Gendos, 12, of 35 Forest avenue, Riverside, were cycling with him when he decided to stop and climb the tower.

STUDENT PAPER OPPOSES DEAN'S CONDUCT RULES

Vote of Frats to Follow at Wisconsin U.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., April 28.—[Special.]—University of Wisconsin students today had before them a code of seven strict commandments formulated by Scott H. Goodnight, dean of men.

Dean for Discipline.

The dean's code is designed to "clamp down" on alleged infractions of good conduct at university fraternity houses and men's dormitories. The new rules are to aid the faculty committee on student life to measure "infractions of rules, incidents of bad taste, and temperance." The rules were submitted to the various student organizations last night. The students have until May 6 to register their vote.

Dean Goodnight said the rules were formulated "so that there may be no further confusion on certain moot questions." Today the Daily Cardinal observed editorially that "unless students want the faculty committee to dictate what clothes they should wear, what food they should eat, or how to comb their hair, they should indicate a definite disapproval of the proposed behavior code."

The Code in Detail.

The dean's seven commandments are:

1. Liquor [interpreted to mean any beverage with an alcoholic content of more than 5 per cent] may not be served at any social function approved by the university faculty committee.
2. All social functions approved for dormitories and fraternity houses must be limited to the first floor. Only when necessary may bedrooms or study rooms on the upper floors be used for dressing or cloak rooms for members and their guests.
3. Women, except mothers, sisters, or other relatives, will not be permitted to visit men's rooming houses, fraternities, or dormitories, except at registered social functions. If the place of residence has a house mother or a graduate counselor, women guests may be entertained from 12:30 to 6 on Sunday afternoons.
4. Individual cases of drunkenness or any other form of serious misconduct, at parties or elsewhere, will be dealt with by the committee on student conduct.
5. Fraternities will be held strictly responsible for observance of the foregoing rules. [It is recommended that a "bouncer" be retained for all parties.]
6. Quiet hours are to be established by vote of the residents of any given house.
7. Rules affecting fraternities and dormitories obtain at all times, regardless of whether the university is in session.

Mrs. Blondell Hurten, 27 years old, 513 Orleans street, was granted a divorce by Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court yesterday from her husband, Orrel, 29, a farmer living near Tower Hill in Shelby county. She was granted custody of their daughter, Coral, 3 years old, and $10 a month for the girl's support, but the divorce decree stipulated that the child is not to be taken to a nudist colony. Hurten had asked custody on the ground that Mrs. Hurten planned to take the girl to such a camp.

N. Y. POLICE RAID BRIDGE STUDIO IN GAMBLING DRIVE

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—Patrolmen of Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine's confidential staf raided the Lovejoy Bridge studio, well known contract bridge club, here today in their first interference in the operation of such an establishment since contract bridge became the vogue almost ten years ago.

The raiders arrested Miss Mildred Lovejoy, 34, and Mrs. Adelaide Neuwirth, 35, and charged them with "allowing their premises to be used for contract bridge gambling." Both women are well known bridge teachers who have established reputations as tournament players.

The 26 men and women players present at the studio and the two teachers were incredulous when one of the policemen bluntly declared "the place is pinched."

FAMED JONKER DIAMOND SPLIT IN THREE PIECES

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—After Lazare Kaplan, New York diamond cutter, and his son, Leo, had completed their work of cleaving the million dollar 726 carat Jonker diamond as a preliminary to cutting the stone into a dozen smaller ones, Mr. Kaplan's first act was to telephone his wife, anxiously waiting at their home.

"Mamma, it's a success, I told her," Mr. Kaplan said today in the Rockefeller Center offices of Harry Winston, present owner of the Jonker diamond. "Then I remembered to call Mr. Winston and tell him it was a perfect job."

The drama of the cleaving process can be glimpsed in what Mr. Winston had to say about the risk of cutting the great stone.

Lloyds Refuse Insurance.

"My insurance brokers informed me it was utterly impossible to get coverage on Mr. Kaplan's work," Mr. Winston said. "Lloyds of London refused to write a policy, saying that the risk was too great. A mistake might cleave the stone the wrong way or shatter it, forever damaging the magnificent stone. We had to trust to Mr. Kaplan's skill."

"I got ready for the job by going trout fishing for three days to rest my nerves," Mr. Kaplan said. "Of course, I had spent nearly a year studying the stone and preparing for its cutting. It was like a difficult engineering problem and a difficult surgical operation combined."

Mr. Winston recalled that Joseph Asscher suffered a nervous breakdown after successfully splitting the famous Cullinan stone, only other great diamond ever cleaved.

Son Holds Wedge.

The cutting was done yesterday at Mr. Kaplan's office. Leo Kaplan held a wedge while his father struck it with a brass hammer. They were the only persons in the room.

"It will take many months to finish cutting and polishing the twelve stones to be made from the Jonker diamond," explained Mr. Kaplan. "The cleavage was just the first step, though the most hazardous. The stone is now in three pieces."

Eventually the twelve stones, the largest of which will be an emerald cut diamond weighing approximately 165 carats, will form a necklace or a jewelry set to be purchased by one client, Mr. Winston hopes. The diamond was split after he had failed to find a buyer for it as a single piece.

Unlike many diamond experts, Mr. Kaplan does not believe that the Jonker diamond, which was about the size of a hen's egg before it was split, is the missing part of the Cullinan stone. He considers the Jonker superior to the Cullinan.

The Jonker was found in 1934 by J. J. Jonker, an impoverished South African farmer. The Cullinan, found in 1905 also in South Africa, weighed 3,024¾ carats.

HAUPTMANN HAD ALL OF RANSOM, EXPERT INSISTS

$49,950 in Unexplained Assets Traced.

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—Bruno Richard Hauptmann collected every penny of the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom, spent or invested every penny of it himself and could have had no accomplices who shared the blood money.

With that conclusion, Hugh McQuillan, chief of the New York office of the bureau of internal revenue intelligence unit, in a report to Washington today, officially closed his part of the investigation.

The report, going into minute detail concerning Hauptmann's expenses and investments from the date of the ransom payment until the day of his arrest, said that during that period he had acquired $49,950.44 for which he could not account.

Reward Arbiter Named.

There was another aftermath of the famous case today when the New Jersey Court of Chancery was appointed sole arbiter in the disposition of the $25,000 reward offered in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping at a meeting of federal, New Jersey, and New York City law enforcement officials.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz, of New Jersey, one of the conferees, said members of the department of justice, the New Jersey state police, and the New York City police department will not be eligible for the reward.

McQuillan, discussing his report, said that in his opinion there is no possibility that any large amount of ransom money will even be found in one place.

Summarizes Finances.

The report, made to Elmer Irey, chief of the intelligence unit, in Washington, made the following summary of Hauptmann's finances covering the period between April 2, 1932, when the ransom was paid, and Sept. 19, 1934, when Hauptmann was arrested:

ARREST SCHULTZ IN BROOKFIELD'S $30,000 SHORTAGE

Fred A. Schultz, village collector of Brookfield from 1927 to 1934, was taken into custody yesterday at the state's attorney's office when exception was taken to his answers to questions about alleged irregularities involving $30,000 in special assessment funds collected by the village during the last three years of his term.

The alleged discrepancies were disclosed in an audit made public by John Bergman, president of the village, and Schultz was ordered to appear for questioning by Assistant State's Attorney Ben Nelson. With Schultz yesterday appeared his brother, Earl, an attorney.

Prosecutor Nelson said he would seek a warant today charging Schultz with embezzlement and would present the case before the grand jury. Since retiring from village office, Schultz has been working with his father in a real estate office in Brookfield.

Award Steel Contract for Randolph Viaduct

The Chicago Park board yesterday awarded contracts totaling $281,777 to Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, Inc., and the Oscar Daniels company for construction of the steel superstructure of the Randolph street viaduct across the Illinois Central tracks. According to William I. Bell, acting chief engineer of the park district, the work will start in about six weeks.

HOARD OF STOLEN JEWELS CACHED IN ATTIC FLOOR

CRIMINAL COURT.

Judson Parker, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Joseph Tumpis and Vernon Wagner, larceny of an automobile, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Denis J. Normoyle.

Suspicious that Louis Dyon, 30 years old, former convict, had not told all concerning the disposal of loot from 100 burglaries he confessed, Austin police yesterday ripped up the flooring in the attic of his home at 2521 Lexington street, and discovered a hoard of stolen jewelry. Included in the lot were 200 watches, and a number of bracelets, pendants, diamond rings, and ring settings.

In this attic Capt. George Lynch on Monday found many firearms and about $6,000 worth of clothing, radios, and other home furnishings.

A writ of habeas corpus was filed in behalf of Dyon yesterday and will be heard this morning by Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of the Criminal court. Held with Dyon for questioning are his brother, Clarence, and Louis' sweetheart, Miss Anne Schwartz, 30 years old, 2600 North Kedzie avenue.

Develops Blood Poisoning from Broken Blister; Dies

Mrs. Laura Filiptowski, 36 years old, 1805 North Hermitage avenue, died Sunday in the County hospital of blood poisoning which developed from a broken blister on one of her hands.

Charge Is Murder

Jane Scott, alias Jerry Cortez or Corley, was held to the grand jury on a charge of murder yesterday by the coroner's jury investigating the death of Arthur J. Hewitt, 59 years old, retired Wheaton contractor. Hewitt's body was found in an areaway at 3614 South Park avenue on April 18. The Scott woman, who admitted being with Hewitt on April 16, the day he last was seen alive, fled to Detroit in Hewitt's car and was found in jail there several days later. She testified yesterday that Hewitt incurred his fatal injuries in a fall, and denied having told friends that she had struck Hewitt on the head with a bottle.

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—A battle of alienists in the Nancy Titterton murder case became almost certain today when both state and defense obtained orders permitting psychiatric examination of the accused slayer, John Florenza.

The orders were signed by Judge Morris Koenig of General Sessions after he had adjourned for two days Florenza's arraignment on the indictment which charges that he raped Mrs. Titterton in her apartment at 22 Beekman place on Good Friday and left her to strangle to death in her bathtub.

CUTTEN INDICTED ON NEW CHARGE OF TAX EVASION

U. S. Claims $644,000 Total Overdue.

A second indictment charging Arthur W. Cutten, wealthy grain speculator, with evading payment of income taxes was returned yesterday in federal court before Judge James H. Wilkerson.

On March 10 Cutten was indicted on a charge of failure to pay $414,525 in income taxes for 1929. Government officials explained this indictment was rushed through just before the deadline for prosecution under the statute of limitations.

In the indictment returned yesterday the government charges the trader with attempting to evade income tax payments totaling $229,944 on his income for the years 1930 and 1933. Cutten, who was stricken with a heart ailment after Christmas, is convalescing in his apartment in the Drake hotel.

Tax Consultant Named.

Named with Cutten in both indictments is William E. Gatewood, tax consultant with offices at 141 West Jackson boulevard, a former revenue agent. He is charged with having aided Cutten in the alleged tax evasion.

Yesterday's indictment contains two counts. One count charges evasion of income tax payments of $171,364.91 for the year 1933 and the second count with evasion of $58,579.75 for the year 1930.

Cutten's income for 1930 was divided as follows, according to the government computations:

Dividends	$638,108.00
Profit on sales of real estate, stocks, bonds, etc.	121,753.58
Income from trust	5,463.85
Rents and royalties	3,346.47
Interest received	101,560.12
Director's fees	200.00
Chicago Perforating company	6,000.00

Losses were allowed of $114,031.16 from syndicates, $43,601.11 from a joint venture, and $15,949.53 from the operation of Cutten's farm.

By the government's computations Cutten's gross income for 1930 was $702,850.31 and the net income subject to tax was $334,598.76.

The Second Count.

In the second count of the indictment his income for 1933 is computed as follows:

Director's fees	$ 475.00
Interest received	4,791.76
Rents and royalties	2,723.11
Profit on sales of real estate, stocks, bonds, etc.	518,542.19
Dividends received	56,561.91
Income from trust	2,700.00

After subtracting $16,902.84 loss from the operation of his farm, the government charges that Cutten's gross income for 1933 was $568,891.13 and the net income, subject to tax, was $529,990.23.

Cutten posted a $35,000 surety bond under the first indictment after deputy marshals went to his bedside with the warant for his arrest. Evidence before the grand jury was presented by United States District Attorney Michael L. Igoe and his assistants, Austin Hall and E. Riley Campbell, after efforts at a compromise settlement failed.

Another indictment charging Edgar C. Terhune, president of the Terre Paper Box company, 1824 South Albert avenue, and Louis E. Squire, bookkeeper for the company, with attempting to evade payment of $2,327 in income taxes for the company for 1933 was also returned before Judge Wilkerson.

Blames Detective's Son for Role in Wendel Kidnaping

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—A promise by Ellis Parker Jr. to have him appointed to the New Jersey state police was given by Harry Weiss as his motive for helping to kidnap Paul H. Wendel, District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan said tonight when the fugitive, arrested in Youngstown, O., earlier in the day, was returned to Brooklyn.

Parker, the son of the Burlington county detective, who has been a lifelong friend of Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey, is still a fugitive, although three of the five men indicted with him are in custody. They are accused jointly of abducting Wendel, disbarred attorney of Trenton, N. J., and torturing him until he confessed falsely that it was he and not Bruno Richard Hauptmann who kidnaped Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

Bronx Woman Sought.

The detectives who have been seeking Weiss and Murray Bleefeld, a relative of two of the three young men in custody, for the past week, were led to his hiding place at Youngstown by his wife and her attorney, with the aid of an intermediary in Perth Amboy, N. J., Geoghan said. A Bronx woman, who Weiss said financed his flight from New York, is being sought for questioning.

Assistant District Attorney Francis A. Madden, former Magistrate Joseph Goldstein and Mrs. Weiss, who it was reported feared her husband might be slain to silence him if he remained a fugitive, flew to Cleveland yesterday afternoon. From there they drove to Youngstown, where Weiss was found and arrested.

On the train returning to New York, Madden said, Weiss discussed his part in the kidnaping of Wendel and told how he got mixed up in it.

Before questioning Weiss, who was taken directly to his office, Geoghan had a long conference with Madden. It was on this talk that he based his statement that Weiss had charged young Parker with using his supposed political "pull" to enlist his aid in abducting Wendel, whose last minute confession, which he at once repudiated, delayed Hauptmann's execution for three days.

Geoghan said Weiss consented to join in the kidnaping only after young Parker, a New Jersey state employé, temperarily assigned to the Lindbergh investigation, promised to reward him with a political job and assured him that he had nothing to fear from the authorities.

Young Parker was present several times at the house in the Sheep's Head bay neighborhood, where Wendel was held captive, Weiss declared, but never permitted himself to be seen by Wendel. Six "confessions" were obtained from Wendel by torture before Ellis Parker Jr. expressed satisfaction with the final draft, Weiss said, according to the district attorney.

Explains His Flight.

Weiss told Madden, according to the Kings county prosecutor, that on the night of the kidnaping he became afraid, but went ahead with his part of the plot after young Parker again reassured him.

Madden said he asked Weiss why he fled if he had faith in Parker's political power, and the returned fugitive explained that he lost his nerve when he read in a newspaper that Wendel's kidnapers could be punished by death.

Files Suit to Divorce Iron Artist Over Temperament

Mrs. Dorothy Harvey Keeler, 36 years old, 1814 North Park avenue, field suit for divorce on a charge of cruelty in Superior court yesterday against George Keeler, 51 years old, 347 Menomonee street, an artist who works in wrought iron. In her bill Mrs. Keeler says that her husband told her she was "not romantic enough to suit his artistic temperament." They were married on Aug. 4, 1925, and separated last Monday.

ETHIOPIAN RAIN BOGS ITALIANS IN SEA OF MUD

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMIES IN SOUTHERN ETHIOPIA, April 28.—(AP)—Heavy rains during the last two days, together with the necessity of resting troops exhausted in the Sasa Baneh offensive, forced the columns of Gen. Rodolfo Graziani to begin a few days' rest today.

Orders were sent to commanders of three columns to rest on their arms at the conquered positions they now hold.

The entire theater of operations near Sasa Baneh has been converted into a sea of mud by the unrelenting rain.

Weary Troops Bury Comrades.

Last night the weary troops, fagged to the point of sleeping on their feet, nevertheless mustered funeral processions and buried their comrades killed in the Sasa Baneh offensive.

The officers in command of the advancing Fascist troops described Ras Nasibu's Ethiopian warriors as "perfectly armed, rich in ammunition and supplies, splendidly instructed and commanded." In addition to this, Ethiopian prisoners say that Ras Nasibu's orders are to "resist until death on pain of death."

Despite the torrential downpours which are swelling the Fafan and Jerer rivers, the Italian engineering corps continued to work preparing a road for the final thrusts toward Sasa Baneh.

A 150 foot bridge, capable of bearing 24 tons, was thrust across the Jerer river in 19 hours. Another bridge was hastily constructed across the Fafan river in two hours.

The Italian officers are spending their temporary respite reorganizing their battalions and getting ready for a dash northward. The advance is expected to carry the Italian tricolor well on the road to Harrar, second largest city of Ethiopia.

Northern Army Marches On.

[Copyright: 1936: By the Associated Press.]

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMIES IN NORTHERN ETHIOPIA, April 28.—The motorized column of 30,000 Italian soldiers pushed its way southward toward Addis Ababa today through huge clouds of dust, with only one sharp engagement to impede its progress.

About 100 kilometers [62 miles] south of Dessye, a band of Ethiopian irregulars appeared from over the hills in the Doba region. Machine guns in the advance guard opened up, a brisk exchange of firing marred the calm of the countryside, and then the defenders fled, leaving fourteen dead behind. The column roared forward again.

Deggiac Burru Amedie, lord of the large Warra Hailu territory southeast of Dessye, who submitted to the Italians with 10,000 men, estimated today that half of the Ethiopian forces, which totaled 250,000 under arms at the start of the war, has been killed or wounded.

Predicts End of Opposition.

Amedie said 40,000 of Ras Mulagheta's 80,000 troops at Amba Aradam were either killed in that battle or by other Galla tribesmen since during retreats.

He said he hoped for roads, schools, prosperity and peace and predicted the opposition to the Italian invaders would be ended soon. He recalled the widely circulated Ethiopian native prophecy at Emperor Haile Selassie's coronation in 1929 that the ruler would rule for seven years and would not live long after he was deposed.

Every effort will be made to prevent the sacking of the capital before the Fascists arrive, as happened at Dessye.

The story is told here of how Asfa Wosan, Ethiopian crown prince, prepared three white flags and was ready to surrender at Dessye. When the first of the black shirted troops appeared in the distance he thought they were Ethiopian tribesmen who were bitter enemies and sure to kill him.

The crown prince rode frantically from Dessye on a small mule.

Ethiopian Warriors Flee.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, April 28.—Weary Ethiopian warriors, presenting a marked contrast to the fiery tribesmen who paraded before Emperor Haile Selassie on their way to the front last fall, began straggling into Addis Ababa today by the thousands from the northern front.

Many of them were wounded. The refugees, hobbling on bare feet and suffering from undernourishment and lack of water, were placed in a large camp outside the town.

"We can fight the Italians," said one, "but God looked the other way when brother ate brother [referring to revolts in tribes] and gas surrounded us day and night."

REPORT DECLINE OF 9 PER CENT IN AUTO DEATHS

Figures Announced by Safety Council.

Nation-wide efforts to reduce the trafic death toll have resulted in a drop of 18 per cent in fatalities throughout the country for March and a decrease of 9 per cent for the first quarter of 1936 over the same period last year, the National Safety council announced yesterday.

This decrease means a saving of 650 lives in the first quarter of this year, according to the council figures. The death toll in the quarter was 6,850.

During the month of March Chicago's motor toll dropped from 62 in 1935 to 52 in 1936. Over the three months, however, the saving this year was only four lives, the total of 181 trafic deaths placing Chicago eleventh in the automobile death list in cities of more than 500,000 population.

Illinois ranked the lowest among states, with a decrease of only 4 per cent. South Dakota, with 61 per cent, led the field of the 27 states submitting reports.

No Deaths in Brockton, Mass.

Evanston, three times winner of the national award of the safety council, was 15th among the cities of 50,000 to 100,000 population. Brockton, Mass., had no fatalities and led this group. The largest city in the country to pass the first three months without a death was Springfield, Mass., which has a population of 153,000.

"Although accident totals for the entire country show a decline in the first three months of the year, the improvement for cities only is even more striking," the council announcement stated. "The reporting cities reduced fatalities an average of 24 per cent in the month of March and 15 per cent during the first three months."

No Deaths During Day.

No automobile deaths were reported to the coroner's office during the 24 hours ending at 4 p. m. yesterday. The number of persons killed in Cook county since Jan. 1 stood at 308. In the same period 245 were killed and 4,911 injured within Chicago.

Allen Lankford, 16 years old, 126 Lathrop avenue, Forest Park, a student at the Proviso Township High school, whose automobile struck and killed a pedestrian two weeks ago, was fined $100 by Police Magistrate Michael Carmody of Oak Park on a charge of driving with faulty brakes.

The youth previously was exonerated by a coroner's jury of blame for the death of George W. Miller, 73 years old, 513 South Cuyler avenue, Oak Park, after witnesses said Miller walked into the side of the car. Lankford admitted the brakes on the car were defective.

Three Schoolboy Robbers Enter Joliet Penitentiary

The three schoolboy leaders of the youthful holdup gang who were convicted of robbery last Saturday and sentenced by Judge Robert C. O'Connell in the Criminal court to serve from one to twenty years in prison were among the eleven prisoners taken from the county jail to the Joliet prison yesterday. They are Kenneth Johanson, 16 years old; Kenneth Sievert, 17, and Dean Roberts, 17. Judge O'Connell put four other members of the band on probation.

QUESTIONNAIRE FOR HITLER IS DRAFTED BY EDEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 28.—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's draft of a questionnaire to Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany, which seeks a clarification of the latter's recent peace proposals, will be considered by the British cabinet tomorrow.

The document contains thirteen questions which the French government sent to London with a request that Capt. Eden pass them along to Hitler, as well as additional queries formulated here.

The questionnaire asks Hitler for further information on his demand for equality and his colonial intentions; on his proposal for separating the league of nations covenant and the Versailles treaty; whether the league covenant under the Hitler plan would have priority over his proposed bilateral nonaggression pacts and the attitude of Germany toward the proposed mutual assistance pacts; the meaning of the arbitration tribunal proposed by Hitler and what would be its bearing on The Hague court.

TORRIO FREED; JAILED AGAIN; FREED AGAIN

Wife Comes to Rescue with $104,000.

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—As perfunctorily as though she were paying the butcher, a serious faced woman opened her purse today and before two pop-eyed federal building clerks counted out $100,000 cash as bail for her notorious husband, Johnny Torrio, charged with attempting to defraud the government out of $250,000 in liquor revenue.

This did not assure the former Chicago gangster's ultimate freedom, however, because city detectives immediately arrested Torrio again on a charge of forgery.

No whit dismayed Mrs. Torrio set forth to raise the additional $4,000 needed to get her husband out of a Tombs cell, where he was placed after being rearrested. She produced the money in good time and tonight the Torrios were together in their White Plains home.

The forgery charge was based on a $1,500 note given last year to Samuel Borden, vice president of the Prendergast-Davies company, a liquor concern, by a man known to him as John McCarthy. The note purported to be signed by Jacob Oill, a furrier. When Mr. Oill was informed by his bank that the note had been presented for collection he said his signature had been forged.

Aware that Torrio sometimes used the name of John McCarthy, detectives showed Torrio's photograph to Borden and reported later he identified the picture as that of the man he knew as McCarthy.

OAK PARK FATHER SLAYS DAUGHTER, THEN KILLS SELF

Grief Over Wife's Death Blamed for Tragedy.

Peter Viviano, 64 years old, president of the Viviano Macaroni Manufacturing company at 2328 South Western avenue, shot and killed his daughter, Grace, 21 years old, in their home at 178 North Scoville avenue, Oak Park, yesterday. Then he ended his own life by firing a bullet into his right temple.

The tragedy, police were informed, was an outgrowth of Viviano's grief over the death of his wife, Antonette, five years ago.

Dies Before Wife's Portrait.

The bodies were found by Policemen Edward Plotter and Fred Krueger of Oak Park, who were sent to the home to investigate reports that Viviano had threatened to kill himself. Breaking into the locked house the policemen found Viviano dead in a chair in the front hall, facing an illuminated portrait of his dead wife. His right hand still held a pistol.

The daughter's body was found in her bed on the second floor. Three notes in Viviano's pockets, written in Italian, were addressed to other members of his family.

The policemen were sent to the Viviano home at the request of Attorney Louis J. Leo, 140 North Dearborn street, lawyer for the macaroni manufacturer. Leo notified Chief of Police Benjamin Barsema of Oak Park that he had received a letter from Viviano telling of his suicide plans.

Girl an Oak Park Graduate.

Grace was one of Viviano's five children. She was a graduate of the Oak Park High school, which is across the street from her home. At one time she attended the Notre Dame convent in Bourbonnais, near Kankakee.

The other children are Alphonse, 31 years old, vice president of his father's company, who was at work when the shooting occurred; a second son, Thomas; Mrs. Rose Cusimono, 4139 West End avenue, and Mrs. Lena Palazzolo of Cincinnati. Alphonse said that his father's business affairs were in good order.

Principals Urged to Aid Youth Exposition Here

William H. Johnson, superintendent of Chicago schools, sent a letter to all high school principals yesterday urging their coöperation with the Exposition of Youth, which opens next Tuesday night at the International Amphitheater, 43d and Halsted streets. Saturday, May 9, has been set aside as "Schools day" and arrangements have been made for special fares on the elevated lines for groups of ten or more students who wish to attend.

HINT OF POLICE SPY IN FLORIDA FLOGGING CASE

Bartow, Fla., April 28.—(AP)—Intimations that the Tampa police department planted an informer in the ranks of the Modern Democrats, three members of which were flogged and tarred and feathered last Nov. 30, were introduced by the prosecution today at the trial of seven former policemen in connection with the floggings.

Testimony developed that J. A. McCaskill, a city fireman, attended the meeting of the Modern Democrats which the police raided without a warant, that he was taken to headquarters with the others who were rounded up, that he was docketed with them but that his name later was scratched out of the book and that of "O. R. Sauls" substituted.

Four members of the coalition political organization who already have appeared as state witnesses said they never saw McCaskill again after that night.

Prosecution attorneys indicated they expected to point to the circumstances as evidence proving a conspiracy to kidnap Eugene F. Poulnot, one of the flogging victims.

BRITAIN TO HIDE ART TREASURES IN EVENT OF WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 28.—London's war consciousness was revealed again today when William G. A. Ormsby-Gore, first commissioner of works, told the house of commons that plans are under review for the removal of important art treasures to "less vulnerable places" in event of war.

During the world war art possessions were hidden in a never used subway station at South Kensington and in uncompleted parts of the post-office tube railway.

Now the only safe places are outside of London, according to an official of the works office. Secrecy is maintained which parts of the country are considered safe.

LANDON BACKERS SHUN CALIFORNIA DELEGATE SLATE

Prefer Uninstructed Group to Win.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 28.—[Special.]—California is now gyrating through a dizzy closing week of the Republican presidential campaign over the state's 44 delegates to the G. O. P. national convention at Cleveland in June.

At the core of the whirlwind is Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas. At the primaries next Tuesday the contest is between an "uninstructed, unfettered" slate of delegates and a Landon delegate slate put in the field by W. R. Hearst and Gov. Frank Merriam of Longbeach. Political anomalies fill the situation. In the final days a question shrieked all over the state is: "Who are Landon's real friends?"

No Formal Entry.

The budget-balancing Kansas governor has never avowed his candidacy. Landon's attitude towards the Hearst-Merriam slate is described in the literature of the regulars as "he neither affirms nor repudiates it." Regular Republicans, backing the "uninstructed" slate, declare that "true friends of Landon" are among members of this slate, but under no pledges.

"Are you handcuffed by Hearst and muzzled by Merriam?" is the caption of the literature of the "uninstructed delegate." "Or," it continues, "are you independent, Progressive, California Republicans?"

In the closing days facsimiles have been published all over the state showing Hearst listed as a registered Democratic voter in New York City.

The Hearst-Merriam foray has led the original Landon for President Club of California to issue an appeal for support of the "uninstructed" slate of delegates instead of the Hearst-Merriam slate pledged to Landon. This club, first of its kind organized outside of Kansas, has been active for Landon since last June. It says it fears Landon might be "sold out."

Fears Personal Motives.

In a resolution put out some ten days ago this original Landon club said:

"This organization believes that improper pressure was placed upon Gov. Landon by the Hearst-Merriam forces in their attempts to further their personal plans at the expense of both Gov. Landon and the Republican party.

"This organization believes thoroughly in the honor, the integrity, and the outstanding character of the men and women composing the so-called uninstructed delegation, but is not entirely satisfied with certain of the delegates on the so-called Landon ticket nor with the forces which brought that ticket into being.

"This organization also wishes to avoid any possibility of having Gov. Landon's candidacy sold out as Garner was sold out in California four years ago.

"The Landon for President club advises its friends and the true friends of Gov. Landon in California that, in its opinion, Gov. Landon's cause, as an outstanding American and as an outstanding candidate for the Republican nomination, would best be served by supporting the uninstructed delegation, a very large proportion of which is known to be personally friendly to Gov. Landon.

"This action is taken in the belief that principles must always come before political expediency."

Nominally Pledged to Chairman.

The "uninstructed" delegation is nominally pledged to Earl Warren, Republican state chairman. This is in order to simplify the voting under the primary act. If he wins next Tuesday, Warren is then to release the delegates, and on the first ballot at Cleveland next month each member is to vote "as his conscience dictates"—for Landon, Borah, Knox, Dickinson, or any one else.

After Senator William E. Borah disavowed his candidacy in this state the Borah groups and some of the original Landon men joined with regular Republican groups to formulate a delegate ticket that would represent "all constructive elements and be free to act in the best interests of the nation and party" at the Cleveland convention. Gov. Merriam had refused to coöperate, as he had insisted on having a delegation pledged to him for President to be released at Cleveland only upon his consent.

If the Hearst-Merriam slate of delegates pledged to Landon wins, the supposition is that Merriam is to be allowed to name the next national committeeman and committeewoman.

Merriam is also understood to have personal ambitions towards the presentation of his name as a candidate for vice presidential nomination at Cleveland.

FIVE LOCAL GOVERNMENTS CUT DEBT 6 MILLION

The total debt liabilities of the five major local governments in Cook county reveal a decrease of more than 6 million dollars during the first quarter of the 1936 fiscal year, a comparison of debt statements discloses.

Combined debt statements of the city of Chicago, the board of education and the sanitary district on March 31, 1936, and the park district and county on Feb. 29, 1936, show total outstanding liabilities of $601,466,369, compared with $607,716,419 at the end of the 1935 fiscal year. March 31 statements of the park district and county are not yet available. The fiscal year of the local governments ends Dec. 31, except the county's, which ends Nov. 30.

The five statements show tax warant indebtedness reduced by $8,177,182; bonded debt trimmed by $2,508,304, and floating debt increased by $4,435,436. The net reduction is $6,250,050.

Operating Costs Go Up.

The reduction in total debt during the three month period follows a decrease of approximately 50 million dollars in the full year 1935. As in 1935, however, the reduction in the first quarter of the year was possible because of unusual circumstances and occurred despite increased operating appropriations in most cases.

The greatest reduction took place in retirement of tax anticipation warants which were outstanding in the amount of $131,997,178 on the latest statement dates compared with $140,174,360 at the end of the fiscal year, a decrease of $8,177,182. This reduction was possible chiefly because of the payment of delinquent taxes during a special drive this winter and because of collections of 1934 real estate taxes just before the second penalty date, Feb. 1.

Increases Expected Soon.

With no penalty dates occurring on either real or personal property taxes until next September, it is logical, say tax analysts, to expect a sharp increase in debt in the next two quarters. Light tax collections will permit retirement of only small amounts of warants and new warants will have to be sold to obtain funds for salaries and other operating expenses. Two of the local governments already have sold substantial amounts of warants since last March 31.

During the first quarter of 1936 the board of education arbitrarily wrote down the liability on its tax anticipation warants by $4,768,000. An official explained that the liability on approximately $10,000,000 of 1929 warants was written down by this amount as result of a decision of the Illinois Supreme court which held last year that tax warants could be paid only from collections of taxes pledged against the warants, that is, the taxes of that one year.

$5,000,000 More Warants Sold.

The school board estimates that collections of 1929 taxes will fail to meet the amount of warants against them by $4,768,000. While this write-down might be taken as an offset to the decrease in debts of the local governments, the school board has more than 5 million dollars on hand as the proceeds of the sale of warants in the first quarter.

Cook county tax warant liability includes accrued interest on the paper, that government being the only one which figures accrued interest on warants.

While a substantial reduction was recorded in tax warants and bonded debt was cut by $2,508,304 in the early months of 1936, there was a sharp increase in floating debt liabilities of the local governments. Total floating debt rose $4,435,436, from $26,498,810 to $30,934,246.

Unpaid bills and pay rolls rose $4,555,428, while judgments and other indebtedness making up the balance of floating debt showed a slight drop. Municipal finance authorities expect a substantial increase in unpaid bills during the balance of 1936.

The changes in debt obligations during the first quarter of the 1936 fiscal year [except for the park district, which is for two months] is shown in the following consolidation of the five debt statements:

	End of quarter.	Start of quarter.
Tax warants	131,997,178	140,174,360
Floating debt	30,934,246	26,498,810
Total debt	$601,466,369	$607,716,419

The city was the only one of the five units to show a big decrease in debt during the quarter and accounted for most of the total decrease. Total debt of the city was approximately $5,700,000 smaller at the end of the quarter, due to retirement of tax warants and bonded debt.

Consideration of cash held by the various bodies would show a further reduction in debt but these reductions are largely offset by other factors.

Following are comparative debt statements for each of the five local governments:

IERC EXTENSION TO JULY 1 VOTED BY LEGISLATURE

Assembly to Raise Funds for Two Months.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 28.—[Special.]—An extension of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission until July 1, with full powers to administer relief throughout the state, was approved tonight by both houses of the Illinois general assembly. The vote in the senate was 35 to 6. In the house the vote was 117 to 1.

Gov. Horner has indicated he will sign the measure, and it was being prepared tonight for his signature and those of Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan and Speaker John P. Devine. When it bears these the relief commission will be in a position to rescind its order shutting the doors of all its stations at the close of business Thursday.

Assembly to Raise Funds.

The IERC will have funds, according to its estimates, to finance relief budgets for about ten days in May. Meanwhile, perhaps this week, the legislature will have raised money in some manner for expenditure by the commission during May and June.

After July 1 the city of Chicago and townships in the remainder of the state will levy taxes for and administer relief under bills recently adopted. This tax is 30 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation, and is part of a program fostered by the Illinois Agricultural association and downstate legislators.

Tonight this downstate farm bloc gained final passage of a bill that is the remainder of this program. This measure, which now goes to the governor for signature, would deprive Chicago or the townships from any sales tax relief money unless the full amount of the relief property tax has been levied.

After passage of the IERC extension bill, Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the commission, announced he would inform the governor in the morning that if the bill is signed he will immediately issue a cancellation of the closing order.

Raise Tax Rate Limit.

In the house the bill with Chicago backing to appropriate $6,000,000 for relief from the state general revenue fund for May and June was amended to call for only $4,000,000 after it failed of passage at the higher figure.

The governor's forces won again in sending to the passage stage the bills to create 102 relief districts in the state, with power to levy taxes and issue bonds without a referendum for relief. The limit on the tax rate was raised from 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation to 50 cents.

Whether relief is under counties or townships after July 1, the money raised by property taxes will be supplemented by the one cent of sales tax diverted to relief. A bill to increase this to 1½ cents was sent to the passage stage in the house, which would mean that three instead of two millions of sales tax money would go to relief each month.

MRS. HARRIMAN'S CONTEST BARRED AS MAIL LOTTERY

Group Aided by Son of Al Smith Named.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Contests aided by Mrs. Oliver Harriman, New York society leader, and Alfred E. Smith Jr. were barred from the mails as "lotteries" today in orders signed by Postmaster General Farley.

The orders were directed against the National Conference for Legalizing Lotteries, Inc., of which Mrs. Harriman is president, and the Golden Stakes Advertising company, of which young Smith is vice president and counsel.

An earlier order, barring the Grand National Treasure Hunt from the mails, is before a District of Columbia court now on appeal, and lawyers for the contests indicated the two new orders also would be challenged in the courts.

Mail to Go Back to Sender.

Karl A. Crowley, postoffice department solicitor, wrote the findings on which the orders were based. Under them, mail to the two organizations will be stamped "fraudulent" and returned to the sender.

No charges of fraud were directed against Mrs. Harriman's group, however, and postoffice officials explained that the "fraudulent" stamp is just a postoffice form used against lotteries and frauds alike.

According to the postoffice department's complaint the national conference organization was set up to collect, through research work, vital facts and data to determine if legalizing of lotteries could solve the problem of raising relief and charity funds without demoralizing individuals.

Charge Simulation of Name.

In the Golden Stakes case, Crowley ruled that both the postal fraud and lottery statutes had been violated. The contest was charged with "simulating" the name and tickets of a foreign lottery.

Reviewing the conference's contest, in which, he said, "Adventurers" were asked to arrange in order 16 proposed uses for the proceeds from legalized lotteries, Crowley said:

"This scheme bears a close resemblance, upon examination, to the well known 'numbers' game."

The Golden Stakes group conducted a cartoon naming contest, in which the contestant was to apply the name of a song to each of eight cartoons.

Prepare To Fight Ruling.

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Oliver Harriman, president of the National Conference for Legalizing Lotteries, Inc., announced tonight that her organization would take steps in the courts to reassert its right to use the mails.

Northerly Island Beach Will Be Used by Public

The Chicago Exposition Authority yesterday awarded use of the 14th street beach on Northerly Island in Burnham park to the Chicago park district for a public bathing beach this summer. According to Walter L. Gregory, president of the authority, temporary beach facilities and parking arrangements are to be furnished by the park district. The beach is included in the area allotted to a permanent lake front fair and will revert to the authority when needed, Mr. Gregory said. An opening date for the beach has not been set.

HUNT GANG OF INDIANA BANDITS FOR SHOOTING POLICEMAN TO DEATH

Indianapolis, Ind., April 28.—[Special.]—A gang that may be as dangerous as John Dillinger's desperadoes was being sought in Indiana and nearby states tonight for the cold blooded slaying of an Indianapolis policeman.

The bandits, their number undetermined, escaped amid a flurry of bullets that spattered against south side homes and cars last night after killing Sergt. Richard Rivers, 44 years old. Driving west out of Indianapolis, they set fire to their two cars, apparently to obliterate finger prints and other clews.

The policeman was shot to death without warning as he started to enter the office of Dr. E. E. Rose, who had been asked to attend a wounded man.

MRS. J. F. REEVE GOES TO RENO TO SEEK DIVORCE

Milwaukee, Wis., April 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Louise Falk Reeve, widely known socially here and in Chicago, has arrived at Reno, Nev., to establish a residence there preparatory to filing for divorce against Jay Frederick Reeve, Chicago lawyer, according to word received here. She has retained Attorney Thomas F. Ryan as counsel, but the latter said he was not in a position to discuss the matter at this time.

Mrs. Reeve is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Falk, 2239 North Terrace avenue, Milwaukee. The Reeves were married at the Falk home in River Hills 11 years ago. She is a member of the Junior league. The Reeves have two children, Frederick Falk Reeve, 9, and Peggy Sawyer Reeve, 7.

Clarence Falk, father of Mrs. Reeve, is secretary-treasurer of the Falk corporation, steel founders.

Mr. Reeve is a member of the Chicago law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin & Ellis. The Reeves' Chicago residence is at 1320 North State street.

AGED RIDICULED BY TOWNSEND, SAYS WITNESS

Called "Old Fossils" in Private, Probers Told.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 28.—(AP)—A congressional subcommittee witness, O. Otto Moore of Denver, Colo., a lawyer, testified today that Dr. Francis E. Townsend referred privately to his old age pension movement followers as "old fossils."

Moore was the first witness as the subcommittee opened hearings here in an investigation of the Townsend movement.

Moore said he and Frank Arbuckle of Los Angeles, western regional director of the movement, talked with Dr. Townsend in Denver last May.

"I protested to Dr. Townsend about his action in appealing for additional funds after the defeat of the congressional proposal [covering the Townsend plan]," Moore said.

Tells of Making Plea.

"I said something ought to be done to give the plan's supporters a true picture of the hopelessness of any immediate legislative success.

"'What do we care?' Dr. Townsend said. 'Those old fossils don't know what it is all about,'" Moore testified.

Moore declared "old fossils" was a term used frequently among leaders of the Townsend movement who gathered last year in Washington.

Says Money Was Pocketed.

Moore said he once saw Dr. Townsend opening mail in Washington, pocket currency from an envelope, and remark:

"Well, that old sister came through in great shape."

Moore asserted that Clements on one occasion remarked that "we don't care a damn about the old people."

Moore said Clements made the remark at last year's meeting of Townsend leaders in Washington in reply to a question by Mrs. W. M. Marshall of Colorado Springs, Colo., who had asked: "What are the old people going to do? They're expecting so much."

Clements was co-founder with Dr. Townsend of the old age pension movement. He recently severed his connections with the organization.

Moore was the first witness called by the subcommittee opening hearings here into the Townsend movement. He said at least $22,500 was raised to support the Townsend lobby in Washington last year.

False Testimony Alleged.

Detroit, Mich., April 28.—(AP)—Jack D. Leasia, discharged Michigan manager of the Townsend old age pension plan organization, was accused today by F. Manley Goldsberry, his successor, of testifying falsely at a congressional hearing conducted here yesterday by Representative Clare E. Hoffman [Rep., Mich.] into funds collected by the organization.

Leasia, who was discharged a month ago as state manager, testified that H. H. Schwinger, connected with the Chicago office of the Townsend organization, had commended his activity but cautioned him not to organize too rapidly because it was desired to "milk this cow" for at least two more years.

Admiral Downes in Naval Hospital in East with Flu

Rear Admiral John Downes, commandant of the Great Lakes Naval Training station and commander of the Ninth naval district, is ill with influenza in the Naval hospital in Washington, D. C., where he went April 16 on a business trip, his aid, Lieut. Thomas Wattles, announced yesterday.

RADIO STATION GIVES TIME TO HELP BOOST WPA TO POPULARITY

The donation of time by Station WCFL for ten broadcasts to aid the new publicity campaign of the Works Progress administration in Illinois was announced yesterday by Dr. Martin Hayes Bickham, administrative assistant who is official keynoter for the work program. Recently it was disclosed that motion pictures will also be used to win the public to the program.

Dr. Bickham delivered the first of the broadcasts last evening.

Charles E. Miner, acting state deputy administrator, announced that $2,000,000 additional funds had been promised for Illinois projects by Frederick R. Shanley, acting regional director. This will carry the program until some time between May 15 and May 30, he said.

Last evening at the La Salle hotel superintendents of west side sewer, demolition, and board of education projects of the Works Progress administration held a "get acquainted" meeting with state and district WPA officials. Present were H. K. Seltzer, director of the Chicago district; Louis Suhr, district engineer, and C. E. Miner, acting state deputy administrator.

LAWMAKERS GIVE N. J. IDLE HOPE OF RELIEF FUNDS

Trenton, N. J., April 28.—(AP)—Hope spread through the encampment of idle men and women in the New Jersey assembly chamber tonight that the legislature, after months of sidestepping the problem, would provide them with relief funds before the end of the week.

The little band that has lived in the chamber for a week in protest against failure of state authorities to provide new funds was encouraged by announcement that Republican majority members of the legislature would hold an all day conference tomorrow in an effort to agree on a relief tax program. The legislature will convene tomorrow night to consider any program evolved.

Legislative leaders conferring today agreed to push for passage of a relief administration measure which would return direct supervision to municipalities.

The leaders' conference failed to agree on the form the relief tax program would take, but there was strong sentiment to enact a measure would would produce sufficient revenue to care for the needy until the end of 1936.

DENY CHAPPLE HALL AT U. OF W.; RAPS GOVERNOR

Calls La Follette Radicals' Pal.

Madison, Wis., April 28.—[Special.]—John B. Chapple, Republican editor of Ashland, mentioned repeatedly as a logical candidate of that party for governor, denounced today the refusal of the use of a hall on the university campus for his speech against Gov. Philip La Follette.

The refusal, which according to announcement at the university was due to other programs for the halls, was denounced by Chapple as "a typical example of communistic intolerance for opposite opinion." He also described it as "another warning against the one sided freedom to be expected under a control exercised under such leadership as La Folletteism presents today."

Mr. Chapple will speak Friday night, May 1, at Eagles hall here, giving the talk he intended to give on the campus, where he said he was given "a run around." His subject will be "The La Follette Road to Communism." On Thursday night he will talk on "The Ghosts of La Follette's Banquet" and on Friday afternoon on "La Folletteism's Attack on Religion."

The militant Republican editor expressed delight today when he heard the University of Wisconsin Memorial union, dedicated to this state's men and women who served in all American wars, will not be used by communist students for an anti-war demonstration May 1. The new university football coach will be greeted there.

ABANDONS BORG PEACE EFFORTS; HEARING MAY 14

Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court yesterday gave up his efforts to reconcile George Marshall Borg, son of the chairman of the board of the Borg-Warner corporation, and his wife, Juanita, 19 years old.

The court on the motion of Mrs. Borg's attorney, Samuel Rinella, set May 14 as the date of a hearing on temporary alimony in Mrs. Borg's separate maintenance suit against her husband and father-in-law.

Immediately after yesterday's hearing Rinella accepted $250 on behalf of his client from Joseph Rosenberg, attorney for the younger Borg. The money was offered as temporary support for Mrs. Borg and her son, George Jr., 19 months old.

HITS CAMPAIGN FOR PENSIONS TO ALL VETERANS

Opponents of "Treasury Raids" Meet.

Raids on the public treasury by war veterans who have suffered no combat disabilities were assailed here yesterday by Donald A. Hobart of Bronxville, N. Y., national commander of the American Veterans' association which was organized to oppose such raids.

Mr. Hobart characterized the campaign to get service pensions for all war veterans, which was announced last Friday in Washington by a veterans' publication, as a menace to the nation.

"When a man comes out of the service of his nation unharmed," said Hobart, "he should be willing to regard himself as a civilian and ask for no preferential treatment. There is no vested right by which he may consider himself a charge upon the government for the rest of his life."

Opens Drive for Members.

His speech, delivered at a luncheon meeting in the Hotel Sherman opened a membership drive in the Chicago area, which has had a nucleus of the veterans' association for some time. A permanent field office was opened by the organization yesterday at 79 West Monroe street, with Albert Terry as field representative. Organization luncheons will be held here today, tomorrow and Friday.

The association was formed in September, 1932, at Chattanooga in protest against the bonus march on Washington. It now has 60 chapters throughout the nation with a membership of 13,000. All honorably discharged veterans are eligible for membership. The association opposed the prepayment of the bonus.

Predicts More Agitation.

Mr. Hobart predicted the agitation for service pensions for all veterans would increase during the coming months and would reach a climax at the coming conventions of the two largest veterans' organizations.

Local headquarters of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War yesterday announced the arrival of Marvin A. Harlan, national commander, from Washington to promote the organization's stand against a general pension for all veterans.

Little Mayor, 8, Weeps for Prisoners; 3 Freed

Santa Barbara, Cal., April 28.—(AP)—Ann Duncan Morrison, 8, temporary mayor of Santa Barbara under the National Youth week program, burst into tears today at sight of prisoners in the city jail and won release for three of them. She wanted to release all the prisoners, but Mayor E. O. Hanson suggested she confine her clemency to those held for misdemeanors.

TORNADOES KILL FOUR IN TEXAS, BUT RAINS ARE WORTH MILLIONS

Dallas, Tex., April 28.—(AP)—Tornadic winds slashed through southwest Texas today, killing four persons and injuring at least 12 as much needed rains soaked most of the state, the dust bowl area of Oklahoma and southern Louisiana.

As farmers and stockmen valued the rain at millions of dollars, twisters ravaged eastern Wharton county and a ranch six miles northwest of Rockdale, Tex., killing four colored persons.

Considerable damage was done in the affected areas. Two radio broadcasting stations were put out of commission at Houston, where some houses were wrecked.

Southern Louisiana reported general heavy rains, with high winds at Lake Charles and Jennings. Showers the past two days in Oklahoma boosted crop prospects.

In the Texas storm, several Wharton county residents were hurt. Wind demolished houses at Cuero. Louis Lindo and his five children were injured in the wreckage of their house, which burned.

COUNCIL SETS TAG DAY LIMIT AT 4 THIS YEAR

Chicagoans were assured yesterday by the city council finance committee staf that there will be no more than four tag days this year.

The Chicago Federation of Aged and Adult Charities, made up of agencies benefiting the aged, all indorsed by the Association of Commerce, will hold its annual tag day Monday. The annual Poppy day sale, under the auspices of four veterans' organizations, will be held Monday, May 25.

At the May 6 meeting of the council Ald. W. J. Orlikoski, chairman of the tag day committee, is expected to ask the council to grant a permit for the Federated Charities and Associated Charities to hold a tag day Sept. 14.

In October the Children's Benefit league, composed of children's agencies indorsed by the Association of Commerce, will hold its annual tag day.

Judge Grants Divorces to Wives of 2 Brothers

Two women were granted divorces from brothers by Judge Philip J. Finnegan in the Circuit court yesterday. One of the brothers is Anthony De Voney, whose wife, Josephine, 704 Reese street, was granted a decree on ground of desertion and $10 a week for the support of their four small children. The other is Frank De Voney, whose wife, Julia, 908 Belden avenue, was given a divorce on ground of cruelty and allowed $10 a week for herself and her daughter. Each sister-in-law testified for the other.

RAPE ATTEMPT SUSPECT SLAIN BY GEORGIA MOB

Royston, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—Lint Shaw, colored farmer, saved from mob action three times previously, was tied to a tree today and shot to death by a mob of forty men who abducted him from the Royston jail.

His bullet torn body was found at dawn, tied to a branch of a pine tree near the place where he was accused of attempting to rape two young white girls. The lynching occurred eight hours before Shaw was to have gone on trial for the crime.

The big, sullen farmer, who was 45 years old and weighed approximately 225 pounds, had been rushed to the little one story jail here for safekeeping only a few hours before the mob appeared. Night Police Chief W. A. Dickerson on guard alone, was easily overpowered by the mob, which smashed a cell lock and hurried Shaw away.

DENIES HE URGED TOWNSEND PLAN WORKER TO LOAF

H. H. Schwinger, a former official of the Townsend old age pension plan organization here, denied charges yesterday that he had warned another official of the organization that he was "going too fast" in building up a big organization. The charge was made by T. Leasia, former manager of the organization in Michigan, in testifying before a congressional committee at a hearing in Detroit Monday. Leasia testified that Schwinger had warned him "not to get this job done too fast; we want to milk this crowd for two more years."

Schwinger, who has not been connected with the organization since the beginning of April, said that he was still for the Townsend plan "100 per cent."

Killed by Infection After Cutting Toe with Razor

Libertino Scifo, 68 years old, 702 West 26th street, died yesterday in the County hospital of an infection in his right leg incurred when he cut his toe with a razor blade.

COURTNEY PUTS CIOLLARO CASE UP TO THE BAR

State's Attorney Courtney referred to the Chicago Bar association yesterday the request of the Chicago crime commission for an investigation of the release in 1927 on a writ of habeas corpus of Vincenzo Ciollaro from the Joliet penitentiary, where he was serving a life sentence for the murder of a woman in 1915.

Ciollaro's release from prison came to the attention of authorities recently when he applied for naturalization papers. It was disclosed that Judge Charles A. Williams in the Superior court granted the convict's release after the court had been misinformed of a technicality of the procedure in the original trial. Last March 31 Judge Williams expunged the writ and ordered Ciollaro returned to prison. In his ruling Judge Williams held that fraud had been perpetrated on the court. Ciollaro fled after his release and is being sought.

"There is more in this case than appears on the surface and an effort should be made to bring about its development," said the crime commission's letter.

At the time of his release and in the recent hearing Ciollaro was represented by W. G. Anderson, colored attorney.

'NEW DEAL' EDICT CLOSES SHOPS IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Critics of Commission Hit Blow to Business.

BY JOHN BROWNE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, April 28.—New opposition to the royal commission which now rules Newfoundland appeared today. It was aroused by the "shop act" which the commission of seven men, who are appointed by the British government and who hold all legislative and executive power, will put into effect May 2.

Under the provisions of this edict, every shop in St. John's except barber shops, drug stores, ice cream parlors and tobacco stores must be closed from 6:30 p. m. to 8:30 a. m.

Called "Looney Legislation."

Opponents of the commission form of government denounced this as "looney legislation." It proves, they contend, that the commission plans to regulate private business and to create an extensive burocracy, and that it has failed to do what it was intended to do—establish new industries to give jobs to the idle, rehabilitate the fishing industry, upon which 120,000 persons are dependent, and correct the results of venal politics, alleged graft, and over-borrowing.

Newfoundland surrendered its dominion status and its 81 year old self rule on Feb. 15, 1934, in exchange for which Great Britain assumed general responsibility for Newfoundland government finances and the $100,000,000 public debt. This was done upon the suggestion of a royal British commission which studied conditions in Newfoundland in 1933.

Critics charge that the commission has made no more progress toward remedying economic circumstances than did the old government. They cite the fact that 75,000 of the island's 316,000 people are still on relief, and that the fishing industry is still in difficulties despite the expenditure of $713,000 of government money in addition to what was spent on an extensive schooner building program.

Hit Control of Fisheries.

The critics are bitter over the recent creation of a statutory authority for fishery control, which consists of three appointive members with wide powers. This they believe to be a forerunner of ultimate nationalization of the fishing industry.

Fish exporters, who object to the prospect of relinquishing control of their own businesses, saw a hint of nationalization in the recent warning of the new governor, Vice Admiral Sir Humphrey Thomas Walwyn, that "cut throat" methods of marketing salt codfish must stop.

[Sir Humphrey was directed by the late King George V. of England to make a personal report on what is the matter in Newfoundland. He arrived at St. John's in January.]

Statistics show that in 1935 a total of 35,000 persons were engaged in cod fishing. Because of low prices, their annual earnings did not exceed $70 each. In a recent speech, Sir John Hope Simpson, commissioner of natural resources, admitted that the fisherman is no better off than he was in 1932.

Expenditures on Increase.

Since the commission assumed power expenditures have increased. The total ordinary revenue for the 1934-'35 fiscal year was about $9,556,000 and total expenditure $11,634,000. The deficit was made good by a grant-in-aid from the British treasury, which is to stand deficits for the first three years under commission control. Taxpayers are asking who will pay the deficit when these grants-in-aid end.

Under the commission the police force has been trebled and a body of rangers modeled after the Canadian "mounties" has been created. The number of retired government officials on pensions has increased 100 per cent. Recently the commission took away the pension of a 92 year old fisherman [the pensionable age is 75] under the ruling that the $50 annual pension shall not be paid to one who in his life has saved $250.

An experiment at turning underprivileged unemployed persons into selfsupporting citizen farmers has been carried on for more than two years at a community settlement named Markland, fifty miles from the capital. About 100 persons have been given land and materials to build houses and the probable cost to date is not less than $250,000.

Albion, Ia., April 28.—[Special.]—After seventy years as a bone dry city, Albion has a new beer tavern. City fathers set a license fee so high they thought it would never be met, but were forced to issue a permit this week.

We would be interested in learning the origin and meaning of the word "Maru." B. T.

It is attached as a general suffix to the names of virtually all the Japanese merchant vessels and is an internationally recognized symbol of the Japanese mercantile marine. Associated with that country's navigation history since that history began, its true meaning has been lost in antiquity. Scholars have held varying views as to its derivation. Perhaps the most likely theory is that the word, meaning perfection, was brought into use as a term for precious treasures of the household.

KING AGREES TO SAVE ENGLAND $779,500 IN PAY

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 28.—The house of commons will grant King Edward's request for $200,000 a year for his future queen but it won't begin to pay the money until he marries. The provision for the hypothetical queen and $125,000 for an infant heir to the throne is included in the new civil list worked out by a committee, and submitted to the house today. As long as the king remains a bachelor, however, there will be a total saving to the nation of $779,500 a year and the monarchy will become a cheaper luxury than it has been for many years.

At the king's own suggestion he will not use a penny of the privy purse of $550,000 annually to which he is entitled. Instead he will spend the revenues of the duchy of Cornwall amounting to $520,000 a year, which he received while prince of Wales and which he will continue to receive until a new duke of Cornwall is born.

Out of them he intends to pay $125,000 in an additional annuity to his brother, the duke of York, heir presumptive to the throne, and use the remainder for himself. On paper the new civil list will be $2,165,500 which is $184,500 cheaper than the allowance to the late King George V.

GIRL AND ESCORT ROBBED.

INCREASED OCEAN TRAVEL SEEN IF RAIL FARES FALL

Eastern Roads Hold Up New Rate Plan.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

A decided increase in travel from the middle west to Europe is expected this summer by steamship agents in Chicago—provided the eastern railroads cut basic passenger fares from 3.6 cents to 2 cents a mile, as ordered by the interstate commerce commission.

The commission order, issued on Feb. 28, requires that the lower fares be put in effect on June 2. Nearly all the eastern carriers, however, have protested the cut and it was announced yesterday that they intend to ask the courts for injunctions to void the order. The Baltimore and Ohio is the one road that has accepted the proposed rearrangement willingly, its officials even advocated the order before its issuance.

Would Cut Pullman Charges.

Round trip fares from Chicago to New York are now $49.05, and the Pullman charges are additional. The new order would make the rail fare 3 cents a mile in Pullman coaches, 2 cents in day coaches, and the Pullman charges would be reduced one-third.

W. B. Calloway, general passenger trafic manager of the B. & O., said that the western and southern railroads had found the lower rates advantageous. In the west last year the carriers increased their passenger business 25 per cent, while those in the east had only a slight gain.

Low Fares Help Set Record.

It was pointed out that the adoption of the new western fare standard at the beginning of the 1935 vacation season helped to send 3,500,000 persons, a record, to the national parks in the Rockies, the Sierras, and the southwest.

An example of the difficulties heretofore faced by steamship and travel agents in Chicago was given yesterday by James F. Nolan, district manager of the French line. On one of last winter's cruises of the Mexique from New Orleans to the ports of the Caribbean, he said, there were more passengers from this area than for any of the French line's West Indies cruises out of New York. He ascribed this to the fact that Chicagoans could get to and from the gulf coast much more cheaply than to and from the east coast. He predicted that with the cut in the costs between here and New York there would be a noticeable surge in ocean travel on the part of middle westerners.

New Lures for Tourists.

That the states lying west of Chicago are prepared to take full advantage of their low railroad rates and of the resultant interest of travelers in that part of the country was related here yesterday by C. E. Danielson of Minot, N. D., vice president of the Pacific Northwest Tourist association. He said that group, representing the area between the Dakotas and British Columbia, is planning to attract the vacationists as never before.

"This year the railroads, bus lines, airways, steamship companies and resort sections will spend $720,000 in advertising their scenic attractions," Mr. Danielson said. "They are going to tell the world that in the states and provinces lying between the Missouri river and the Pacific ocean there is more diversity of scenery, and more magnificent scenery, than can be found anywhere else on earth.

"Our territory includes an endless variety of mountains, valleys, national parks, national forests, glaciers, geysers, dude ranches, wild animals, rivers, lakes, beaches, and agricultural and engineering projects. We have more good fishing streams and hunting grounds, and more places to go to and things to see than all the rest of the country combined.

"All these are now available to the tourist, and we anticipate that they will be visited this summer in record numbers."

The Pacific Northwest association was formed last year to coördinate the tourism activities of Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, North and South Dakota, Alberta, and British Columbia. Ray W. Clark of Seattle is president and Mayor David Leeming of Victoria is honorary vice president. Backers of the movement insist that the nine states and provinces are destined to become the world's greatest playground.

JAPAN CELEBRATES 35TH BIRTHDAY OF EMPEROR HIROHITO

TOKIO, April 29.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Emperor Hirohito of Japan, who controls the destinies of 100,000,000 subjects, celebrated his 35th birthday today. A holiday was observed throughout the Japanese empire.

The usual brilliant military review accorded to the emperor on his birthday was canceled because the nation is considered still in a state of emergency as an aftermath of the rebellion of Feb. 26.

Ancient rites, beginning with a palace celebration this morning, were carried out with the usual solemnity, in three sanctuaries.

Martial law restrictions were lifted temporarily to permit a parade to the ruler's palace.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

HAMILTON, Bermuda, April 28.—Between 9 and 10:30 o'clock last night residents of many parts of Bermuda noticed houses shaking so hard that windows rattled. Today the Royal Gazette and Colonist Daily, Bermuda's oldest newspaper, reported them as earth tremors. The last time a tremor was felt here was eight years ago. But today the real cause of the "shocks" was revealed to have been nothing more than gunnery practice offshore by four ships of the America-West Indies squadron of the British navy.

FIND MAN'S BODY IN RIVER.

The body of an unidentified man about 50 years old was taken from the Chicago river at Division street and Elston avenue yesterday.

TWO SISTERS SUE FOR STORE WAGE FIXED IN WANT AD

Charge Merchant with Misrepresentation.

A suit for wages was filed in the Municipal court yesterday by Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin and Ellis, attorneys for THE TRIBUNE, in behalf of the Misses Mildred and Marie Maier, 732 Bittersweet place, against Max J. Lazan, 7810 Colfax avenue, owner of a millinery store at 6404½ South Halsted street. The sisters alleged that Lazan had refused to pay the wages he stipulated in a want ad which appeared in THE TRIBUNE on Saturday, April 4.

Lazan's advertisment called for thoroughly experienced millinery saleswomen for extra work during the week preceding Easter and offered $7 a day wages. The Misses Maier, both of whom have had experience in loop stores, called Lazan by telephone on Saturday night, arranged for an interview on Monday, were hired and started work on Tuesday, April 7. They worked every day through Saturday, April 11.

Paid $15 Instead of $35.

On the evening of Friday, April 10, the complaint alleges, the sisters asked Lazan if he could advance each of them $17.50, one-half of the wages stipulated in the advertisment for working through Saturday. The proprietor then told them, they charge, that he intended to pay them at the rate of $3 a day. On the following day, the suit declares, he handed them $15 each as payment in full for the five days worked instead of the $35 offered in the advertisment.

The sisters called this to the attention of representatives of THE TRIBUNE. An investigation disclosed that Lazan had advertised on several previous occasions, beginning last January, and that none of his advertisment prior to the one which appeared April 4, had stipulated the salary to be paid.

Call $3 a Day Low Pay.

Both the Misses Maier, who have appeared in several radio dramatic skits, stated they would not have accepted employment in the store at the wage of $3 a day, because that sum is considered low for extra work for millinery saleswomen during rush seasons.

The sisters in their suit demand $20 each to bring the payment up to the amount stipulated in the advertisment.

St. Charles Man Is Found Shot to Death in Garage

Louis Raymond Jensen, 23 years old, 919 Second street, St. Charles, was found shot to death yesterday in the garage of a neighbor, Edward Johnson, where he kept his automobile. A pistol was found nearby. Police were told Jensen had been brooding over ill health.

TEST NORMANDIE; OVERHAULED TO CUT VIBRATIONS

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, April 28.—The Normandie will not surrender the blue ribbon of the Atlantic to the Queen Mary without a struggle. If the French liner loses the title this season, her power will be increased next winter and she will make an effort to regain the honors, it is declared.

After six months in drydock, the Normandie left Havre tonight for a test cruise off shore. She has been completely overhauled and in large part reconstructed since she left the service last fall. The principal aim of the builders has been to eliminate vibration and these will be the first tests for that, but at the same time speed tests will be conducted to make certain that the ship has not lost her ability to set record runs.

The changes made in the liner include the installation of new propellers, considerably larger and of a different design than the old ones. They will reach top speed with a smaller number of revolutions. The whole rear part of the vessel has been strengthened internally and a system of shock absorbers has been introduced. In addition a whole section of the ship formerly composed of saloons has been transformed to increase the number of tourist accommodations.

DOOLITTLE SETS SPEED RECORD ON FLIGHT SOUTH

CutsChicago-NewOrleans Time 1 Hr. 37 Minutes.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., April 28.—[Special.]—Maj. Jimmy Doolittle, flying a new Chicago and Southern airliner, today set a speed record between Chicago and New Orleans, covering the 826 mile route in five hours and 58 minutes elapsed time. The flight, a test for new equipment which May 1 will begin carrying passengers and mail, was accomplished in one hour and 37 minutes less than the previous record.

The entire trip was made against headwinds which ranged in velocity from 35 to 50 miles per hour. Not until the plane was over Lake Pontchartrain, the brackish body of water just north of New Orleans, did the winds die. Even so, the ground speed average for the flight was 155 miles an hour.

Ship Climbs to 9,000 Feet.

Before the takeoff from the Chicago airport weather reports had arrived from St. Louis and Memphis warning that cloud levels were low—in some places being less than 500 feet—and that surface winds indicated there would be no help from this source.

Plotting his course in advance Maj. Doolittle and his co-pilot, William Fry, decided to fly at 9,000 feet on a compass course for Memphis, ignoring the radio beacons which would have led them to Springfield and St. Louis, a longer route. Immediately after departure the climb began and within five minutes the little twin motored ship was among towering masses of cumulus clouds, pitching in the rough air.

"We're bucking a 35 mile an hour wind," Doolittle reported to the company's ground stations after checking his airspeed of 180 miles an hour against points on the ground which were glimpsed through holes in the clouds.

Clouds Thin for Awhile.

Soon the wind increased to 45 miles an hour and, climbing again, Doolittle took the plane to 11,000 feet, just under a second layer of windblown cirrus clouds. Here the wind was found to be gusty and the pilots returned to the 9,000 foot level.

Near Cairo, Ill., the clouds thinned and the Mississippi and Ohio rivers became visible winding below. Soon, however, the sky again filled with clouds and the pilots began flying by instrument through thick gray vapor and rain squalls. Three hours and 15 minutes out of Chicago the ship dropped through a cloud layer at 1,500 feet and dove across Memphis airport.

Extra Gas Taken On.

Taking aboard an extra supply of gasoline as insurance against bad weather reported to be over the 171 miles between Jackson, Miss., and New Orleans, the flight was continued.

Even stronger winds were met. After climbing to 6,100 feet the pilots found a 60 mile an hour headwind and returned to lower levels, flying just under the cloud level and 900 to a 1,000 foot altitude in extremely rough air, churned up by the rolling red hills, partially covered by the typical southern pine forests below.

Increased Speed Noted.

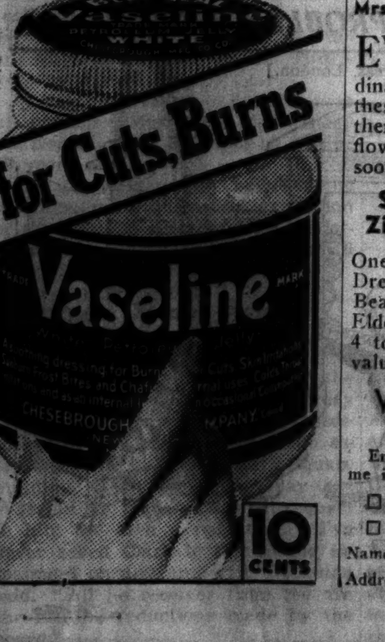
Once more the clouds thinned out, the winds dropped, and passengers could notice the increased speed with which the trees whipped by as the wind shifted from out of the south to the east and dropped to less than five miles an hour. The lights of New Orleans showed over the edge of Lake Pontchartrain just at dusk.

Upon landing it was learned that Chicago and Southern's regular flight in a tri-motor high wing monoplane which had left Chicago five hours earlier than the record breaking ship had landed only 15 minutes before.

Beginning Friday, Chicago and Southern airlines will begin flying the route of today's air journey upon a regular schedule of 6 hours 45 minutes, with two daily round trips in each direction. This is three hours less than the present regular schedule and the shortest travel time ever offered the public between the great lakes and the gulf.

Manufacturer, Missing 11 Years, Declared Dead

Sverre M. Paulsen, Cleveland manufacturer who vanished on July 2, 1924, was declared yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the Probate judge, to be legally dead. Accordingly, $2,500 insurance on Mr. Paulsen's life will be paid to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Agnes Rathunde of 3116 North Knox avenue, who brought the petition for adjudication of death, and to his brother-in-law, Carl Swanson, a patient in the Speedway veterans' hospital. Mr. Paulsen's widow, Mary, died in Chicago in 1930.



QUAKE TERRIFIES WEST CHINA AREA, ALREADY RAVAGED BY FAMINE

CHUNGKING, Szechwan Province, China, April 28.—(AP)—A heavy earthquake today terrified residents of Szechwan province, already in the grip of a famine with an estimated 10,000,000 to 30,000,000 facing death or already dead.

The quake did little damage here but greatly alarmed the population. Damage in remote sections, however, was undetermined. The shock was believed to have extended throughout West China. It followed one on Monday which shook Tachienlu, on the Tibetan border, and which was the worst recorded in many years.

Once peaceful peasants have joined soldiers in resorting to violence to obtain food for themselves and their families. Bands of armed men are combing the countryside, terrorizing and killing.

Chinese newspapers said some of the victims of maddening hunger are resorting to cannibalism and that other starving parents are selling their children.

American missionary doctors said millions of Chinese are suffering "deficiency" diseases which would inevitably kill them.

Conditions in Honan, a province of central China, were said to be worse than at any time since 1920.

Three banks in Szechwan province have raised a loan to purchase seed for rice crops, but informed persons described this as merely a "drop in the bucket."

MANY AUSTRIAN LEADERS HIT BY MONEY SCANDAL

Tell Persons Who Got Insurance Funds.

VIENNA, April 28.—(AP)—Names of aristocrats and business and political leaders of Austria were published tonight in the official list of persons who received money from the Austrian Phoenix Life Insurance company, recently disclosed to be short in its premium reserve.

Resigns Cabinet Post.

Officially, no impropriety was attached to his acceptance of insurance cash, but he resigned his railway post and his membership in the diet.

Three other members of the diet, Prince Schoenburg-Hartenstein, Bethe Coreth, Monarchist leader, and Franz Straffella, Heimwehr leader, were named and have resigned as legislators.

The official list showed that the insurance company, over a five year period, extended funds to Monarchists, Socialists, Heimwehr and Catholic storm troops, to the organization for Jewish relief, and even to the Nazis.

Eight Persons Arrested.

In some instances, the prosecutor said, the question of the propriety of advances from the insurance reserve was uncertain and in other instances corruption was indicated. Eight persons are under arrest.

Public reaction was being studied anxiously, with predictions from some quarters that the revelations might bring on a government crisis.

Two suicides already are attributed to the discovery, late in March, of irregularities in the administration of the insurance firm's premium reserves.

Mrs. Johanna Litwin, sister of the late Wilhelm Berliner, former general manager of the company, killed herself April 20. Previously Heinrich Ochsner, federal insurance commissioner, had committed suicide.

While it was said other insurance companies were not involved, some sources charged that the state treasury was entangled in the company's financial difficulties. These charges were denied by a government spokesman.

PRINCE OF EGYPT BECOMES THIRD BOY MONARCH

Proclaimed Ruler After Death of Fuad.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 28.—Another boy king was added today to the list of monarchs who have not attained their majority. The 16 year old Crown Prince Farouk of Egypt learned here tonight he had been proclaimed sovereign of Egypt following the death earlier today of his father, King Fuad I. Fuad died at Cairo, the victim of a gangrenous throat infection complicated by a heart ailment. He was 68 years old.

Other boy kings are King Peter II. of Jugo-Slavia, 12 years old, and King Ananda of Siam, 10 years old. There is also Crown Prince Michael of Rumania, 14 years old, who was a boy king until Carol, his father, ousted him.

Inherits Troubled Problems.

This newest boy monarch inherits one of the most troubled political problems of post-war Europe—the fate of Egypt—on which peace in the Mediterranean, and possibly developments in the Italo-Ethiopian war, depend.

The situation already is tense because of bloody anti-British riots for independence.

A regency council of three, however, is slated to govern the country until Farouk becomes of age. Identity of this council is hidden in a sealed envelope containing names of the three regents written by Fuad before his death in accordance with the constitution.

It was not announced whether the regency would be declared immediately or postponed until after the Egyptian parliamentary election, which is fixed for Saturday.

Farouk, a well educated youth, 6 feet tall, has been living for the last six months at Kingston, on the outskirts of London. He will leave for Cairo Thursday, but hopes to be allowed to return to England to complete his studies at the royal military academy at Woolwich after the regency has been established.

King Edward Sends Message.

King Edward VIII. of England sent a personal message of condolence to Farouk and ordered one week of court mourning beginning tomorrow.

The British hope King Fuad's death will not greatly disturb the negotiations for an Anglo-Egyptian treaty.

[Cairo dispatches reported that Fuad's death is believed bound to have adverse effect on the negotiations.]

Fuad, a descendant of Mohammed Ali, founder of the Egyptian royal house, was the youngest son of Khedive Ismail Pasha, "the magnificent," Egyptian sovereign from 1863 to 1879. Great Britain placed Fuad on the throne as sultan of Egypt in 1917. He became king on March 15, 1922, when Britain abolished its protectorate and established the kingdom of Egypt.

About a year after his reign began Fuad was forced to grant the country a constitution in which he lost some of his power. In 1928 this constitution was suspended and Fuad became dictator until 1930, when the country was given a new constitution. Again in 1934, however, the constitution was suspended and Fuad became a virtual dictator, guided, of course, by Britain. After many bloody riots by students and Wafdists, Fuad restored constitutional government last Dec. 12.

PASS BILL TO ABOLISH BRITISH 'TRIAL BY PEERS'

Old Privilege Defended by Lord Cornwallis.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 28.—Citing the case of one of his ancestors who was tried for murder in the year 1678, Baron Wykeham Stanley Cornwallis today opposed a bill to abolish the special privilege of British peers in criminal proceedings on the bill's second reading before the house of lords. Despite considerable opposition the bill was passed by 62 votes to 35.

Cornwallis said he believed that to sweep away the right of lords to be tried by their own members and not before ordinary courts would abolish a great principle of the administration of justice and also remove a tradition of English life.

Became Privy Councillor.

Speaking of his ancestor who was tried for murder, Cornwallis said: "He was acquitted and was afterward made privy councillor and first lord of the admiralty, but I am not citing this by way of looking for favors to come to myself."

[Lord Cornwallis had another ancestor, the second earl of Cornwallis, who surrendered with 7,000 British soldiers at Yorktown, Va., in October, 1781, assuring the colonists of victory in the American revolution.]

Cornwallis continued: "Cannot the lords give decisions in trials as well as grocers?"

Lord Snell, Laborite leader of the opposition, said he did not share Cornwallis' fear of being judged by grocers, but stated that his party regarded a peer as just a plain citizen and nothing else before the law.

Doubts Public Interest.

He favored abolishing the privilege. Lord Middleton opposed the bill on the grounds it had no public interest. "What the public is interested in are football matches and domestic affairs and film artists," he said.

The movement to abolish the privileged trials of peers was brought on after the recent trial before the house of lords of Edward Southwell Russell, Lord de Clifford. He was acquitted Dec. 12, 1935, on a charge of causing the death in a motoring accident of Douglas George Hopkins, an automobile driver.

BIGGEST SPANISH BREWERY SEIZED BY COMMUNISTS

General Strike Menace Threatens Government.

MADRID, April 28.—(AP)—A fresh welter of labor difficulties, featured by communists' seizure of Spain's largest brewery, broke out today and the menace of another general strike threatened the government.

More than 350 employés of La Aguila brewery of Madrid took over ahe plant, refusing to leave until the management granted their demand that 40 alleged Fascist employés be discharged. They brought food and bedding to the brewery and announced they would camp there until their demand is granted.

As night fell the employés were busily engaged in reducing the brewer's stock of beer.

Vegetable Dealers Strike.

Madrid vegetable dealers declared a strike in protest against the shooting of seven of their number yesterday by police, and fishmongers went out in sympathy. The syndicalists' union tonight was endeavoring to spread the walkout to all branches of trade and industry.

Fresh violence saw the double slaying in Catalonia of two brothers, Miguel and José Babia, the former a strong political figure. Both men were mowed down by a blast of gunfire as they stepped out of Miguel's home into the street following a luncheon.

Led Catalan Revolt.

Miguel Babia, director of police prior to the Catalonian attempt to set up an independent state in October, 1934, helped direct that revolt.

José Maria Gil Robles, leader of the Conservative Ceda party, was injured in an automobile collision near Madrid today. Physicians said he suffered cuts and bruises on his head and chest. One of two policemen in his car, serving as his customary bodyguard, was also injured.

BRITISH WOMEN ARE BARRED FROM DIPLOMATIC JOBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 28.—Great Britain will not follow the example of the United States and admit women to the diplomatic and consular services. The ban on women as official representatives of the empire abroad was confirmed tonight in a government statement accompanying the report of a committee set up to investigate the matter following agitation from feminist organizations here.

"Strong opinion has been expressed that in view of the habits and customs of many countries the employment of women in diplomatic work would not be successful," the statement said.

"If women were retained in diplomatic service after marriage the government feels that insuperable difficulties would ensue. For instance, a woman could not be permitted to remain in the service if she married a foreigner."

HIGHER PRICES FOR MR. ROOSEVELT.

Mr. Roosevelt in his Saturday night New York speech said that prices have not gone high enough. They must go higher. If everything costs more there will be more money widely distributed and more goods in everybody's hands.

One of America's great advantages, it has been generally thought, was found in its amazing capacity to produce useful articles in great volume and at low cost. Thus it could supply its citizens with a more plentiful stock of things they needed and things they would like to have than could be obtained by any other people in the world. Persons of moderate incomes in the United States were justified in thinking they could have for commonplace use in life many things which rather affluent people in other parts of the world regarded as luxuries. The reason was not to be found wholly in the better wage scale. It was also in the American method of production, seeking constantly a better article at a lower price.

Anything can be sold and widely sold if the price is right. It is equally true that nothing can be widely sold if the price is wrong. Prices do an automatic planning which defies any government undertaking of social control to imitate successfully. High prices will stop the distribution of goods and low prices will stimulate it. It is Queer street philosophy that if you stop the distribution of a product you increase the number of persons making it and give them more money for what can't be sold.

Every housewife in the country, daily watching the advertisments for attractive prices, looking at her household bills to see whether they are going up or coming down, and guiding her whole economic life by counting costs, knows that Mr. Roosevelt is talking nonsense. She will not buy in a high priced market if she can possibly avoid it. She will take something else or she will do without.

These women will also look open eyed at a government which announces as a policy the increase in the cost of living and in the price of desirable things without saying where the purchase money is to come from. The only thing that government, which Mr. Roosevelt so light-mindedly heads and for which he so jauntily speaks, does is to increase debts, increase and desert pauperism, waste money, destroy savings, and place more burdens on the woman who is trying to make the family income meet the family needs.

Collectivists and communists who have their eyes open and their wits about them know very well that the greatest obstacle in their way is the automatic success of price economy when it is free to make a wide distribution of needed articles at low prices. They also know that it does not follow in a country of such high technical capacity as the United States that low prices mean starvation wages. When the price system has a minimum of interference its object is to do as big a volume of business as it can, to sell three pairs of shoes instead of one, three suits of clothes instead of one, more of everything to an increasing number of people and to invent new things which people will want and which as the price comes down they will be able to buy.

No one will deny that there are inequalities and rough spots and that the system gets into jams. But it never got into such a jam as the planned economy. Mr. Roosevelt's discouragement of buying, his oppression of the means of production, his withdrawal of resources, his schemes for taxing private enterprise to death, may benefit some people. They will be the same people who would benefit if they could get a monopolistic strangle hold on the country and take high profits from limited production. They will not be the masses of the American people who count the cost of what they want before they buy it. The persons benefited will not be the forgotten men. They will be the new rich of the Roosevelt revolution.

The demand for high prices could have only one gleam of intelligence in it. To find that one would have to assume that this was another of the deliberate attacks upon the system of private property, private enterprise and profit, to make it break down under what would be described as its inherent weaknesses, in reality under the meddlesome interference with it, and make the planned economy under a dictatorship seem the only way out for a stricken land.

THE FIFTH THOUSAND.

Over five thousand killed and injured in one hundred and eighteen days! Two dead and forty maimed left on Chicago's streets after the juggernaut of each day's automobile trafic passes! The fearful aspect of the record is the absolute lethargy of officialdom in spite of the efforts of the Trafic court, the Safety council, and the press.

It has been definitly proved that elevated highways would remove the cause of ninety-eight per cent of this slaughter, and at a special meeting held at the Palmer house last week their efficiency was urged upon Mayor Kelly, Gov. Horner, and President Smith of the Cook county board. The immediate cost of twenty-two miles of super-roadway would be eleven million dollars, which is a mere bagatelle when compared with the huge sums that have been spent on such useless projects as the Florida ship canal and the Quoddy power project. Even if economy was the national watchword, eleven million dollars would be a small price to pay for the saving of a thousand lives and twenty thousand injuries annually.

MR. WALLACE'S AAA CHECKS.

Senator Vandenberg's quiet and persistent pursuit in search of Mr. Wallace's AAA disbursements has resulted in an order passed by the senate asking the secretary of agriculture for figures. Senator Vandenberg was compelled to convert himself into a senatorial nuisance before he could get what he wanted, but he did it politely and without stepping on anybody's toes. He wanted to know, and every time a Democratic senator turned around he bumped into Mr. Vandenberg, who was at his elbow. This was too annoying to go on forever, and the Democrats yielded without much grace and tried to make the best of it.

They tagged Mr. Vandenberg's request with another on the tarif commission asking for a report on the indirect benefits received by the industrialists under the tarif schedules. Senator Joe Robinson twitted Mr. Vandenberg on the score of being opposed to the publication of income tax payments and said his curiosity regarding the AAA had a particular opportunism with regard to the campaign.

Distinctions are not always highly regarded on the Democratic side of the senate. What a citizen has to pay the government in his income tax is something which receives the scrutiny of every watchdog and scent hound the treasury department can turn loose on him. What Mr. Wallace has been paying out was public money collected from these citizens. The public accounting of the expenditures of treasury funds has always been regarded as a necessary check upon wastefulness or corruption. The citizen has no way of forcing himself into the payoff room of a department. The government can always enter upon a full examination of any citizen's books to determine whether he has been paying what the tax collector says he should. Dishonest taxpayers go to jail. Tax spenders go on spending.

Mr. Wallace did not want to make the list public, although he was asked for only the amounts above $10,000. The senator's inquiries already have developed the fact that some large corporations and large operators, including sugar corporations, have received very large subsidies from the government. Wheat kings and cotton kings and sugar kings are among the beneficiaries of the scheme to put the United States on a dog food diet. Mr. Wallace, who has suppressed other departmental documents which made a bad case for him, naturally didn't want to reveal the spread of large payments for not producing what the American people need to feed and clothe themselves.

The secretary must be given credit, however, for one gem of thought in his defense of secrecy. As an official of a government which has been notorious for turning the citizens into goldfish and inviting everybody to pry into every particular of their private affairs, Mr. Wallace objected to a disclosure of his extravagances on the ground that bad men would learn where the big money was and run off with the daughter of some one who had received a fat AAA check. This consideration for the superior beneficiaries of the scheme of getting rich by doing nothing stands in a class by itself.

THE CYCLE IS NOW COMPLETE.

Following a year of preparation and test runs, the Santa Fe and the North Western-Union Pacific will inaugurate their promised forty hour service between Chicago and Los Angeles during the month of May. The Santa Fe train, the Super-Chief, will carry standard coach and Pullman cars, but will be drawn by a specially designed Diesel locomotive. The North Western-Union Pacific entry will be the entirely new, streamlined, light weight City of Los Angeles, combining the new features of the zephyr trains with the roominess of conventional Pullmans.

As only two trains have as yet been built, daily service cannot immediately be offered, but the coast passenger, by planning his schedule, will be able to make a rail trip to Los Angeles on and after May 12 with the loss of a single business day—nearly twelve hours faster than the best transit time now available.

This substantial improvement in train service to the South Pacific coast completes the wheel of fast passenger runs with Chicago as the hub. The spectacular Twin Cities trains, the Portland Rose to Seattle, the coming Denver flyers, the new St. Louis entries, the accelerated schedules to New Orleans and Florida, and the vastly improved eastern service that followed in the wake of faster runs for the Century and Broadway, all speak eloquently of the reawakening of interest in railroading. That the public is appreciative is shown by the increased passenger revenues of the railways.

Congratulations are due Presidents Bledsoe, Sargent, and Gray for this latest contribution to the public demand for faster trains, expressed in THE TRIBUNE'S platform plank, "Speed up railway passenger service."

Editorial of the Day

[Grand Rapids Press.]

John Voorhees, charged with the hit-run slaying of Mrs. Ella Finch, has taken a broadside at the Grand Rapids newspapers by affidavit, claiming the Grand Rapids Press commented on the case even in advance of his arrest and tried to work up public sentiment against hit-run drivers to a grievous point. This accusation and the seeming basis for it are most interesting. The Press pleads guilty. It might have covered the case about as follows:

A woman whose name we cannot use because the personal tragedy might prejudice the public was found dead last night on a Kent county road which cannot be named in these columns because it might lead the public to visit the spot and become indignant. While the driver of the car by which possibly she came to her death is being sought, there is some question whether he was a hit-and-run driver because he might have got out and hid in the bushes. The public should calm itself, hope for the best, and give the driver, if he is found and confesses, the benefit of mercy and charity and an unprejudiced trial, eliminating all thought of the victim or of future public safety in general.

Would that have been satisfactory, Mr. Voorhees?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

PEOPLE who have been getting in excess of ten thousand dollars a year from the AAA for not raising corn or cotton or wheat or pigs or cattle are going to have their names published. The senate says so. But that is a small matter. If I had received in excess of ten thousand smackers a year from the AAA for not doing anything the senate could print my name in letters two feet high and put it on the billboards for all I cared. It's the easy money that counts.

"ABANDON HOPE for King of Egypt; Kin Called to Bedside."—Headline. But the appearance of the relatives at such a time is or at least should not be necessarily fatal. Of course relatives who are greedy to cut in on the money that the sick person is going to leave behind have a very depressing effect, and I know if I looked around the room and saw some of my cousins—well, the newspapers could abandon hope as far as I was concerned. Just as soon as I saw 'em I'd want to shuffle off just as quickly as possible. And some men are that way about mothers-in-law.

TO THOSE WHO DIED TO END WAR.

If from your graves you should arise
And pass before our living eyes,
File after file of stricken men
With wounds that gaped and bled again;

If you stretched forth your piteous hands
And begged for peace throughout the lands,
We would not shake our heads and say:
"Alas, war is the only way."

Ah, no. We'd pledge an end to war,
With eloquence as once before;
We'd swear by God to your pale hosts
And then break faith with you, poor ghosts.

ADELAIDE LOVE.

I'VE ABOUT DECIDED that we're not going to lessen the number of dead and injured every day in traffic accidents until we change human nature. All right, go ahead; change human nature. It can't be done.

FALL IN LINE, Kentucky colonels, and give three rousing cheers. As you were! Listen to the orders of the day. A month ago Kentucky's attorney general, Beverly M. Vincent (never forget that name), reduced all of us colonels to the ranks. But now in the absence of Gov. Chandler and Lieut. Gov. Keen Johnson, who are in Cincinnati attending a few ball games, Acting Governor James E. Wise restores you all to your full rank and emoluments. Ah, this is indeed a glorious day. Again we can sign ourselves "Colonel" and rejoice in the fact that while we do not go around in full uniform all the time, clanking our spurs and flashing our swords as do the officers in the regular service of the U. S. A., anyhow there are more of us. There are only a paltry few dozen colonels in the regular army, while we are an army in ourselves, seventeen thousand of us, a mighty army even if we are shy on banners and war horses. And now, colonels, here come the enemies' shock troops, a sturdy front line of Kentucky mint juleps. Action front! Ready! Aim! Fire! And 'twas a glorious victory.

DWARF BIRCH.

Hard used of wind and weather
A lonely dwarf birch grows
On shelf of ling and heather
That rims the valley's close.

By wayward currents wafted,
Flicked by a sparrow's wing,
A chance-blown seed had fallen
Where lowly blooms the ling.

There, in a rocky hollow,
Twin bred of soil and sun,
She woos the shining heavens,
She delves the cleft fordone.

She stirs when misty morning
Walks over lough and lea;
They drink the dews at even,
The heather-bells and she.

She dreams of queenly stature,
A crown that frets the sky,
Where feathered lovers nestle
And silver clouds go by.

But darkly broods the cranny
On haps no tongue may tell,
And winters gaunt and hoary
Rage over crag and fell.

Her rootlets seek so blindly
The cranny's scanted store;
The stars look down so kindly
Upon the silent moor.

And season follows season
As seasons aye have done;
She twines the cleft and quaffs from
The chalice of the sun,

In vain: the barren crevice
To which her rootlets cling
Is but a ruined Kingdom,
Forsaken by its King.

Her arms, forworn and twisted,
She lifts in nameless woe:
"Oh, take the Death ye gave me,
Who may not Life bestow!"

But in the silent watches,
When starry bivouacs gleam,
Night's reveille awakens
The long-forgotten dream.

REP. SNELL SAYS the New Deal costs every family in the United States $1,250. Maybe that's the reason so many families in the United States haven't got $1,250. And some haven't got as much as $125 and there are others who lack $12.50. And after that comes a dollar and a quarter. R. H. L.

BEAUTY AIDS—GOOD AND BAD.
Part I.

THE art of disguise is as old as civilization, particularly that which attempts to hide the ravages of Time. Despite the caustic castigations of medical and ecclesiastical authorities—even the edicts of royalty—cosmetics have been used for thousands of years.

Egyptian women massaged their bodies with perfumed oils; and myrrh, thyme, and frankincense are mentioned often in biblical lore. Staining the finger and toe nails with henna was also a common practice. Roman ladies are said to have been adept in the art of makeup. Chalk was used to whiten the skin and pumice stone to clean the teeth. Galen, the famous Roman physician who lived in the second century, compiled a four volume treatise which summarized the methods of beauty culture up to his time.

Here and there, however, one finds evidences of conservatism, and Xenophon records the admonition given by a young Greek husband to his wife that instead of using paints and powders she should undertake active exercise and occupy herself with household duties, thus bringing natural color to her cheeks and lips.

Samuel Pepys writes in his diary under date of May 11, 1654: "I now observed how the women began to paint themselves, formerly a most ignominious thing."

By the time of Queen Elizabeth in England milk baths were recommended for clearing the skin and removing blemishes. In the latter part of the eighteenth century so widespread had the use of beautifiers become that parliament enacted a law prohibiting women from using scents, washes, artificial teeth, false hair, Spanish wool, high heeled shoes, and bolstered hips.

The use of cosmetics was not popular in the New England colonies and woe to the Abigail who decorated her cheeks with a bit of rouge. The inhabitants of that "stern and rockbound coast" would countenance no trafic in the paints and perfumes of the French court.

It was not until 1868 that the first professional beauty parlor was established. Today it is estimated that there are more than 35,000 such shops. American women are paying millions of dollars annually for cosmetic charm and attractiveness. And why shouldn't they? On the whole, the effect is probably one of psychic buoyancy that brings with it a feeling of pride, self-assurance, and well-being.

We have learned much about the sensitivity of the skin. Our chief concern, therefore, should be that cosmetics shall not act as irritants causing inflammation or poisoning. Furthermore, allergic effects have been traced in thousands of cases to orris root, which is used frequently to hold perfume mixed with face powder. Reports have been published of cases of orris root sensitivity in which even the male members of the family have exhibited annoying if not serious symptoms. This may be explained by the fact that some individuals, by lingering in the vicinity of any one who has used this substance profusely, may develop symptoms of acute rhinitis, asthma, or hay fever. One writer found that 12 per cent of all his cases of asthma could be traced chiefly to this ingredient.

Most face and body powders are entirely harmless. They are composed of starchy materials; of mineral matter such as chalk, clay, magnesium carbonate, bismuth carbonate, zinc oxide, etc., and various oils are used as perfumes. Dangerous powders formerly contained a small amount of lead, but no reputable manufacturer now uses this chemical. Sometimes coloring matter [if an aniline dye] is responsible for a dermatitis [inflammation of the skin]. But, after all, what will affect one person may not disagree with a thousand others. Individual tests can be made, thus safeguarding oneself against irritating preparations.

This discussion of cosmetics will be continued tomorrow.

CAR SICKNESS.

N. F. O. C. writes: Can you suggest a cure for seasickness caused by riding in an automobile? I have found that by having a window down, so that the air can circulate, the motion of the car does not affect me, but during cold weather other passengers in the car object.

REPLY.

Most modern automobiles are equipped with ventilators which keep the air in circulation without causing a draft. If your car does not have this no-draft device I would suggest that you keep the window open just enough to make you comfortable. Sitting in front rather than the rear helps many persons.

GIVE THEM CLOTHES.

Miss L. writes: Do you approve of letting small children go out of doors in cool weather with bare legs and scarcely any clothing from the waist down? I have seen children shivering because of this procedure.

REPLY.

Stockings should be long except in summer. It is not desirable to dress little children in short stockings and underwear, leaving the legs bare. The surface of a child's body is more extensive in proportion to its size than an adult's. Chilling of the body is, therefore, more easily brought about. But there are some mothers who insist upon this mode because it suits them.

CYSTITIS.

B. H. T. writes: You say in your article on cystitis that diet is important and also mention the ketogenic régime. Will you explain further?

In cystitis it is well to avoid all highly seasoned foods, alcoholic drinks, and carbonated waters. Diet regulation is effective only when the chemical reaction of the urine is taken into consideration. Some patients need alkali-producing foods and some need those that are acid-producing. The ketogenic diet is one high in fats and is used to bring about an acid urine. We will be glad to forward a diet of this type if you will send a stamped, addressed envelope with request.

ENLARGED STOMACH.

L. S. writes: What is the cause of one's stomach enlarging? I have had this condition for the last three years. There is no pain. I am 31 years old and single.

REPLY.

A thorough physical examination is suggested. Poor posture may be responsible. If waist measurement has increased gradually the cause may be lack of exercise, resulting in the deposit of inches of unneeded fat.

From Across the Sea

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Fourth article.]

TEL AVIV, Palestine.—This is the most Jewish of all cities in the world. Its 140,000 population may be counted 100 per cent Jewish. Non-Jews here at any moment will be a handful of traveling businessmen or curious tourists.

It is also, I learn from the boosters' booklet, "The City of Miracles." An outpost of the ancient port of Jaffa, nothing was here before 1906, when Jews resident in Jaffa began to build here. But the real achievement came after the war and the Jewish migration to Palestine under the stimulus of Zionism.

"About one-third of the Jewish population of the country is at all times concentrated in Tel Aviv," it is claimed.

The city, constructed in haste, looks like hurry, not bustle, wherever you turn. It looks like no European nor old world city, and it hardly looks like any American city. All the architecture is very "modern"—packing-box buildings with plenty of windows and terraces and balconies. The streets are paved. Some of them are lined with trees which in a generation or two will undoubtedly give some shade.

Everywhere there is a sense of experiment. Some stores and amusement places seem meant on a scale for Chicago, with disregard for the population and resources of Tel Aviv.

The citizens have gone in thoroughly for nationalism in the old world fashion. If you live here you speak Hebrew, whether it is your language or not, or you are persecuted, economically and socially. [The same is true throughout all the Zionist community of Palestine.]

There is the feeling that this city is entirely artificial. There appears no reason for it to exist except that, according to one informant, some people bought up the sand dunes along the beach to the north of Jaffa and had to sell them. Tel Aviv then grew like a Florida boom town.

Enlightenment assays high in Tel Aviv. It boasts of schools, lectures, publishing houses, libraries, and an art museum. It also boasts more doctors in proportion to the population than any other city in the world, a commentary on the social-economic condition of the Jewish community in Palestine.

Sabbath observance, or any test of Judaism, is in Tel Aviv so much window dressing. Its inhabitants have been described by one Zionist as "modern and cosmopolitan." The crowd raising whoopee on the festival of Purim has been seen before on the terraces of Montparnasse in Paris and at the Romanisches café in Berlin.

For religion, Jewish or any other, they do not seem to care a nickel. But they are nationalists, and will go through the motions of upholding Jewish customs, even do it passionately. Once again the American has to remember that the Jews in Palestine do not remotely resemble the Jews he knows in America.

The morals of Tel Aviv are a byword in Palestine, but that does not appear to mean more than a certain tolerance about the marriage contract, such as will be found in any "modern and cosmopolitan" society.

On the return to Jerusalem I stopped at the farm of Kiryat-Anavim, which is a "kvutza"; that is, a thoroughly communal settlement. This one is a small enterprise, supporting about 100 men, women, and children. There are fourteen such in the country, I heard from one source, but officials of the Jewish agency gave me a much higher figure.

Kiryat-Anavim goes in largely for dairy farming, and I am told that it now is paying its own way, which makes it a rarity among Zionist agricultural enterprises. They are in need of constant subsidies from the Jewish Foundation fund [Keren-Hayessod].

"They live absolutely on the basis of communism," my guide said. "Not even the most trifling object can be personal property. Women in common, too. Sometimes when there's a child or children a couple gets married. But such a couple is despised by the rest of the community for going in front of the rabbi and making that much of a concession to religion."

"Why, then, are such militantly anti-religious communities supported from Zionist funds?" the guide was asked. "A good proportion of the Keren-Hayessod money [really nearly 50 per cent] has been subscribed by the Jews of the United States. Some of them might have qualms about supporting such whole-hearted communism in action, even if it is on a retail scale."

VESTED INTEREST.

Chicago, April 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother left her home to my aunt. Upon the death of my aunt it was to revert to my brother and me. My brother, a city fireman, was killed in 1931. 1. Is his wife, who has since remarried, entitled to his share of the house? 2. Would I be under any obligation to my brother's wife if I, with the consent of my aunt, took over the house before the death of my aunt for the purpose of reconditioning it and paying up taxes due on it? E. H.

1. It seems probable that the wording of the will was such that your brother had a vested interest, and if so that interest would descend to his heirs, presumably including his wife.

2. No. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LIMITATION PERIOD ON JUDGMENTS.

Chicago, April 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.] — 1. How long is a court judgment good for until it is outlawed? This is in the state of Michigan. We have such a judgment but are unable to collect on amount due and are informed that the [2] man has turned all of his property over to his wife. H. G.

1. The limitation period on judgments in courts not of record is six years and in courts of record ten years.

2. In general, such a transfer can be set aside as a fraud on creditors. We suggest that you take the matter up with the attorney who obtained the judgment for you.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THE SIREN'S SONG

[Columbus Dispatch.]

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

LAWLESS LAW ENFORCEMENT.

Chicago, April 22.—I open my TRIBUNE and read that Spike O'Donnell has been picked up again by the police. I turn to the editorial page where the fundamental principles of our American scheme of government are being expounded and I note the platform for Chicago includes the plank "Overcome Crime."

I think that the efforts to instruct the electorate in elementals are laudable, but I am also weary of the iteration concerning freedom of the press. Your argument is established. We'll agree that it is necessary to furnish that check upon government without which government is likely to become tyranny. But there are other principles of equal, if not greater, importance, which are seldom mentioned.

This is at least theoretically a government of laws, not of men. As Coolidge said, he was the first to obey the laws, not the last. Respect for law and order is a matter of example more than precept. All the ranting and raving and bewailing from judges, administrators, ministers, will never overcome crime so long as we have the example set by police and judges, not of respect for law and rights, but of violation of elemental rights.

Roscoe Pound has tersely put the case in these words: "When there is so much lawlessness at the top [referring to the administrators] it is unreasonable not to expect lawlessness at the bottom [referring to the people]."

We have regular legal procedure violated every day by the police who in effect display their contempt or ignorance of law just as the gangsters do. How can they expect respect for law and order on the part of the people when they fail to set the example, and in fact, set the example for lawlessness? Man is imitative, and this factor has as much weight of influence in the field of respect for law as in the field of dress and deportment of other kinds.

High police officials have told me that they didn't care whether they had the right to arrest without warrants, they were going to continue to do so. They didn't realize that that was equivalent to saying "We are going to continue to defy the law when it conflicts with expediency."

But possibly here is the root of our crime problem. The police and the judges who sanction lawless acts of the police are virtually committing crime. No wonder Villard calls the police the greatest organized body of criminals extant. They are a greater menace than gangsters. It takes like to fight like, force to fight force, but when the latter resolves itself into attempting to fight crime and lawlessness with lawlessness the law becomes a joke. R. D. WARNER.

FOR SUPERANNUATED PHYSICIANS.

Denver, Colo., April 23.—In view of the fact in this glorious era of depression we have thousands of superannuated doctors who cannot collect for their humanitarian services rendered to suffering members of society, and in view of the fact we doctors are the easiest victims in the hands of designing sharks and gentlemen burglars to be relieved of our life's savings, would it not be a most noble and humane thing to have a home for doctors who in the evening of their lives find themselves unable to stand the keen competition of the younger men in the profession on the one hand and patent medicine, healing cults of all kinds on the other hand?

The late Andrew Carnegie used to wonder how the multi-millionaire had the heart to die without leaving something for charity, education and other philanthropic causes. So say I, how can our great physicians and surgeons have the heart to die leaving an estate of a million dollars without leaving at least a part of it for a fine home for old doctors who cannot earn any more? It was common knowledge years ago that the average income of the doctors was $750 a year. In the present time it is not even that.

The writer recently made the acquaintance of a physician, aged 70. He is on pension, $24 a month. He had practiced his profession for forty years. Once, he told me, he could write his check for $10,000, but now he cannot write a check for $10. T. SARKISIAN, M. D.

CRICKET AND I.

Chicago, April 24.—It is evident that the cradle of amateur sports in England has been drastically broken. Or has it?

I have received twelve copies of your editorial of April 21, "It Must Be Cricket," from my friends interested in the various sports organizations.

This is due, probably, to my interest in athletic sports resulting from my having represented various sports organizations of the United States in many foreign countries and international organizations, where the high sporting standards of England have always been recognized and admired. In spite of the fact that I have always been a loyal Irishman, I have always preached wherever I've been the recognition in England of pure amateurism. This is particularly true of cricket, in which they lean over backward in protecting their standards of fairness.

Having been vitally interested in amateur athletic sports all my life, I can appreciate the value and point of the editorial in regard to subsidizing school cricketers in England. I am sure publicly advertising, with the promise of pay in the form of reduced tuition, for a schoolboy cricketer with unusual ability, would be quite contrary to all their traditions.

It is with sincere and deep regret that I learn, if it is so, that England—the first and last stronghold of amateurism—has gone the way of all flesh!

THE DEMOCRATS AND THE NEGRO.

Chicago, April 23.—An article in this morning's TRIBUNE mentions the appearance of Representative A. W. Mitchell of Illinois before the house of representatives, speaking of the forgotten promises of the Republican party to the colored race. This article was of great interest to me because I had felt since the last general election, in 1932, the First congressional district of Illinois was without representation in congress.

Representative Mitchell's purpose in congress has been questionable to most of us. His propositions for solving the economic plight of the black man in America have been amusing as well as nonsensical to the most intellectual of our group.

It would be folly of me to suggest to Mr. Mitchell that for over forty years the colored citizens of America have been anxiously awaiting the passage of an anti-lynching bill by congress that will safeguard our rights and privileges as citizens, only to see it continuously defeated by this same party he represents, and which he so ineptly is trying to defend.

The forthcoming retirement of Mr. Mitchell from congress next November will be a moment of great satisfaction to the colored citizens of Illinois and America. G. W. MCVEY.

VACATION HINTS.

Chicago, April 21.—Now that you are turning your thoughts to vacation time, let me make a few suggestions to the ones contemplating their first country trip.

Don't forget a flashlight even if you must leave behind an extra garment to make room for it, and some spare batteries and lamps for it. I'll never get over my chagrin while in the midst of unpacking at night and all the lights went out. There wasn't a candle on the place and I had to finish by touch and find my way to bed with matches. I set fire to the wool rug.

Also, don't forget your old shoes and a large sun hat, or you won't enjoy comfort. And last but not least, take some cans of dog food with you to help feed the starving dogs and cats left behind by owners in the woods. VIOLA LARSEN.

FISHING IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, April 16.—There are many fishermen in Chicago who have to go out of town to get any good fishing or else catch a few small perch in Lake Michigan. Why can't the state conservation commission stock our lagoon at the World's Fair ground? This would not cost very much. The boats would rent for a dollar. It could be run by the park board. Wisconsin has its good fishing. Michigan has plenty of game fish. Chicago has a few perch. ALBERT BIAGI.

THE YEAR'S PROBLEM TITLE

[Daily Express, London.]

J. WM. BROOKS, MUNICIPAL JUDGE SINCE 1930, DIES

Brief Illness Is Fatal to Primary Victor.

Municipal Court Judge J. William Brooks, elected to the bench in 1930 and renominated in the recent Democratic primary, died yesterday afternoon at South Shore hospital, where he was taken last Friday suffering from pneumonia.

JUDGE J. WILLIAM BROOKS. [Walinger Photo.]

Judge Brooks was born in Chicago, May 20, 1892. He was a graduate of St. Ambrose and St. Ignatius colleges, and of the law school of Northwestern university. He was admitted to the bar in 1914. He was an assistant state's attorney in 1923 and 1924, assistant attorney for the sanitary district in 1925 and 1926, and an assistant to the probate judge from 1927 to 1930, when he was elected judge.

Record Praised by Chief.

"I am shocked by the sudden death of Judge Brooks," said Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court. "He was a splendid type of judge and we will feel his loss keenly."

Chief Justice Sonsteby called a meeting of Municipal judges for 2 p. m. today, at which time he will ask them to close their courts on the day of the funeral, expected to be Friday or Saturday.

Gov. Horner has the power to appoint a judge for the rest of Judge Brooks' term, which expires the first Monday in December. The Democratic central committee, Justice Sonsteby said, has the power to select a candidate to take Judge Brooks' place on the ballot in the November election. In the primary Brooks placed second among candidates for the 12 judgeships.

Widow, 6 Children Survive.

Judge Brooks is survived by the widow, Florence, and six children, Thomas, William, Florence, Alice, Carroll and Mary, and his mother, Mrs. Delia K. Brooks. The mother and Thomas, the eldest son, were at the bedside when death occurred. The widow was at their home, 7248 Euclid avenue, recovering from a recent operation.

LEAVES CHALKED TRAIL AND POLICE GET TO END OF IT

Detectives Edwin Becker and Thomas Mulvey of the Austin station yesterday went to the apartment of Mrs. Violet Brown, 5451 West End avenue, to investigate a $200 jewelry burglary.

On the floor near a window the policemen found a few particles of calcimine. Mrs. Brown recalled that one of the workmen who redecorated her apartment a week ago had offered to sell her a $175 radio for $30. She directed them to Jack Zucker, a contractor at 3422 Grenshaw street.

There they arrested an apprentice helper, Benjamin Weiser, 23 years old, 901 West Roosevelt road, who is a paroled convict. Weiser admitted the theft and said he crawled from a balcony into Mrs. Brown's flat while working in an adjoining apartment.

524 DECLARED ELIGIBLE TO JOBS AS PARK POLICE

S. D. Forst, superintendent of employment for the Chicago park district, yesterday posted a list of 524 eligible for appointment on the park police force. Last fall 15,000 filed applications for appointments and 5,900 took preliminary examinations last October. Of that number, 2,500 survived for the final tests the following month.

Leo B. Sheehan, 27 years old, 6116 Champlaine avenue, heads the list of 524 with a score of 86.57, computed by averaging physical and mental tests. He is followed by Francis E. Godfrey, 24 years old, 1945 Birchwood avenue, with an average of 86.27. According to Mr. Forst, the first fifty on the list will be called soon to fill vacancies on the force, while the others will be employed when needed.

POPE TO LEAVE VATICAN MAY 23 TO OPEN BUILDING

VATICAN CITY, April 28.—(AP)—Pope Pius today set May 23 as the date for his exit from the Vatican to inaugurate the new executive building of the Vatican known as the Palace of Congregations in the Trastevere section of Rome.

The exit was either to have been on his nameday, May 12, or his birthday anniversary, May 31, when he will be 79 years old.

On the former day, however, he will inaugurate the world exposition of the Catholic press, and on the latter date he will celebrate a pontifical mass at St. Peter's.

Whealan Denies Asking Assessment Reduction

Emmett Whealan, member of the board of tax appeals, denied yesterday that he had ever asked County Assessor John S. Clark to reduce the assessment on the City Hall Square building. Clark asserted Monday that Whealan had made a personal request to him for such a reduction. "I've never asked Clark to reduce the assessment on any property," Whealan said. "All he receives from me are the routine reductions made by the board."

MOTORMAN IS KILLED, 14 HURT IN COLLISION OF INTERURBAN CARS

Urbana, O., April 28.—[Special.]—A trainman was killed and fourteen other persons were injured today in a collision of two Cincinnati and Lake Erie interurban cars about three miles south of here.

Motorman Charles Patterson, who was killed, was blamed by railroad officials for failing to wait at a siding on the one track stretch until the other car had passed. Patterson remained at his controls in a futile attempt to bring his car to a halt.

The two steel cars, traveling at a speed of approximately twenty miles an hour, met on a curve in a deep cut which was the scene of a similar fatal accident several years ago. Because of the curve the motormen could not see each other until it was too late.

FRIENDS TELL EFFORT TO AVERT SCHIFFER DEATH

Rational Pleas to Student Related.

How three classmates attempted last Thursday to dissuade Jack Schiffer from his avowed intention of ending his own life, was told yesterday at the inquest into the death of the brilliant first year medical student of the University of Chicago. The three discussed suicide in its philosophical and moral aspects, and at the end of the conference believed they had accomplished their purpose, it was testified.

Schiffer, 21 years old, was found stabbed to death Sunday night in his suite in Hitchcock hall, a men's dormitory on the Midway. Near the body lay a long bladed dissecting knife.

Edward T. Baumgart of Danville, Schiffer's roommate, told of the conference at the inquest yesterday. Following his testimony, the jury returned a verdict of suicide "while in a despondent frame of mind."

Try to Block Suicide Verdict.

Relatives of Schiffer, who attended the inquest, sought by their questioning and testimony to prevent a suicide verdict. Schiffer was the son of Benjamin J. Schiffer of Brooklyn, N. Y., a sweater manufacturer.

In addition to Baumgart and Schiffer the other students who took part in the conference, which was held in Schiffer's rooms, were Aaron Kellner of Brooklyn and Abraham Kauvar of Denver, Colo. Both are 21 years old.

"We came back to Jack's rooms after attending a lecture Thursday night," Baumgart testified. "Schiffer brought up the question of suicide by confessing that the day before he walked down to the lake front to drown himself, but lost his nerve.

Fear of Examination Told.

"He had been moody and depressed for some time. This was the first time he had ever been away from home, and on top of that he wanted to be a credit to his parents in the coming examinations. Although he always passed with high grades, an examination almost caused Jack to collapse from the nervous and mental strain.

"Jack confessed his motives for suicide quite rationally. He seemed to know what he was doing. He said he was worried over the exams and seemed to have no fear of death. Jack said he was concerned about hurting his parents, but thought they could not possibly suffer as much as he was."

Fails to Keep Appointment.

Baumgart said the three suggested that Jack make an appointment with Dr. Douglas Campbell, university psychologist, and that he arrange to go home.

Schiffer made the appointment with Dr. Campbell for Monday, but failed to keep it. His friends believe he feared to go home to his parents and admit being a "failure."

Dr. Dudley B. Reed, university physician, testified that he made the usual examination of Schiffer when he was admitted and found symptoms of instability and nervousness "not unlike that suffered by other students and not considered very unusual."

INDICT FORMER COLLEGIAN AND PAL IN ROBBERY

True bills charging robbery with a gun were reported voted by the grand jury yesterday against John G. Carter Jr., 25 years old, who said he was a former student at the University of Illinois, and his companion, Albert Fanelli, 27 years old, who has served a year in the Bridewell for burglary.

Two of the true bills charge the pair with the robbery of Mrs. Eva Langhagen, 4349 Lake Park avenue, and her daughter, Miss Marion Sturm, in their home on April 20, taking a diamond ring valued at $1,500, two fur coats, and some jewelry. The property was later recovered. Carter is named alone in a third true bill in another holdup.

Mrs. Mary Ippolitto, 1100 South Jefferson street, and Emanuel Mandakes, 535 South Halsted street, a jeweler, were reported named in a true bill charging them with receiving some of the property stolen by Carter and Fanelli.

SCOUTS TO GIVE CIRCUS FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Twelve thousand young Chicagoans are to put on the fourth annual Boy Scout circus Friday and Saturday evenings in the International amphitheater as the annual public demonstration of their accomplishments. Accompanying the circus acts will be an exhibit in the northwest wing of the amphitheater called "Trail to Citizenship," depicting Scout activities from cub through senior scouting groups. Vocational subjects also will be shown. A three ring circus of athletic events will start both nights at 8:15 p. m., followed by a spectacle in which 10,000 scouts will pass in review.

Actor Fields Works a Year on This Joke

But the Climax Is Real Fun for Cast.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 28.—[Special.]—W. C. Fields can be pushed too far. The comedian, in the full flush of a generous impulse, promised Producer Paul Jones at Paramount a shirt. No reason; he just felt generous. A month later Jones reminded him of the promise. Fields promised to make good.

Next day three tailors, no less, appeared at the Jones office and began measuring him carefully. They had come at the behest of Fields to make a shirt that would outshirt all shirts. Mr. Fields had given orders to spare no expense.

A week and nothing happened. Again Jones reminded Fields. "Do you mean to say that shirt hasn't been delivered yet? What's the matter with those fellows? Drat those haberdashers. I'll put the spurs to 'em." Bill said indignantly.

Another month passed. Still no shirt. Jones called the haberdashers. The silk, he was told, was being imported from Bond street, as Mr. Fields was not to be satisfied with imperfect materials. The handwork would take a bit of time, too. Mr. Jones must be patient. Jones walked on air, thinking how he would slay 'em at the Derby with that marvel of a shirt. Fields, he reflected, was not a bad guy. He had not expected him to be so thorough nor so lavish in the simple matter.

Another month skated into oblivion and another call at the haberdashers' found them professing utter ignorance of any shirt ever being ordered. They hinted he was a bit strange. Jones stomped off to Fields. Again Fields was devastated with chagrin.

This kept on and on for over a year. Then Jones was assigned to produce "Pop," the current Fields vehicle, and made a point of it. He bothered Fields about the shirt daily. Weary about the ears from all the noise, Fields snapped into action. This week he came on the set with an imposing box and made a ceremonious presentation to Jones.

Jones tore the box open and disclosed the loudest and largest striped plaid shirt, price $1, that Fields had been able to find, and if you know Hollywood boulevard, with its shirt shops supplied to please cowboys, you can guess what it looked like.

"Now," said Fields delightedly, catching the look on Jones' face, "I want to see how you look in it." Being a comedy producer provides a man with resources above the average, so Jones gracefully inserted himself into the creation. He looked like a startled Arab whose tent had collapsed over his head, but took the ribbing gracefully while the company howled.

After the laugh Jones reached for his own shirt. It was gone. No one knew where it went—that is, no one but Fields, the master juggler. The rest of that day Jones, to avoid looking like a human sunset, went about with his overcoat buttoned up to the chin.

Director Eddie Sutherland sends a bouquet of roses to Loretta Young on her film set every day. Sutherland is directing "Pop" at Paramount. Loretta is working at Movietone city.

An English studio is negotiating with George O'Brien to move his horses and assistant cowboys to England to make some "western" movies there. Among the stories in contemplation is one concerning the frontier in Australia.

John W. Hix Jr., who used to be Paramount's managing director of distribution in Australia, has now been elected a vice president.

Guy Kibbee and Douglas Dumbrille have been borrowed by Radio studio to make a "classy" cast for Anne Shirley in "M'Liss," Bret Harte's story. Besides them John Beal has been imported from the New York stage as masculine lead. Barbara Pepper, Moroni Olsen, and Frank M. Thomas, the latter father of the youngster actor, Frankie Thomas, also have been signed for the little Shirley girl's starring picture.

Radio is teaming Gene Raymond with Barbara Stanwyck in "Marry the Girl." Miss Stanwyck is so tanned she doesn't use grease paint for her outdoor scenes. Robert Young also is in it.

Among persons signed as members of Metro's cast of 200 in "The Good Earth" are Tiny Betty Soo Hoo and her brother Eugene Hoo, children from Los Angeles Chinatown. But everybody who learns the name of Betty, 1 year old baby, is calling her brother Eugene Soo What.

The story about Benedict Arnold which Wesley Ruggles shortly is to film in his new capacity of producer-director at Paramount is announced as "built around romance rather than the incident of treason, with the accent on the conflicting loyalties and powerful ambitions of revolutionary times." Claudette Colbert will play Peggy Shippen, whom Arnold loved, and Randolph Scott will be the young Gen. Washington. Arnold himself is not yet cast.

Mary Pickford will open her estate, Pickfair, to the public for a fee next Saturday, the proceeds to go to the parent-teacher fund to finance grammar and high school girls in summer camps.

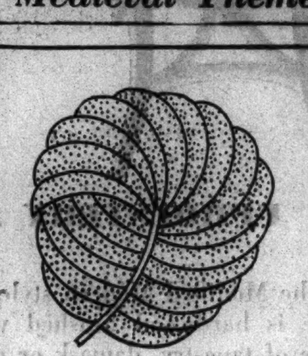
Simple Quilt Is Based on Regal Medieval Theme



Yellow Plume.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

A most unusual and attractive quilt design is the "Yellow Plume" applique block. The simplicity of the pattern is quite in keeping with the regal motif reminiscent of the medieval days of power and glory. A background of white or any shade which harmonizes with yellow combines to produce an exceptionally effective coverlet. "Yellow Plume" is one of the few quilts which are especially adaptable for use on twin beds.

WPA Theater Gives Another Protest Drama

"CHALK DUST."

A play by Harold H. Clark and Maxwell Nurnberg; given by Federal Theater No. 1 [WPA] in the Great Northern theater, April 28, 1936.

THE CAST:

Dr. Harriman, principal	Ben H. Howe
Mr. Madison	William Joy
Miss Strang, school clerk	Nell Calvin
Miss Kittredge	Gwen Lewis
Miss Sherwood	Kate Gratiot
Miss Williams	Dale Barnett
Mr. Rogers	John Connor
Mr. Dana	Alfred Clarke

And others.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Federal Theater No. 1, which calls itself "experimental," continues its feeble gestures of WPA intellectualism at the Great Northern by offering a specimen of work-relief playwriting called "Chalk Dust." This piece contains fifteen scenes and thirty-seven actors, and therefore may be regarded as useful in reducing unemployment among recent graduates of schools of speech. As drama, however, it is a weak cup of tea.

The theme of "Chalk Dust" is the big city high school—a factory of secondary education with 5,000 students and hundreds of teachers. Thus the play fits into the familiar type of contemporary topical drama, which undertakes to satirize, melodramatize, razz, and snarl at its material. The social groans of "Chalk Dust" are not loud; its shrieks for reform are not piercing; but it falls into line with the general trend of the "drama of protest" which is afflicting the American stage with a tremendous amount of bellyaching blather.

The troubles of high school teachers are set forth here as follows: Malicious gossip; petty nagging; political interference with appointments to the faculty; Babbittlike administration; jealousy of homely female teachers because a handsome young fellow in the English department is in love with a comely interpretress of Tennyson. The hero's problems are complicated by his own weak-mindedness. To escape from a bore, he steps into the woman's restroom by mistake and locks himself in with a neat looking colleague. After that, the deluge of scandal—and also, on my part, a complete lack of credulity for any other situation which the authors might invent.

I saw ten of the fifteen little scenes into which the play is chopped, and found only one of them with the bite of effective drama. The acting is tame, although there is some successful casting for type.

Music Notes

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Ballet Russe arrived in Chicago last night to begin an eight day engagement at the Auditorium theater this evening. The famous troupe came direct from New York, and will return there to sail for Europe immediately after its short spring season here.

Two ballets never before danced in Chicago by the present company find a place in the répertoire of the next week. One is "Thamar," based on the legend of the stern Caucasian queen whose constant practice it was to have her lovers hurled from cliffs; the other is a gay choreographic composition for the gypsy dances from "Russalka."

Ebba Sundstrom, conductor of the Woman's Symphony orchestra of Chicago, has been invited to direct the Philadelphia Civic orchestra Sunday afternoon, May 3.

Through an error in the program book, last SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE gave credit for the successful enactment of the rôle of Marguerite in the San Carlo Opera company's Saturday afternoon performance of "Faust" to Belle Vreta. Margery Maxwell, Chicago soprano, sang the part.

Swedish Art Group Exhibit Is Gay Affair

Modern Water Color Wins Vaxsjo Prize.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Swedish-American Art association has opened its eighteenth exhibit in Chicago in the Marshall Field galleries. It is a gay affair, not startling nor particularly vivacious but charming and rather unworldly.

The most flagrantly modern picture, amusingly enough, was awarded the purchase prize of $100 for the Vaxsjo memorial collection at Vaxsjo, Sweden. The picture is a water color, "Washington Square," by Grace Spongberg and is painted in suitably violent blue greens in the familiar modern jerky manner.

Those who know the Vaxsjo collection prophecy that it will show up astoundingly, like a black sheep in a model flock.

The most delightful painting in the exhibition is "Little Back Yard," by Mary C. Peterson. It has atmosphere, feeling and personality. It is charmingly composed and entrancingly painted. The colors sing. In the years that we have followed Miss Peterson's work she has never disappointed us. Her painting invariably is free, fresh and intriguing.

The other finest piece of work is the sculptured bust "Mary Decasteron," by Agnes V. Fromen. The modeling in this is worth a careful inspection. It is beautiful and intelligent work.

Gustaf Dalstrom has adopted a pointilliste technique in "Railroad Crossing," not entirely convincing. The "My Cats," by Phoebe Erickson is more solid. Aksel Westerlind reverts to the primness of the old school with "Lake Zurich." Stella Nelson Lundgren has a stirring sky in "Sun O'er Chautauqua."

Frederick Remahl shows a formal and amusing still life in the "Chicago River Scene." "Hibiscus," by Robert Carlson is decorative. E. L. Bloomster has set two women in a marine and one misses the boat, his usual companion of the sea. His "Bathers and Surf" is a trifle unsteady.

"Quelques Fleurs," by Minnie A. Carlson is temporately modern; more modern in "Rural Fantasy," by Karl Gasslander. The pattern of houses in this is attractive but the garden in the left foreground is extremely disappointing.

The exhibition will continue to May 9.

Morris Henry Hobbs, exhibiting in the O'Brien galleries, has been awarded the $100 prize for the most meritorious work in the Toledo print exhibition. Mr. Hobbs is noted for his etchings.

Infant Home Benefit.

The Dora Buxbaum and the Hilman L. Jacobson auxiliaries of the Daughters of Zion Infant Home and Day nursery will hold a spring dance this evening in the Aragon ballroom.

OPPORTUNISM.

Brilliant defense is, at times, nothing more than shrewd opportunism following a slip by the declarer. In other words, the declarer really defeats himself by the faulty line of play adopted: the defenders need do no more than "pick up the pieces." In order to do so, however, they must recognize opportunity when they see it, and apparently this is a great deal more difficult for many players than the most involved end play.

In the hand shown below South could have insured his contract by one of the simplest of safety plays. In failing to do so he laid himself open to the splendid defensive coup that followed.

South, dealer.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 dimds.	Pass
2 no trp.	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades [final bid]

West opened the king of hearts, dummy played low, and when East signaled a "come-on" with the nine, West led the heart four. The ace won and a trump was led. East, of course, played low, and now the declarer made a serious error—he finessed! West won with the king, cashed his queen of hearts, and then, after profound study of the situation, led the thirteenth heart. He correctly figured that if East had the ace of diamonds it would always be good, nor was it likely that the ace of clubs could be "put to sleep" by discards on the diamond suit that was only four cards long. If declarer held both aces, which was highly probable, there looked like only one chance to obtain another trick, and that depended on establishability of West's trump ten. Admittedly, West was fortunate to find East with the spade jack which, as a ruff to the thirteenth heart, forced declarer's trump ace and set up the ten, but he nevertheless deserved credit for his imagination.

South never should have given this opportunity to West. He should have seen that he could afford to lose a trump trick in addition to two hearts and still make his contract. The proper play on the trump lead from dummy was the ace, not the queen! Next, a diamond should have been led to dummy and a second spade led up to the queen. If East followed, all was well; if he didn't, West's two trump tricks never could be taken away.

In a sense this would have been a two-way safety play: it would have guarded against a singleton king in West's hand, as well as the situation that actually developed. And in no event could it have cost a material trick.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: I held the following hand as dealer, both sides vulnerable: ♠ 9 ♥ 9 7 5 2 ♦ K Q J 8 ♣ A K 7 5. I bid one diamond, next hand passed, and partner responded with one spade. What should be my next bid, after an intervening pass?

Answer: Your next bid should be two clubs. One no trump is not advisable because of the singleton spade.

The Bottle Fed Baby Misses Natural Foods

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"The baby? He's fine. He's on the bottle now. Oh, I couldn't be bothered. Anyhow, they get along just as well. And see how it ties you down."

I've heard several young mothers say this recently, and I think they really believe that their babies do get along just as well.

I can't participate in Baby week without making my plea that every baby shall have the food that nature provides for him.

There was a fashion for bottle feeding at one time, even when it wasn't necessary—but now it's new-fashioned to be old-fashioned and to nurse your baby if you possibly can do so. Occasionally there are conditions which make a doctor think that nursing is undesirable.

Do you know that practically every mother can adequately nurse her baby for the necessary length of time? That is, if she is under the care of a competent doctor before and after the baby comes, and follows his instructions!

If she is determined that her baby shall have the inestimable good of mother's milk it is possible for her to have both the quantity and the quality, if she will eat the proper foods, will rest, sleep, exercise, relax, and faithfully carry out the schedule that the doctor lays out for her.

Nurse your baby while you can and as long as you can, even if the doctor finds that some supplementary feedings may be necessary. You are then giving him the very best chance he can have for a safe babyhood.

1 qt. strawberries ½ tsp. salt
2 cups family flour 4 tsp. baking powder
2 tbsp. sugar ⅔ cup milk
½ cup Prido*

Add ½ to ¾ cup sugar to crushed or sliced berries. Sift flour, measure, and sift 3 times with sugar, salt, and baking powder. Add Prido; cut into flour until it is like wheat granules. Add milk all at once; stir with fork until flour is wet; give few more stirs and turn into buttered cake tin. Bake in hot oven (475°F.) 12 to 15 minutes, until golden brown. Split into 2 layers by sawing with strong white thread. Drizzle melted butter over lower layer and cover with half the berries. Place top layer and repeat. Serve with plain or whipped cream.

Anne O'Brien Is Engaged to J. J. M'Donough

Two Young People Noted for Scholarship.

BY JUDITH CASS.

OF interest today is the announcement that Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. O'Brien of Highland Park are making of the engagement of their daughter, Anne, to John Justin McDonough. Their wedding will unite two of the most popular members of the younger social circles as well as two distinguished scholars.

The tall and lovely blonde Miss O'Brien was graduated from Trinity college in Washington, D. C., and spent the next year in study and travel abroad. She attended the Sorbonne in Paris, where she received a diploma with honors, and returned to the University of Chicago where she received a master's degree in English, and where she studied short story writing under Thornton Wilder. She is a member of the Chicago Junior league where she has been active behind the scenes in all of the Children's Theater productions for the last year.

Young Mr. McDonough, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John J. McDonough of Yankton, S. D., was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1928. He distinguished himself in football, basketball, and baseball, as well as scholastically. He was awarded a Phi Beta Kappa key, and was one of two students at the university to be awarded a Rhodes scholarship in 1928. He studied for three years at Oxford university in England, and now is in the banking business here. He is honorary secretary of the English Speaking union, and a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon. The wedding will take place late this summer.

Miss O'Brien has two sisters, Rosemary, who is spending a year in Europe, and Charlotte, who is a student at Trinity college. Hayes O'Brien, who is in business here, and John O'Brien, a student at the Harvard law school, are her brothers.

Bridge Party Today to Benefit Kenmore.

This afternoon Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. is opening her home at 1550 Lake Shore drive for about one hundred and fifty women to play bridge for the benefit of Kenmore, which, next to Mount Vernon, is the house in Virginia most intimately associated with Washington, and which also is kept as a shrine. It was the home of Washington's sister, Betty Washington Lewis, and her husband, Fielding Lewis.

Mrs. Arthur Meeker, regent of the Illinois committee of Kenmore and in charge of the sale of tables, reports that 50 tables were sold, but that some of those who bought them are away so only about 38 tables will be set up for the game this afternoon. Assisting her have been the members of the committee, including Mrs. Crane, Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson, Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Mrs. Howell B. Erminger Jr., Mrs. John L. Cochran, Charles J. Faulkner, William B. McCluer, and Chauncey McCormick.

Mrs. William B. Greenlee, Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, Mrs. George R. Nichols, and Mrs. John A. Spoor also have helped to make a success of the benefit.

Mrs. Crane Just Back from East.

Mrs. Crane has just returned from three weeks in the east where she went with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Robinson, who now are settled for the summer at Castle Hill, the beautiful Crane estate at Ipswich, Mass. Mrs. Crane plans to join them in mid-May. Her son, Cornelius Crane, and his wife, who is just back from spending the winter in Zurich, Switzerland, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow, but their stay will be brief for they leave in two or three days for San Francisco to sail for Australia. From there they will fly to Europe where they will spend the summer.

Mrs. Meeker is looking forward to having her daughters who live in California, Mrs. Horace Gray and Mrs. Francis Lloyd, with her in Chicago late in May. After a family reunion here Mr. and Mrs. Meeker, Arthur, Jr., Mrs. Gray and her son and daughter, and Mrs. Lloyd will go west together for the three Meekers plan to spend the summer at their Montecito home.

Dr. Gray already is back from England and his wife and children are motoring in Italy and France. They

THE outstanding man in America in the study of the Arthurian cycle is Prof. William A. Nitze, head of the department of romance languages of the University of Chicago. Prof. Nitze's interest came to attention when, in 1899, he wrote a dissertation on the subject for his doctor's degree at Johns Hopkins university, and it probably began many years before that. Scholars interested in the Arthurian legends are awaiting the publishing of a book upon which he is now at work, a second volume of "Perlesvaus, le Haut Livre de Graal." The first volume puts in the hands of scholars the original redaction of the Perlesvaus written after 1191 with variants, which is one of the earliest works of French prose. Because of its connection with Glastonbury abbey, it is called one of the most interesting of Grail romances. The second volume is a commentary on the significance of the work. Dr. Nitze also is the author of another Arthurian book, "Lancelot and Guenevere."

LAYMEN who dispose of the Arthurian legends as tales they found enchanting in their childhood, or read in Tennyson, may be astonished to learn that the Arthurian cycle is considered one of the most important literary manifestations of the eleventh, twelfth, and thirteenth centuries, and extends to many literatures and cultures. Dr. Tom Peete Cross of the University of Chicago is an authority on the Irish and Welsh versions of the cycle, and Prof. George Northup on the Spanish version. The University of Chicago has in its possession six photostatic copies of different manuscripts of the Perlesvaus.

DR. NITZE, on his European vacations, invariably does further research on sources and manuscripts. His friends like to repeat a story about his visit to the Morgan library in New York some years ago to see the Grail manuscripts.

It happened that the Morgan library was closed that day, but the attendant, after being told that the visitor was a midwestern professor who could not flit back and forth between Chicago and New York, offered to consult Miss Belle da Costa Green, in charge of the library, who probably holds one of the most important posts ever given to a woman. After a long wait, Miss Green received the professor with reluctant courtesy. She led him into the Manuscript and Incunabula room and asked him what he wished particularly to see. "The 1516 Perlesvaus Text," he told her.

"But we have the 1523 text, not the 1516," Miss Green answered.

Dr. Nitze protested and lifted a book tenderly from the shelf. "This is an incomplete 1516 text," he explained. "The title page of the 1523 has been pasted in to replace the original title page, which must have been lost."

Miss Green said coldly that he must be mistaken. At that moment a slip of paper fell out of the text. She caught it, studied it, then apologized.

"You are right," she said. "I see by this slip that Prof. Nitze, who is the greatest authority on the subject, has inserted a redescription of the text which proves that it is the 1516 copy."

"Yes, he wrote it twenty years ago, and he could write a much better description of it today," smiled the professor. Then, seeing Miss Green's astonished and incredulous look, he added softly: "You see, I know, because I am Prof. Nitze."

A NEAR north side panhandler whose racket is to say he wants carfare to Gary, where he has a chauffeur's job waiting for him, told his story to a woman last fall. Not long ago he ran up to her as she was crossing the street and told her again his necessity for getting to Gary. She expressed surprise that he had not got there yet.

"You asked me for money for that last fall," she concluded sarcastically.

"Well, it's your fault because you didn't give me the carfare when I asked you before," he countered.

Club Leader, 92, Makes Plea to Beat New Deal

Says Women Must Outwit Brain Trust.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., April 28.—[Special.]—In an extemporaneous speech today before the seventeenth council meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs Mrs. Lucretia L. Blankenburg, 92 years old, of Philadelphia called upon women to save the country from the dangers of the New Deal.

"I notice that a New Deal study club composed of the wives of the congressmen recently has been formed," Mrs. Blankenburg began. "Its first meeting was on April 1 and its first lesson the farm act and why the little pigs were killed.

"This I see as very helpful, for some of our congressmen seem to be so driven that they do not often read the bills under consideration. If women become more understanding, they may be able to advise and keep the congressmen from passing so many unconstitutional laws.

"The new tax bill is said to cover 227 pages and to contain much that the ordinary person cannot understand. Help is needed. It is reported that the White House approves of the club. Maybe Mrs. Roosevelt will join and get a different point of view on some subjects. It's up to the women to outwit the brain trust. Maybe they will do it."

Mrs. Blankenburg, one of the founders of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, has missed only four meetings in its 48 years. Tomorrow she expects to take the stand against the encroaching "red" menace which is viewed with alarm by federation members generally.

Mrs. Blankenburg led the fight for the adoption of the birth control resolution last June at the triennial convention in Detroit. Today she pointed out that the recent tenth woman's conference in Indiana had passed a similar resolution.

No further action or discussion of birth control is scheduled for this council meeting. Although the resolution was passed last June, few states have carried on any campaign in its behalf. A number of Catholic groups have withdrawn from state federations and others have threatened withdrawal if a birth control movement is pushed.

What women need today is a cause they are willing to suffer for, Miss Lena Madesin Phillips of New York City, well known woman leader, told a dinner meeting of the council. Miss Phillips is president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women.

"Women haven't had any real cause to fire them since suffrage," Miss Phillips said.

Miss Phillips said that many of our major problems might be made such a cause if approached with the proper interest and enthusiasm and if women knew how to mobilize.

In the session on public welfare Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, general federation president, was instructed to ask President Roosevelt to appoint an emergency committee to study the effects on the consumer of the pending Patman-Robinson bill. It was pointed out that this measure would add $750,000,000 to the cost of foodstuffs and three to four billion dollars to other products. Mrs. Clarence Fraim of Wilmington, Del., said that the bill was an attempt to kill the chain store but that it would "kill the little fellows instead."

At the international relations session Miss Alves Long of St. Louis, department chairman, indicated that she would seek reaffirmation of the federation's endorsement of United States' membership in the league of nations. The original resolution was passed six years ago and will lapse if not reaffirmed at this meeting.

The council voted this afternoon to send the following cable to Princess Tsahai, wife of the Ethiopian emperor, "General federation responds your appeal world peace." Yesterday Princess Tsahai made a radio appeal in the interest of peace.

Mrs. William Franklin Farrell of Chicago was announced the winner in a close competition to gain the largest number of subscriptions for the General Federation Club Woman, official publication. Other Illinois delegates include Mrs. William Gary Brown, Mrs. Martin Kent Northam, Mrs. John T. Mason, Mrs. R. R. Robinson, Mrs. Fred W. Waterman, Mrs. James E. Oliver, and Mrs. Percy Boynton.

From a Chicago shop: "Something blue" for the bride's trousseau. A tailored negligee of embroidered organdy in a lovely shade of cloud blue. Matching grosgrain ribbon binds the collar, cuffs, and front edging as well as the tie belt. Under it, a gleaming sheath slip of satin in either the same blue as the organdy or in a contrasting color.

New Hues Ready for You to Discover Them.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Some exciting new colors to keep the color matcher busy! One store has gone into this racket with a fine fashion frenzy . . . they have dyed materials to be able to match clothes and accessories and the results are beyond criticism.

You'll like the yellow shade, a nice soft yellow that is so good with delphinium blue [incidentally another one of the effective new shades]. The bright, almost vivid, reddish tone called begonia—goes with the delphinium blue perfectly, and with the soft yellow surprisingly well, too.

In this new spot for colors you'll find separate shirts, jackets of soft wool and sports outfit that is the last word in tailored swank. Also blouses, tailored and not so tailored, and the hats are smart little numbers with all the snap you need for a tiptop bit of color to complete or contrast a street ensemble. Gloves are included in the collection. And last, but very important these spring days, the exactly right flower for the buttonhole in your suit lapel.

Don't neglect this new corner of colors . . . it'll give you plenty of new ideas and probably inspire a brand new early summer daytime outfit.

A color that is being combined with white is a grand ginger brown tone, a brown that isn't a trying copper but a brown with lots of life and depth. There are some heavy silk outfits trimmed with narrow edgings of snowy white lace and embroidered organdy. This same brown stuff is trimmed with white piqué or sheer organdy bows of old fashioned pointed edges of heavy white.

One shop has the exact match in this brown tone in some especially good spring footwear, tie pumps, sandals for street, and simple pumps of fabric, with and without matching lether trim.

Fashion photograph. . . . One of the loveliest of trousseau negligees ready for the spring bride. This coat style negligee is of cloud blue embroidered organdy. The cuffs, collar and bindings on the front are of matching blue grosgrain ribbon. Either a blue or contrasting colored satin sheath slip is worn with this flattering organdy. It is available in a Chicago shop.

Four Yacht Club Boys and Cab Calloway and his band.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Again—with pleasure! I hand it to Mr. Jolson. Time has not dulled his luster as an entertainer.

His ace card is what it's always been. He gives, to quote the song refrain, "all of him." And audiences at the Garrick are loving him for it just as they have loved him for it in his past successes of stage and screen.

"The Singing Kid" is nice, nutty, different musical comedy drama stuff. The story is a kidding, clowning, at times wistfully appealing affair, dealing with the vicissitudes and victories of a grand chap of a stage and radio star whose pal and gal do him wrong; whose voice breaks under nervous strain, but who, in the end, reaps the happiness and loyalty he merits.

There are the Yacht Club Boys, Cab Calloway and his band, Mitchell and Durant [who give ME a pain]. Allen Jenkins and Edward Everett Horton please as the star's true blue pals. Claire Dodd and Lyle Talbot are handsome and hellish as the deceivers, and Beverly Roberts—a newcomer so far as I know—handles the heroine rôle in delightfully sincere and wholesome fashion. Very pretty she is, too, in a scrubbed, healthy sort of way.

Little Sybil Jason, the English child actress, is adorable as Miss Roberts' small niece. AND—

I ask you to see this picture [and take the youngsters] if only for the fun you'll get out of watching Messrs. Jolson, Jenkins and Horton play dolls with this young lady!

Through the Looking Glass

We don't like to see lovely, old-established products not get a break. And it does seem that nowadays he travels the farthest who hollers the loudest while the timid soul sits in a corner and wonders what all the shooting is for.

A cream that's been around for years and years, a rich white one that never even got so new-fangled as to be called anything but a cold cream seems to us to deserve a lot more attention than it's been getting lately. It isn't expensive, for one thing—and for another it serves its purpose as a cleanser and a skin softener beautifully. It's very faintly perfumed—and you can tell by its smooth texture that it's compounded carefully.

While it's called a cold cream it isn't a bit like the cold creams of old, the heavy, stiff mixtures that you almost had to pull to smooth over the skin. This is all squishy, the way we like cleansing creams to be, and a rather economical cream to use because a little spreads rather well. It isn't a liquefying cream, by the way.

It cleanses most efficiently and it's rich enough to use as a softener or as a night or massage cream as well. It seems to us an excellent cream choice for the skin that is stubbornly dry because this cream is so obviously rich. And if you're economizing, with no desire to buy a flock of creams, you can use it for two necessary purposes—to cleanse and to massage or lubricate as well.

An old Chicago beauty establishment makes this cream. You'll find it in several Chicago shops.

Holds Television Will Be Used in Home, Not Theater

A prediction that television will never be used in theaters except for occasional programs was made yesterday by Homer G. Tasker of the Universal studios, president of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers which is meeting at the Edgewater Beach hotel. "We do not regard television as competition," Tasker said. "It is a product for the home field, like radio." At yesterday's session the engineers heard papers on acoustics, sound equipment, lighting, and projecting.

Her Husband's Past

By Elizabeth York Miller

SYNOPSIS.

Nell Martin meets and falls in love with Eric Cameron from London, an older divorced man, who is visiting in Wellsport. She ignores her parents' pleas to forget him and accept Dick Holmes, her childhood sweetheart. Nell elopes with Eric to London. On their honeymoon she learns Eric has two children, Meg, 17, and Robin, 15; that she must make her home with them and with Mrs. Beaumont, the mother of Hilda, his first wife. Hilda has married again. Her children believe her dead. Nell discovers the household is hard pressed for money. Her first day there a collector comes to shut off the gas. Nell goes for her purse to pay him. She finds Mrs. Beaumont has gone through her belongings. Her money is gone. Nell accuses the old woman of theft. When Eric comes home he tells Nell he had deposited her money. Nell apologizes. Mrs. Beaumont promises to forgive but not forget.

INSTALMENT IX.

HATRED.

As the days passed Nell began to doubt if Meg really had overheard the bitter exchange of words between herself and granny on the subject of Hilda. The girl had said nothing, nor had her manner towards her stepmother altered. As far as Meg was concerned, the position might be described as one of armed neutrality.

She had solved the housing problem without consulting Nell by moving herself up to the attic floor where there were two large rooms with dormer windows. Robin had one of the rooms. So Eric and Nell had Meg's former room, and some new furniture was bought for it.

Nell, ostensibly the mistress of the house, could hardly be allowed to occupy a back hall bedroom, however modest she was about it.

For two whole weeks, while readjustments were going on, Mrs. Beaumont remained in seclusion, and Meg trudged up and down with her meals. Granny had aired her grievance to Meg very fully, but apparently did not get much support. Meg and her grandmother were not on terms of great sympathy.

Robin was granny's favorite, and Meg was her father's. Meg and granny quarreled as though of equal age. Mrs. Beaumont, as well as her daughter, had once been on the stage and that probably accounted for her resonant voice and theatrical manner.

"Very grand," said granny satirically—"all got your faces washed, I'd say."

Nell had never worked so hard in all her life as she did during those first weeks in her new home. She didn't know she had it in her.

Some sort of order was brought out of the chaos. There was a regular orgy of housecleaning and rearranging.

One thing was already well understood. Eric must not be worried for money. Nell spent nearly half of her own money on necessary odds and ends, but the new bedroom furniture had been acquired on the hire purchase system. It was a way they had in the Cameron family.

Nell had written to her mother begging for forgiveness and saying that she was very happy. The letter touched lightly and favorably upon her stepchildren but it did not mention Mrs. Prudence Beaumont at all. So far there had been no answer, but she hardly expected one immediately. Her parents would take some time to decide upon their attitude toward her, that is to say, her father would, and what her father determined always, in the long run, constituted the law.

By the second Sunday a minor miracle seemed to have been wrought. Even Meg was gracious enough to acknowledge that a change for the better was manifested.

One of the little bedrooms had been turned into a study for Eric—something he had never thought of doing for himself; and they had had a workman in to color-wash some of the walls and clean the dingy woodwork. In short, an untidy barracks was beginning to resemble an orderly, well-run home.

It was on Sunday that granny condescended to join the family group at teatime. They were having tea in the drawing room because Eric was home, and Nell had baked a spice cake and made scones.

"I'm not going to carry her meals up to her any more," Meg said. "She's perfectly well. I told her so. I said if she didn't come down she could go without her tea. I'm sick to death of those stairs."

"I think she's coming down now," Robin said.

A thumping and a shuffling were heard on the stairs and Eric got up to lend the old woman a hand. Needless to say it was a trying moment for Nell who had not seen her stepmother-in-law since the fiasco of the apology.

Mrs. Beaumont was majestic with an ivory-headed cane and a trailing wrapper of yellow satin trimmed with a great deal of black lace. It must have been quite twenty years old, judging from the fashion.

Disdaining Eric's assistance she stalked in and took a long look around before accepting the armchair that had been placed near the hearthside for her.

"Very grand, aren't you?" she began in her deep, satirical voice. "All got your faces washed, I'd say. Dear me, a touch of the country, too!"

Nell had bought lilac and tulips to enliven the drab furnishings. Mrs. Beaumont, it seemed, was scornful of her efforts.

The old woman sank heavily into a chair, and Meg brought her a footstool and waited on her.

Munching at a large slice of the spice cake she allowed her roving glance to settle on Nell in a speculative fashion, but she did not speak to her.

"I hope you like the cake," Nell ventured. "I made it from a recipe of my mother's."

Mrs. Beaumont laid what was left of the slice onto her plate and gave it a disdainful shove with her little finger.

"What's become of that photograph of Hilda that used to stand on the mantel?" she demanded, addressing Eric. "The one of her taken when she was with the Carl Rosa company. It was there the last time I was in this room."

"I don't know," said Eric. "I didn't notice it was gone."

He looked as uncomfortable as might be expected.

"No, I don't suppose you would notice. Your mind's been on something else lately."

"I've got it in my room," Meg said.

"Ha—and the right place for it. I thought perhaps someone had taken it upon herself to throw it out, and that would have been a pity because the frame is valuable."

Nell turned deathly white. She was very young, poor child, and never before in her life had she met with downright hatred. She did not know how to cope with it.

She threw Eric a pitiful glance. Was he going to allow her to be treated like this?

Robin caught his grandmother's eye and snickered in appreciation of her mordant wit.

It was upon him that Eric turned.

"I'll thank you to leave the room," he said.

The boy got up without a word and went out whistling with his hands in his pockets. A moment later the front door banged.

"What's the poor child done now?" Mrs. Beaumont demanded. "Why should you drive him out of his own house? Seems to me that lately he's spent as much time away from it anyway as he can manage."

Nell's hands were clenched. She could not bear another second of this. If only she herself could walk out of the house as nonchalantly as Robin had done! But if that ever happened she felt that she might never come back.

Eric, who always put off disagreeable things, was trying to sidetrack this one. In other words, he dodged the issue.

"Rob's at a difficult age," he said. "His manners need to be tidied up a bit. I must take him in hand."

Before Mrs. Beaumont could think of anything cutting to say in reply to his remark, the doorbell rang.

"I'll go," said Meg who had been sitting like one in a trance all through the painful scene.

Nell leaned forward. She had caught the sound of a familiar voice.

"Yes, Mrs. Cameron is in, Mr. Holmes. No, I don't think I've heard her mention you, but please come in," Meg was saying. "I'm sure she will be glad to see you."

Dick—Dick Holmes, of all people! What could that mean? Nell jumped to her feet so impetuously that her movement set all the tea things rattling.

will land in New York on May 25 and will come directly to Chicago. Mrs. Lloyd is going east in May to attend the annual meeting of the Garden club of America to be held at West Point for four days starting May 19. She is president of the Santa Barbara Garden club.

Delegates to Visit Gardens on Hudson.

There will be several Chicagoans going to the meeting, of course, including Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, who is going to be the guest of Mrs. Samuel Sloan at Garrison, while she is there. West Point will be the headquarters but the delegates will visit gardens and be entertained all up and down the Hudson, so everyone who is going is anticipating a wonderful four days.

Members of the Garden club of Illinois will go to school for three days, beginning Monday, May 11. At the Morton Arboretum three days of intensive nature study are being arranged in connection with Conservation week. The five staf experts of the arboretum, assisted by Donald Peattie, the author, will give lectures and conduct field trips.

Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, whose father, Jay Sterling Morton, founded the arboretum, is one of the sponsors of the school. Others are Mrs. Willard W. Jaques, new president of the Garden Club of Illinois; Mrs. Euclid Snow, past president; Mrs. Arthur Boettcher, conservation chairman; Mrs. Edwin D. Evans, Mrs. Jacob Weinberg, Mrs. Mark W. Cresap, Mrs. Haddon MacLean, and Mrs. George Sallitt.

More Prenuptial Parties for Marianna Dunn.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine and Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey are among other Chicagoans who have gone to Washington for the wedding tomorrow of Miss Marianna Dunn and Count Guy de Baillet Latour, to take place at noon in St. Matthew's Roman Catholic church. A breakfast will follow at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Clement Dunn. Mrs. Dunn is the former Miss Mary Armour of Chicago, sister of Laurance H. Armour and A. Watson Armour, who with their families are in the capital for the wedding.

Today a former Chicagoan, Mme. Espil [Courtney Letts Stillwell Borden], wife of the Argentine ambassador, gave a tea for Miss Dunn, and tonight another former Chicago resident, Mrs. Joseph Leiter, will give a dance at the Sulgrave club for the bridal couple. The bridal dinner is tonight, preceding the dance. The bridegroom and his mother arrived in Washington from Belgium last week and are the house guests of the Under-Secretary of State and Mrs. Phillips. Count Guy's uncle and aunt, Prince and Princess Clary, who came over with him and his mother, are guests at the Belgian embassy. Count Guys' father is arriving in the capital today from Japan.

The first of the many pre-nuptial festivities was a dinner given Saturday night by Mr. and Mrs. Phillips. The bride's only attendant at the wedding will be her sub-deb sister, Cynthia, and the bridegroom will be attended by Prince Clary.

Mrs. Alfred C. Tyler Again Heads W. A. C.

Mrs. Alfred C. Tyler was reëlected president of the Woman's Athletic club at the annual meeting yesterday.

Mrs. William F. Petersen was named first vice president; Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, second vice president; Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, third vice president; Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, recording secretary; Mrs. Stanley Zaring, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Taylor Strawn, treasurer.

New directors are Mrs. Charles Ward Seabury, Miss Lila Woodruff, and Mrs. Averill Tilden.

The concert that Alec Templeton gave at the club was such a success that he will give another on the morning of May 7 especially for the benefit of those members who could not gain admittance at the first concert. This time each member will be limited to one guest.

Mrs. George T. Leach is opening her home at 1456 Ridge avenue, Evanston, this morning for the third of Dr. Horace J. Bridges' lectures for the benefit of the Cradle. "Modern Sweden, the Land of Sanity" will be the subject this morning.

Clifton Utley will give the last of three lectures for the benefit of the Glencoe Junior Infant Welfare group this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Glencoe Union church. Current events and world news are discussed by Mr. Utley, director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations.

To celebrate the birthday today of the emperor of Japan, the consul of Japan and Mrs. Sadao Iguchi will be host and hostess at a reception from 5 until 7 o'clock this afternoon in their apartment at 5555 Sheridan road. Members of the Japan-America society have been invited to the reception this afternoon.

A large attendance is expected tonight at Orchestra hall at the thirty-second annual spring concert of the Paulist Choristers of Chicago. Father O'Malley will conduct the concert, which raises money for the summer camp in Wisconsin for the boys.

Seminary Faculty to Give Reception.

President and Mrs. John Timothy Stone and members of the faculty of the McCormick Theological seminary are receiving today from 4:30 until 6:30 o'clock in The Commons of the seminary. Pouring will be Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, Mrs. Tracy C. Drake, Mrs. Douglas Stuart, Mrs. Ralph Clarkson, Miss Annie Williams, and Mrs. E. H. Smith.

The spring benefit of the University of Chicago branch of the Southern Woman's Educational alliance will be held at 8:30 o'clock tonight at Ida Noyes hall when Dean Gordon J. Laing will lecture. Mrs. Donald P. Bean, chairman, will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Laing and the William A. Nitzes at dinner before the lecture.

Others entertaining include Mr. and Mrs. Ronald S. Crane—she is president of the branch—the John Beals, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Peete Cross, the Thurlow Essingtons, Mrs. Charles Beeson, Miss Marjory Daniels, the Lyman R. Flooks, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Fuqua, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus W. Jernegan, and Mrs. William F. Ogburn.

Strawberries Gain Glamor in Spring Recipes

BY MARY MEADE.

Show us the man, woman, or child who doesn't like strawberries! Or take the unfortunate being around to interview the sideshow manager of the circus. You might be able to realize a little hard cash by exhibiting him. [Now, now, if you really don't like strawberries, don't write in a huff to demand an apology. We don't means to be insulting.]

Anyway, this spring strawberry-love is pretty universal, and wise is the meal planner who capitalizes on it. Strawberries, rosy and unhulled with powdered sugar for breakfast; a strawberry omelet for the main luncheon; hot strawberry shortcake for dinner dessert—she begins with these!

Strawberry dishes to us are just like oyster combinations. You can't [don't want to] neglect the tried-and-true favorites. Hence you perfect your flaky biscuit shortcakes and serve the old-fashioned loves frequently. At the same time, you're ever alert for new ways to spotlight and accent the color and fresh flavor of the berries.

We want to suggest a few of those new ways today. Alternate them with your present favorites and your family may vote this the most delightful strawberry season in memory.

The first is a jellied strawberry dessert. If that sounds fairly ordinary, note the recipe. It calls for a little Curacao, the delicate flavor of which liqueur lifts the dessert out of the "usual" class into realms of higher delight.

Jellied Strawberry Ambrosia.

3 cups crushed strawberries and juice
⅔ cup sugar
2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
¾ cups boiling water
2 tablespons Curacao

Crush the washed, hulled berries, add the sugar, and chill for one hour. Soften the gelatin in cold water, add boiling water and, when dissolved stir into the strawberry mixture. Add the Curacao and turn into sherbet glasses. Chill until firm. Serve with sweetened whipped cream, delicately flavored with additional Curacao, and garnish with halved or whole strawberries.

A frozen strawberry omelet is another dessert treat you shouldn't deny yourself another day! Try it on the family first and then serve it with aplomb and assurance at your next luncheon party.

Frozen Strawberry Omelet.

1 pint strawberries
1 tablespon granulated sugar
3 eggs
6 tablespoons confectioner's sugar

Wash, hull, and crush berries. Add granulated sugar and chill for two hours. Separate eggs. Beat yolks until thick and lemon colored, and whites until stiff. Drain juice from berries and add berries to egg yolks. Fold confectioner's sugar into stiffly beaten egg whites, and combine the two mixtures. Add 4 tablespoons of the strawberry juice [save the remainder for a chilled, mixed, fruit cup]. Pile lightly into refrigerator tray and freeze rapidly.

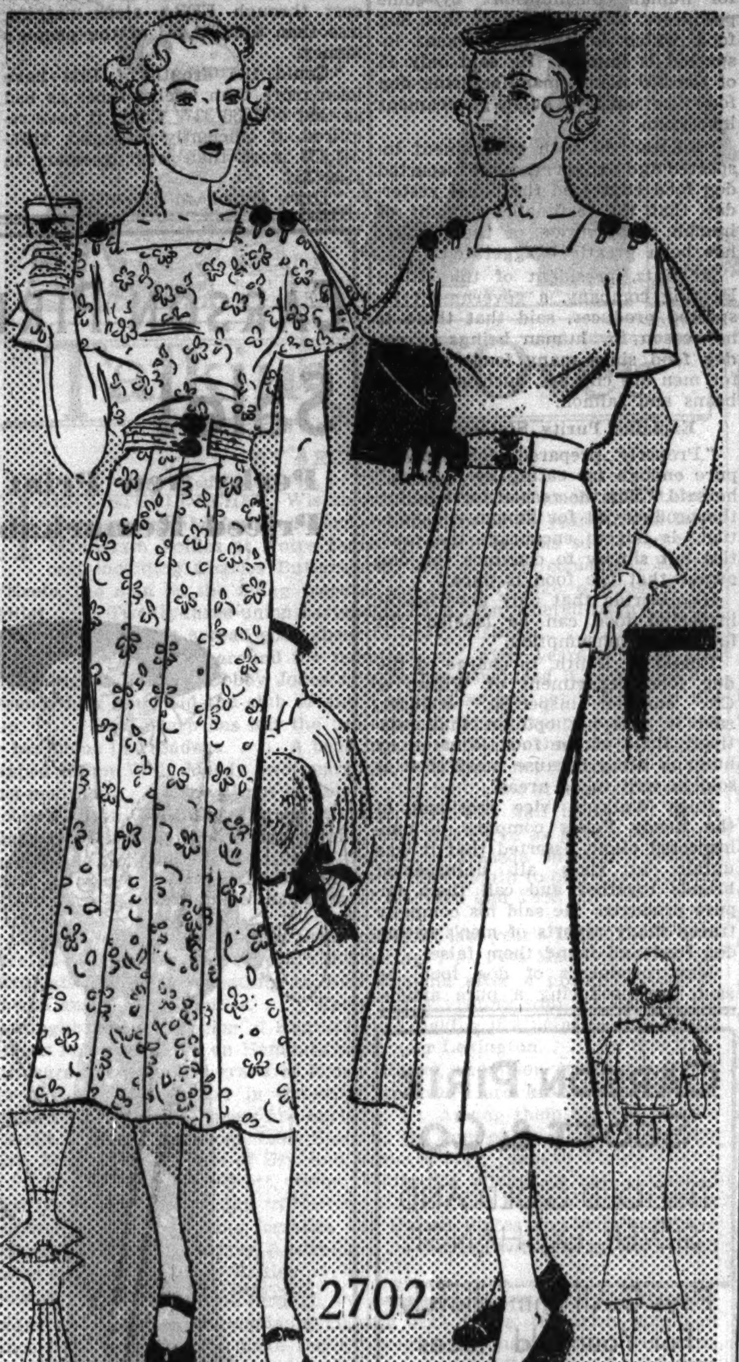
Sophisticated Daytime Frock



WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

For general daytime wear, or for town and country, there is scarcely a frock with the sophisticated and youthful chic which this dress possesses. Its square neckline is flattering and girlish, and the buttons on the shoulders lend dash in the sports manner. The belt is slightly wider than is usual, and is accented by the same smart buttons. The sleeve is slit in charming fashion. The skirt achieves an illusion of height with its smart gores.

The original frock is fashioned of a cotton print with a rough finish. Prints are, of course, the logical mediums for this dress, but plain fabrics, in flattering colors, are equally acceptable. This frock is simple to sew. The sleeves are cut in one with the shoulders, and the one piece back is fitted through the waistline with tucks.

Style No. 2702 is designed for sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3⅛ yards of 35 inch material.

Formula for a sparkling wardrobe: The spring and early summer edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions. In it you will find presented all types of clever daytime costumes, scintillating "date" frocks, important evening gowns, special models flattering the heavier-than-average figure, attractive house dresses, and scores of styles for juveniles. The booklet now is on sale for 15 cents, 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address Chicago Tribune, P. O. box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Love Protects Marriage from Failure Causes

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The six principal causes of marriage failure were listed recently by a well known psychiatrist of one of the Municipal courts, as: Different family backgrounds of husband and wife; relatives interfering, especially mothers-in-law; infidelity, incompatability, alcoholism, and a desire to dominate.

One of the editorial observers suggests that most of us know a married couple in whose lives several or more of the above named marriage wrecking clauses appear and, amazingly enough, the marriage survives in a disconcertingly satisfactory manner. From which there isn't any moral to draw, except that if you have that certain feeling for the one you marry the common marriage destroyers don't get in their famed dirty work at all. But if, like the dusky lady of the humor fable, you jes' done lost taste for your legal partner, you can compile a list of reasons from here to Timbuctoo and then not have included all said mate's incompatibilities.

On second thought, there is a moral. Marry for love. Marry a mate for whom you'd go through perdition. Marry a mate who inspires you with such devotion that all the marriage wrecking clauses in the world would mean nothing as long as he is your man, or she your woman. It's the only way known to beat the hijackers that line the matrimonial road.

Where are you going to get said mate? That's for you to find out! We can't give a clue. We can suggest only that you interrogate yourself well and thoroughly on why you're marrying and how much you would endure just to be by that mate's side. If you're marrying for a meal ticket a mother-in-law's gentle "good morning" may eventually assume the nature of a studied insult.

If you marry to get out of a job, thinking you're espousing a softer one, and you find out you were fooled, the list of incompatibilities you can write against your mate would constitute too tiring a physical job to set down. If you're a man, and you marry because you're sick of batting around and would like a taste of home cooking, differences attendant on family backgrounds would be the least of your reasons for your distaste for married life.

Folks marry these days for so many reasons that have nothing to do with the companionship, with the kind of affection imperative to marriage success, the wonder is that municipal court psychiatrists do not meet more of them. We hear much of the honesty with which modern marriage is approached today, the sensibleness of it all. But it remains for just such reports as offered above on marriage wreckers to prove that for a long, enduring pull nothing matters so much as that deeply rooted emotion that never will permit you to "lose taste" for your man or your woman.

Declares Poor Civil Service Keeps System from Making Advance

Cincinnati, O., April 28.—(AP)—Criticism of the administration of civil service in the United States came tonight from an educator and former personnel director of the Tennessee Valley authority.

Floyd W. Reeves, professor of education at the University of Chicago, told the twelfth convention of the National League of Women Voters "he defects of present civil service procedures constitute a major reason for slow extension of the merit system."

"Present laws, methods of administration, and scope of personnel functions," said Reeves, "are inadequate even in those units . . . presumably operating under a merit system."

Reeves listed among defects "lack of financial support" and negative instead of positive approach, making the United States civil service commission's function "the policing of appointments."

Posture Prime Influence on Clothes Chic

Smartest Frock Is Dowdy with Poor Carriage.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Posture is preached from every beauty pulpit known. There are salons which feature this dominant beauty builder. Schools have their training courses, with posture a big item in the course. Youngsters are slammed and banged on the back constantly to the tune of "straighten up!" Yet, in this matter of posture, more women fail themselves than on any other single item. I fear women listen to this advice about posture as they listen to talks about water drinking and getting fresh air in the system. They know all about it, but what of it? That's the usual mood of reception.

Feel that way if you must about your six glasses of water a day. Feel indifferent to the ozone you're told you should get. Punishment will catch up with you some day, but you're getting your punishment right now with your poor posture, for your clothes do not, cannot, look smart as long as you make an ugly picture of your bodies.

I had this fact impressed on my mind again the other day when attending a fashion show. There are so many of these shows going on right now that the supply of best models obviously cannot cover the entire field. So, at this particular clothes showing, there were only two out of five models whose clothes brought forth that gasp that insures their success. The show was a disappointment on the whole, yet the dress designer has turned out magnificent looking things. She dresses a number of the best dressed. Here was a plain, unvarnished picture of what a girl with a bad walk and graceless turning motions can do to good clothes.

But one sees it on the street daily. One sees it everywhere she goes. One sees that breath taking one with the alert, easy motion, the ensemble motion I like to call it, because all the sections of the body move in a harmonious whole. There is something of the joy of living in this woman's picture. Behind her there will be the one who has lost the knack of smart carriage, if she ever had it, and she is a perfect flop, no matter how expensive her raiment.

There is no news in the fact that posture makes the smart one. There would be news in the fact that women suddenly all became aware of just exactly what is wrong with their clothes. We speak of the women who receive scant compliments, of course. They're disappointed after they go and put a lot of money in an outfit and some fair rival comes along who knocks their world cold on half the money.

CHICAGOANS GET FIRST LESSON IN CONSERVING SOIL

Land Owners Told About New Easy Money.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Sixty-three members of the Chicago Farmers, an association recently formed here, were given their first lesson yesterday in the federal government's new $500,000,000 soil conservation and domestic allotment law by O. G. Barrett, Cook county farm adviser. Using the case method, Mr. Barrett explained the intricacies of the soil program launched in Illinois recently under the direction of Lee Gentry of Oregon, Ill., head of the state soil committee.

More than seventy township committeemen already are at work in Cook county alone, making farm to farm visits, explaining the law to individual farmers and gathering facts concerning crops grown on each farm. This information will be used in determining the amount of government money to be paid coöperators this year, Mr. Barrett told the landowners at a luncheon held at Henrici's.

Illinois to Get More.

He said experience gained so far in administering the law indicated that Illinois farmers would receive more than the average for converting acres used last year in growing such soil depleting crops as corn, wheat, oats and barley to soil building crops such as clover, alfalfa and lespedeza. According to his explanation, the government offers two classes of payments to farmers who join the program. Illinois farmers who earn their Class 1 payments by growing soil building instead of soil depleting crops will receive an average of about $12 an acre on 15 per cent of the soil depleting crops grown last year. The average for the nation is $10. To earn their payments farmers must grow soil building crops or adopt one of the approved practices such as applying lime or planting trees.

Soil Fertility Payments.

Up to a certain limit they will receive Class 2 payments of $1 an acre for maintaining soil fertility by continuing to grow legumes or by following practices that keep up the fertility of soil.

Examples given by Mr. Barrett indicate that the average Illinois farmer might receive in excess of $200 from the federal government for taking part in the soil program.

CHICAGO BARBERS TO GET INCREASE IN PAY MONDAY

Some 10,000 journeyman barbers in 5,000 shops in Chicago and Cook county will get a pay boost starting Monday, it was announced yesterday, as the result of an agreement between the Master Barbers' Association of Chicago and the Journeyman Barbers' International Union of America. John E. O'Connor of the United States department of labor acted as conciliator in the negotiations, which began several months ago.

Under the new agreement the present $17 weekly minimum wage for journeyman barbers will be increased to $20. The barbers had asked a $25 a week minimum. They will receive 60 per cent of their receipts above $31 a week in addition to the minimum wage.

It was announced that the boost will not mean an increase in haircut prices, which jumped on April 6 from 50 cents to 60 cents on weekdays and 65 cents on Saturdays and the days before holidays.

REPORTS FAMOUS HAWAII VOLCANO IS IN ERUPTION

HILO, Hawaii, April 28.—(AP)—Ralph Buzzard, radio operator who first reported Mauna Loa's spectacular eruption last November, said tonight the volcano had erupted again. Confirmation was not obtainable at once from volcanologists located near the mountain.

Buzzard said the eruption tonight was 12,000 feet high on the upper ridge above the place where the mountain poured forth lava in its last display.

Townspeople saw a brilliant, red reflection that made the overcast sky appear on fire.

Buzzard said he could smell the fumes from his lookout station on the flank of Mauna Kea, about twenty miles across the saddle from the volcano.

Parents of Boy Put Out in Underwear Get Year

Ernest Temple, 3233 North Halsted street, and his wife, Lillian, 26, were sentenced by Judge Leon Edelman in the Domestic Relations court yesterday to serve each one year in the Bridewell for contributing to the delinquency of Ernest Temple Jr., 7 years old, Temple's son by a former marriage. Temple and his wife, the mother of two small children by a former marriage, were arrested several days ago after Ernest Jr. had disappeared from home clad only in his underwear. The boy was found two days after his disappearance. Judge Edelman will hear a motion to vacate the Bridewell sentences on May 29 and indicated he might release the Temples then.

TUGWELL'S FARM PROJECT CALLED A SUPERSTATE

Senator Assails Costly Experiment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Charging that Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell's Resettlement administration had become a super-government of such enormous proportions as to require 27 different buildings and its own private telephone directory in Washington, Senator W. Warren Barbour [Rep., N. J.] today demanded that a special senate committee investigate this agency.

Senator Barbour introduced a resolution for such an investigation on March 11, when the Resettlement administration occupied only 19 buildings, but since that time, he declared, he has been unable to get any coöperation from the senate leaders or any information from Tugwell. He accused Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas of "ruthlessly" smothering his resolution by moving to table it, thereby cutting off discussion, when it was offered yesterday as an amendment to another resolution.

Called Super-Democracy.

The senator said the Tugwell agency was a super-burocracy, with 13,000 persons on the administrative pay roll, which was created by President Roosevelt without authority of congress and which is not answerable to congress. By Dec. 15, he declared, a total of $196,070,000 had been allotted by executive order from relief funds.

Senator Robert D. Carey [Rep., Wyo.] asked whether the 13,000 on the administrative pay roll did not exceed the number that had been resettled by Tugwell's agency.

"I am quite sure," Senator Barbour declared, "that there are many times more employés in the bureau than persons who have been put to work or accommodated in any of the resettlement undertakings. That is what I want to find out."

Reads Impressive Titles.

Senator Barbour read from the telephone directory some of the impressive titles, such as assistant, executive assistant, assistant to the executive assistant administrator, etc., and came to the business management division, which had a "space" manager.

In actual results, Senator Barbour said, five resettlement projects have been approved and work, according to the agency's own report, has started on four of them.

Senator Barbour described the glowing prospectus which announced a new Utopia which was to spring up from the marshes of New Jersey, with a large clothing factory, 200 houses at $3,000 each surrounding it, sewage disposal, light, heat, and water.

"I know enough, from 25 years of business experience, that if we were to undertake to make clothes by any such method as that, a set of rompers would cost forty to fiifty dollars," Senator Barbour declared.

Lorado Taft 76; Laments Yanks' Grasshopper Life

Most Americans live as grasshoppers do, without thought for the future or for the past, Lorado Taft said last night, on the eve of his 76th birthday. Mr. Taft, noted sculptor, will celebrate his birthday quietly with Mrs. Taft in their studio and residence at 6016 South Ingleside avenue. He urged incorporation of courses in art appreciation in all high schools, and as part of the course, a study of photographs of the masterpieces of the ages.

DENY 20% OF DOG FOOD IS EATEN BY POOR HUMANS

Manufacturers Reply to Sen. Dickinson.

Several leading dog food manufacturers in the Chicago area yesterday took issue with statements made in the United States senate Monday that a considerable proportion of the dog food produced in the country is being eaten by human beings.

Senator Lester J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] charged that high prices resulting from the New Deal policy of planned scarcity and crop destruction had forced many people with low incomes to eat dog food. He quoted a former secretary of the National Dog Food Manufacturers' association as estimating that 100 million pounds, or one-fifth of the total annual production, is eaten by men, women and children.

Assails Wording on Labels.

Senator Dickinson condemned the practice of labeling the food "Fit for human consumption" by some producers, and maintained that dog food which is not government inspected is impure. He said only 15 of the 200 plants manufacturing dog food are under regular government inspection.

Producers of both government inspected and nongovernment inspected dog food expressed the belief yesterday that the estimated amount of human consumption of the product has been greatly exaggerated.

M. Katz, president of the Rival Packing company, a government inspected producer, said that there is no reason for human beings to eat dog food since many foods suitable for men are cheaper, such as canned beans and salmon.

Explains Purity Statements.

"Properly prepared dog food is pure enough for eating by humans," he said, "but the reason for labeling the product 'fit for human consumption' is not to encourage the practice but simply to convince the dog owner that the food is pure."

He asserted that only government inspected food can be labeled "fit for human consumption."

Russel M. Smith, in charge of the dog food department of Wilson & Co., another inspected producer, said it was his opinion that relatively little of the food is eaten by humans being because most of it is sold in well to do areas.

Rush Watkins, vice president of the Ready Foods company, a noninspected plant, asserted that it was unfair to class all uninspected brands together and call them impure products. He said his company traced many reports of men's eating dog food and found them false.

Most producers of dog food, he said, are producing a pure article.

1934 DROUTH RELIEF WASTE IS DENOUNCED BY JULIA CANTACUZENE

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Princess Julia Cantacuzene, granddaughter of President Grant, today issued a pamphlet which asserted that the Roosevelt administration had wasted money on drouth relief and indicated that the American Red Cross could have handled drouth relief more economically.

"In 1930-'32 a great drouth occurred," the pamphlet declared. "The national Red Cross took over the relief task. Congress voted $25,000,000 for this work, but the Red Cross declined to accept and collected the necessary funds through popular subscription.

"The Red Cross did the work successfully with an expenditure of slightly under $15,000,000.

"In 1934 another drouth began in the west involving twenty-four states. The Red Cross could have coped with it by an expenditure of $30,000,000. Yet, according to the report of the director of the emergency council, 1935, the 1934 drouth relief cost through FERA alone nothing less than $182,341,453 of the people's money.

"Could the drouth of 1934 have been more than twelve times as bad as that of 1930-'32? Could it have required, if efficiently managed, $167,341,453 more than was necessary in 1930-'32?

"Draw your own conclusions."

HOUSE WRECKERS GET INDIGNANT AS OWNER PROTESTS

Oscar W. Oschatz, 7321 St. Lawrence avenue, owns a vacant six apartment building at 4348 Champlain avenue. He told Judge N. J. Bonelli in the Municipal court yesterday how surprised he was on April 16 to arrive at the building and find a gang of workmen tearing it down.

Mr. Oschatz appeared to press a charge of disorderly conduct against James Gibson, colored, 1034 Blue Island avenue, one of the workmen, who is alleged to have threatened to shoot Mr. Oschatz if he didn't let the wreckers alone.

"I found out," said Oschatz, "that the National Wrecking association, 139 North Clark street, had obtained a permit to wreck my building, apparently by mistake. I had to get the police to stop the wreckers."

Boy Hit on Head by Stone Near Death of Tetanus

Donald Butsback, 7 years old, 4841 North Claremont avenue, was struck on the forehead by a small stone thrown in play by another child on April 19. The wound healed quickly but tetanus developed. On Monday the boy was taken to the Children's Memorial hospital, where he was reported near death yesterday. Donald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Butsback.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Grass Under Shade

April 28, 1936.

ROUGH stalked meadow grass is expected to aid in solving the problem of keeping a green turf in the shaded portions of lawns on the Tribune Experimental farm near Wheaton. Three years ago two tiny patches of this grass appeared on one of the lawns under box elder trees at the farm. These spots survived the 1934 drouth and have continued to spread year after year until today they are about 10 feet in diameter and seem to thrive better than any of the other grasses growing in the shade.

This spring the head gardener is sowing more grass seed containing rough stalked meadow grass seed. He is using a mixture of this grass with meadow fescue, another grass which does well in shady places.

The rough stalked meadow grass is a perennial which lives over winter in this region. It is related to Kentucky bluegrass but somewhat finer, producing a softer turf, and is of an apple green color. This meadow grass is classed as a creeper and will spread over a wide area in time.

The meadow fescue, according to the Wheaton farm gardener, is a sturdy, coarse grass which grows rapidly and should be seeded with some other grass. He uses it only in shaded areas.

Open Lawn Mixture.

In open lawns where there is little or no shade a lawn mixture made up of the following seeds is used: Kentucky bluegrass, 70 pounds; red top, 25 pounds, and white clover, 5 pounds. The Wheaton farm gardener points out that this mixture is successfully used on lawns in the middle west. He says that the bluegrass is slow to germinate. Red top comes up quickly and serves as a nurse crop for the Kentucky bluegrass. White clover has been found valuable on the farm's lawns because it helps to maintain fertility by adding nitrogen to the soil. It produces a thick covering on the lawn which discourages the growth of crab grass, according to the gardener.

In addition to preparing new lawns at the Wheaton farm this week, the gardeners are patching old lawns, rolling the greenswards, and applying fertilizing materials under the trees to stimulate the growth of grass. The gardeners find it necessary to apply extra plant foods around trees. Trees are heavy feeders and use up the plant food elements in the surface soil, often starving the grass on lawns.

More Vegetables Planted.

The second planting of vegetables and flowers were made in the open garden last week. Seeds of cauliflower, onions, peas, beets, kohlrabi, and turnips were planted in the vegetable garden. The first planting of peas have sprouted but are not yet above ground. In the flower garden gypsophila, larkspur, clarkia, and mignonette were planted. Gladiolus bulbs were also set out in the open garden.

Care of Tea Roses.

Hybrid tea roses in the farm's garden were given an application of superphosphate last week. Twenty-five pounds were scattered around the roses growing in a plot 8 by 12 feet. The material was worked into the top two inches of soil. The head gardener finds that the rose is one of the few plants that will do well with a heavy application of manure fresh from the dairy barn. He applies about a two inch layer along with the superphosphate.

After the manure is applied the ground is flooded with water to wash it into the bed. In fair weather the material dries readily and then can be easily raked back away from the rose plants to prevent the burning of the stems. For many years the farm gardener has followed this method of fertilizing hybrid tea roses and has some of the finest produced in this region.

HE DID WINS KENTUCKY DERBY TRIAL BY NOSE

ARMY CHAMPS NEAR U. S. FOR GOLDEN GLOVES

Transport Will Dock Tomorrow.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Ten doughty soldiers from the Hawaiian Islands arrive in San Francisco tomorrow on the transport Republic. They will entrain tomorrow night for Chicago, will be quartered at Fort Sheridan and compete in the National Golden Gloves tournament May 7 and 8 at the International amphitheater. From this meet the United States Olympic team will be chosen.

These men are the winners in competition which attracted 25,000 contestants and their trip to the Olympic boxing trials marks the most pretentious effort by United States enlisted men to win places on the Olympic boxing squad. At least several of these men, so their officers have asserted, should place in the championships which will be held May 20 at the Chicago Stadium. The eight champions that night will be named on the Olympic team, and unless they are beaten out in the practice drills in Europe by the alternates, they will oppose the boxers of the world in the Berlin games.

It's the Tops.

No amateur boxing tournament ever held is comparable to the National Golden Gloves meet here on May 7, May 8, and May 20. The soldier team will travel 5,000 miles to compete. Twenty-one states and the District of Columbia will be represented. Practically every metropolitan center from Boston to Los Angeles and from New Orleans to Detroit will have boxers seeking the right to fight at Berlin.

The personnel of the soldier team follows:

Plenty of Champions.

In addition to this list of ten, eight Golden Gloves boxers from the ninth annual tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and winners in a field of 17,000 boxers; eight champions from Detroit representing three states; 32 qualifiers in the National A. A. U. tournament at Cleveland; 21 qualifiers in the national collegiate tournament at the University of Virginia, and 11 boys admitted by application on the basis of records complete the quota of 90 which the Olympic committee has set for the meet.

Tickets may be purchased now for the two nights at the International amphitheater as well as the championships at the Stadium on May 20 at the Tribune's Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. Mail orders still are being accepted by the Golden Gloves ticket manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. The advertising box on the first sports page lists the prices of the tickets for all three events of the tournament.

Pontecarvo Is Ready.

Badgers Greet Stuhldreher Tomorrow

Madison, Wis., April 28.—[Special.]—Harry Stuhldreher will arrive in Madison Thursday afternoon to assume his duties as head football coach and athletic director at the University of Wisconsin.

Stuhldreher, coach at Villanova since his graduation from Notre Dame in 1925, wired President Glenn Frank he was leaving Philadelphia Thursday by plane for Chicago.

His arrival here will not be heralded by the blare of trumpets. He will slip quietly into the city, by train or automobile, late Thursday afternoon, confer with university officials, and then attend a reception tendered by students and members of the faculty in the Memorial union that night.

The former star quarter back of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen will take his first look at the Badger players Friday afternoon. Spring practice will begin in earnest next week.

President Frank, members of the athletic board and faculty departmental heads are planning a dinner in Stuhldreher's honor, but definite arrangements will not be made until after he arrives, Dr. William F. Lorenz, chairman of the athletic board, said tonight.

The reception Thursday night will be limited to faculty members and students because of limited space.

SOX GET PLENTY HITS, BUT LOSE TO BOSTON, 11-8

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., April 28.—The White Sox made three double plays today in the midst of jams, while their foes, the Boston Red Sox, stifled them with three double plays when things appeared hopeful. And these double killings probably accounted for the fact that the Red Sox beat the White Sox by the low score of 11 to 8 instead of 77 to 56. It was the fifth straight whipping absorbed by the White Sox.

Eight runs is the highest total the Chicagoans have amassed this season. And today was the first time they have found themselves without pitching of at least middlin' caliber. The Red Sox made nine hits off Monty Stratton, including two triples and a double, before a batsman had been retired in the third inning.

Sox Belt a Few.

Babe Phelps pitched four innings and yielded six hits and walked three. The harvest off Babe's flips was seven runs, three of which came in on Jimmy Foxx's No. 5 homer. Italo Chelini pitched the seventh inning and allowed no hits and Les Tietje gave up a double but no runs in the eighth. Neither Chelini nor Tietje had pitched an inning previously this season.

The 13 hit Chicago attack included homers by Jimmy Dykes and Mike Kreevich, a triple and a double by Luke Sewell, who has been helpless for days, and a double by Tony Piet. These hits were made off Johnny Welch and the White Sox after trailing, 11 to 4, advanced to the point where they had the tying run at the plate with one out in the eighth. Then Lefty Grove entered the arena and snuffed out the remaining five batters with the greatest of ease and grace.

Boston Takes Lead.

After the Red Sox had retired the White Sox in order in the first inning, they caused a bit of anxiety for the Chicagoans. With two outs, Manush tripled to the center field wall and Foxx walked. The threat ended, however, when Foxx was trapped trying to steal second, Sewell to Piet to Bonura.

Bonura and Appling flied to Cooke in the second inning, but Piet walked. Tony was out stealing when he overslid second base.

Werber led off the Boston second with a single to center and stopped at second while Rick Ferrell was beating out a slow roller along the third base line. McNair singled to right center, Werber scoring and Ferrell taking third. Melillo hit into a double play, Piet to Appling to Bonura, Ferrell scoring.

Sox Go to Front.

The first Chicago hit was the homer which Dykes knocked over the left

HARRY STUHLDREHER, Wisconsin's new football coach and athletic director, was the featured German tenor for three years in the Irish Monogram Follies at Notre Dame, in which he was supported by a cast including Charles Butterworth, now a movie comedian; Walter O'Keefe, the man on the flying trapeze, and Ralph Dumke, a sister of the skillet. . . . Twenty-three union bartenders have been ordered from Chicago to Louisville to help spread good cheer to Derby visitors. . . . Al Simmons is showing some silver around the temples. . . . After years of study and theorizing on putting, Bobby Jones says he has concluded it makes no difference how you hold the club or stand so long as you get the ball in the cup. . . . A back injury, similar to the one that handicapped Helen Wills Moody two years ago, will force her to remain in bed two months. . . . She will not be able to play tennis for at least six months. Bobby Wilson, Southern Methodist university's star half back, will be in charge of several hundred college men who will serve as guides this summer at the Centennial exposition in Texas. . . . Pete Mehringer, Chicago Cardinals' tackle, is wrestling in New Zealand after a profitable tour of Hawaii and the Philippines. . . . Early Derby visitors who are touring the thoroughbred horse region of Kentucky are making it a point to stop at the famous horse cemetery on Hamburg place near Lexington. . . . In this little enclosure they see the grave of Nancy Hanks, champion trotting mare of her age. . . . With her in the small enclosure are headstones showing where 13 other great horses are buried. . . . Among them are Sir Martin, Plaudit, Ogden, Star Shoot, Lady Sterling, the dam of Sir Barton; Ida Pickwick, Miss Kearney, dam of Zev, and Princess Mary, dam of Flying Ebony. . . . To which this department offers an aside: "Over Joe Louis' dead body." . . . Hirsch Jacobs, who for the last three seasons has saddled more winners than any other man on the American turf, was a trainer of pigeons before he became interested in thoroughbreds a few years ago. . . . Doc Darwent, physical director, has been at the Chicago Athletic association for 21 years and Benny Yanger, boxing instructor, has put in 19 years of service there. . . . Forty years ago this summer Capt. A. C. Anson and Fred Pfeffer, both in their baseball prime, played against the Australian cricket team at the Wanderers field, which later became the first home of the White Sox. . . . Anson made five runs and Pfeffer six. . . .

Ford Frick and William Harridge, presidents of the National and American leagues, respectively, soon will meet with Commissioner K. M. Landis to plan details of the fourth annual All-Star interleague game, scheduled for the Bees' field, Boston, July 7. . . . It is understood that both Mr. Harridge and Mr. Frick favor a resumption of the poll, which popularized the game in the beginning. . . .

Golden Gloves Tickets

The amateur boxing champions of the United States will be crowned in the Golden Gloves Olympic tournament at the International Amphitheater May 7 and 8 and at Chicago Stadium May 20. Winners will represent Uncle Sam in the world games at Berlin.

Tickets are easy to buy. If you can't get to the Tribune Public Service Office, 1 S. Dearborn, or Tribune Tower, and if you don't want to order by mail, simply telephone Superior 0100 and ask for "Golden Gloves Tickets". Your seats will be held for you until you are able to pick them up.

The prices for the bouts on May 7 and 8 are 55 cents, $1.10, and $1.65. The finals, May 20, sell for 55 cents, $1.10, $1.65, $2.20, and $3.30. All seats are reserved.

CUBS AGAIN PICK LEE TO WELCOME BROOKLYN CLUB

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs, who have been more or less side tracked since April 14 in their plan to repeat as champions, weren't able to attempt a return to the main line yesterday. Soaked premises, caused by morning showers, forced a cancellation of their year's initial engagement with the Brooklyn Dodgers, who were the choice of the schedule makers to open the invasion of Chicago by the eastern clubs.

The titleholders when they arrived home yesterday were a slightly bedraggled lot, the cause of their low mental state being the two jolts on the chin in three meetings with the Cincinnati Reds. Having had a whole day to devote to reflection that the race still is in its infancy and that they didn't get started on their 1935 pennant until the last month, they should be in a better mood to provide amusement for the Dodgers this afternoon.

Brooklyn Picks Earnshaw.

Bill Lee, who would have pitched yesterday if the show had been staged, has been reassigned for today. The extra 24 hours of rest probably won't work to his disadvantage. After being knocked loose from employment in less than two innings, both turbulent, at Cincinnati last Saturday he was in the bull pen the next day warming up in a serious way in anticipation of a blowup by Tex Carleton, who finally fooled more than the Reds by going through to a four hit triumph. George Earnshaw may oppose Lee.

After discovering that his pennant machine refuses to function at better than a .500 pace, Manager Grimm is beginning to think about slight changes. He doesn't figure it will be necessary to make them immediately, but he wants to be ready. Just now the failure of Augie Galan, the 1935 whirlwind, to hit is causing concern. This unexpected development has given Grimm the idea that he might give the flashy youngster relief whenever southpaw pitching is encountered. This would mean installation of Tuck Stainback.

Pitchers Source of Worry.

The pitchers also are a source of worry, but, like Galan's hitting, they may get better. The suspicion, and it is well founded, is that none of the throwers benefited by the here today and gone tomorrow spring tour that carried the team from California to Chicago by way of Florida. Added improvement is expected from Charley Root, who soon will be available for his regular turn. He made his season's appearance last Saturday as a relief man against the Reds and gave up only one run in two and one-third innings.

12,000 Take Second Free Golf Lesson

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The weather man, only malcontent among all of the coöperating parties in the fourth annual free golf school of THE TRIBUNE, did his worst to scare feminine students away from their second class yesterday, but by the time school was called last night, 12,000 women and girls were on the courses of the Chicago Park district and the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association.

JOCK HUTCHISON.

Intermittent showers throughout the day, interspersed with darkling clouds, formed a conspiracy to thwart the hopes of feminine seekers after golf's A B C's, but it was an ill fated plot, for the 12,000 who came out last night outdid the first night's enrollment of last week, when a raw chilly evening greeted 10,000 pupils.

Change Men's Classes.

The pivot and the backswing were studied last night, combined with a summary of the first lesson, the grip and the stance. Men and boys will attend their second classes at the same courses tomorrow night, beginning at 7:15 o'clock, and the school proper will end next week with the third and final lesson for women and girls scheduled for Tuesday and for men and boys on Wednesday. The men's class for next week was moved up to Wednesday because of the opening of the Olympic boxing trials on Thursday.

BEATS SANGREAL IN LAST STRIDE; GRAND SLAM 3D

Comes from Behind After Losing Lead.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 28.—He Did, winner of the Santa Anita Derby, won the Derby Trial at a mile today in a thrilling finish in which three horses were inches apart.

After enjoying a slight lead, He Did surrendered his advantage on the bend leading into the stretch to Grand Slam, Detroit's great mud runner, and to Sangreal, owned by Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago.

Then acting the part of a true route runner, he came again in the last half furlong, fought his way by Sangreal and Grand Slam and won in the final stride. Sangreal finished second, beaten by a nose. Grand Slam was third, just a head back of the two leaders.

Carries Top Weight.

Dneiper, owned by Mrs. P. A. B. Widener of Philadelphia, finished fourth, and trailing still further back were Holl Image, Arkansas Derby winner; Noble Star, Forest Play, and Count Morse.

He Did, packing 118 pounds, top impost of the race, reeled off the mile in the good time of 1:37 2-5. He ran the first quarter in 23 3-5, the half in 46 3-5, and the six furlongs in 1:10 3-5.

Grand Slam, off his good effort in Chesapeake stakes ten days ago, was made the odds on favorite. He broke from the No. 1 post position and was away a little slower than the others, but he had raced his way back up near the leaders before the field was half way down the back stretch.

Grand Slam dashed on past He Did on the turn with so much geunine authority that he appeared to be safely on his way to victory. Those who had backed him to win not only the Derby trial but also the Derby were jubilant.

Mrs. Mars Stock Booms.

Sangreal, which had been racing on the outside and in third position, began to move toward the front. He also passed He Did and the stretch run was only starting when he snatched the lead from Grand Slam.

Grand Slam finished gamely, but he wasn't good enough to catch either of the leaders. He didn't get much help from his rider, J. Bryson, but that was the only excuse he had to offer. Kentuckians tonight doubt if he is a stayer. They rate He Did as a dangerous Derby threat. Sangreal's stablemate, The Fighter, admittedly is a better horse than Sangreal; so the race caused the Derby stock of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars to boom stoutly.

Those which trailed three leaders don't seem to belong in the Derby, yet their owners probably will think otherwise. He Did's good race was a startling improvement over his effort in the Sophomore purse last Saturday. He Did had been overlooked during the rush of support to Grand Slam and paid off at better than 7 to 1 in the betting.

Ned Reigh Is Out.

Another highly regarded candidate dropped by the wayside today when Ned Reigh, Willis Sharpe Kilmer's colt, woke up with a temperature. Veterinarians were called and they advised that no attempt be made to start him in the Derby.

Instead of starting The Fighter in the Derby trial, Trainer Bob McGarvey decided to give him a good, brisk mile workout this morning.

He came out on the track with

Gehrig Smacks Homer to Aid Ruffing.

New York, April 28.—(AP)—Charley Ruffing, knocked from the mound in his two previous starts for the New York Yankees, bounced back into form today as he shut out the Cleveland Indians, 2 to 0. It was the first shutout the Yanks had scored this year.

Ruffing yielded only four hits, struck out three and did not allow a base on balls. He pitched perfect ball for five innings, Billy Sullivan getting the first hit off him in the sixth. Knickerbocker followed suit in the same inning and when Ben Chapman, back in the game after recovering from an attack of pleurisy, fumbled the ball, the Cleveland catcher took third. He was the only Cleveland player to get that far all afternoon. Lou Gehrig hit his third homer of the year in the fifth for the first Yankee run. Score:

Evanston Hands Proviso Second Setback, 7 to 5

Evanston handed Proviso its second setback in the Suburban league baseball race, 7 to 5, yesterday. Chuck Ratcliffe, Evanston first baseman, connected for a double, triple, and single in three trips to the plate. He also drove in four runs and stole two bases. Score:

Proviso ....011 030 0—5 5 2
Evanston ....021 310 *—7 6 3
Batteries—Grove and Merrill; Dale and Collins.

La Grange captured its sixth dual track meet of the season by defeating Maine, 74 to 48, at La Grange yesterday. Henry Moore, La Grange, captain, placed first in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and second in the broad jump.

New Trier defeated Lake Forest academy, 8½ to 6½, in a golf match at Lake Forest yesterday. Victor headed the New Trier triumph by scoring a 32—36—38, two under par, to defeat Derslinger of Lake Forest, who turned in a 38—38—76. John Armour, son of Tommy Armour, captain of the Lake Forest team, shot an 83 to defeat Bland of New Trier, the latter carding an 85.

field wall. Sewell doubled off the wall, his first hit in 26 trips to the plate, and took third while Stratton was beating out a bunt. Radcliff hit into a double play, and Sewell scored the tying run. Kreevich then socked an enormous homer far over the left field wall to put Chicago ahead.

The White Sox lead enjoyed a very brief life. Manush led off the home third with a single to center and went to third on Foxx's single to right center. Werber then tripled to the center field wall, scoring Manush and Foxx. Stratton was replaced by Phelps and on Babe's second pitch, Ferrell singled against the left field wall, scoring Werber. McNair bunted and with an easy play on Ferrell at second, Sewell threw the ball so far into center field that Kreevich almost caught it on the wing, Ferrell reaching third and McNair second. Melillo was given an intentional pass and the bases were full with none out. Welch then hit into a double play, Bonura to Sewell to Bonura, and Cooke grounded to Bonura.

No Letup.

The Red Sox resumed the bombardment in their fourth. Cramer was hit by a pitched ball and went to third on Manush's third hit, a single to right. Foxx then knocked his No. 5 homer over the left field wall, scoring behind Cramer and Manush.

The third Boston double play in as many innings choked the White Sox off with one run in the fifth. Sewell walked and went to third on Phelps' single. Radcliff singled to right, Sewell scoring and Phelps stopping at second. Kreevich then hit into the double play, Melillo to McNair to Foxx.

Boston Steps Out.

The Red Sox got going again in the sixth. Manush led off with a single, and scored when Kreevich misjudged Foxx's drive and let it go for a double. Foxx scored on Werber's single to center. Ferrell and McNair walked, filling the bases, then Melillo hit into the third White Sox double play, Werber scoring.

Haas beat out an infield single to start the eighth and stopped at second on Bonura's single to left. Appling forced Bonura and Haas stopped at third. Piet doubled to left, Haas scoring and Appling stopping at third. Morrissey singled to right center, scoring Appling and Piet. Wilson replaced Welch and walked Sewell. Washington was announced as the hitter for Chelini, whereupon Grove went in to pitch. Grube then batted for Washington and fouled to Ferrell. On the first pitch which Grove served him Radcliff lined to Manush.

Kennedy, Ferrell Will Be Opposing Pitchers Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., April 28.—Vern Kennedy will make his third start of the season for the White Sox here tomorrow. The very able Wes Ferrell, who still is sore about a trouncing he took at the hands of the Philadelphia Athletics last week, has been designated as the Red Sox starter.

Mel Almada, until today the Red Sox regular right fielder, was benched because he had made only two hits in 28 times at bat.

The Bostons, who, like the Chicagos are named after the sox they wear, have changed their design again. Last year they retained the red by means of very low boots, with the rest of the stocking solid black. This year the red boots are a little higher and the black is broken by two wide white stripes. The White Sox's white socks are approaching the seasonal gray and mud.

Every score card editor in the three cities the Sox have visited this year has misspelled Rip Radcliff's name, using a final "e."

ILLINOIS BEATS PURPLE, 4-0, FOR SIXTH STRAIGHT

Champaign, Ill., April 28.—[Special.]—Illinois won its sixth straight Big Ten game today as Howie Berg shut out Northwestern, 4 to 0. Berg held the Wildcats to three hits, struck out six and gave four bases on balls. Floyd Stromme, Northwestern pitcher, was also in good form, holding the Illini to four hits before giving way to a pinch hitter in the seventh inning.

Duffner's single in the fourth scored Dancisak with the first Illinois run. In the fifth Daukus scored on a sacrifice fly. The bases were full, but a double play halted the Illini. In the eighth the Illini added two runs when Reinhart scored on a fly and Dancisak on a fumble by Merrill.

Landis Bans New Baseball Radio Outlets

In a 26 word statement, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, yesterday warned all major and minor league baseball clubs not to make any additional commitments for radio broadcasts of games.

The order was issued after Landis heard pleas from W. G. Bramham of Durham, N. C., president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, and George M. Trautman of Columbus, O., president of the American Association and chairman of the executive committee of the National Association. They told Landis fans in minor league cities were listening to broadcasts of major league games rather than attend games in their home cities, causing dwindling gate receipts.

Short, Snappy, and Typewritten.

Landis, in his statement, said:

"Pending further notice all major and minor leagues and clubs will refrain from making any additional commitments, arrangements, or authorizations for radio broadcasts of ball games."

The meeting was attended by Ford Frick, president of the National league; William Harridge, president of the American league; Landis, Bramham, and Trautman. Existing radio contracts will not be disturbed, but indications are that broadcasting may be curbed before the 1937 season opens.

"The only purpose of the meeting," said President Harridge, "was to see if something could be done to help the minor leagues.

Minors Need Help.

"The club owners of minor league clubs have protested to Landis and Bramham that their fans were listening to major league broadcasts rather than attending the minor league games. There will be no change in the present relations with radio stations, but before next year we must do something to protect the minors. Otherwise they will be ruined.

"It is amazing how many small radio stations in minor league territory have started to broadcast major league games by telegraphic descriptions. This practice has grown by leaps and bounds this year.

"This situation doesn't apply to the radio stations in the major league cities, but does to the stations in the minor league cities. They obtain a sponsor locally and then get on the air with a major league game. The minor leaguers feel this is an invasion of territorial rights."

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

FEED BOX DOPE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 28.—On our rounds of the Churchill Downs barns this morning The Wake sought Indian Broom, a colt by Brooms-Kawita which only two weeks ago set a world record for 1⅛ miles of 1:47 3-5, displacing the former mark of 1:48 1-5, shared jointly by Brevity, Derby favorite, and Discovery.

Why, then, have Derby followers not heard more conversation concerning this San Francisco owned fellow, sold during the winter as a castoff from the Brookmeade stable of Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane? Two reasons suggest themselves. One was the light weight carried by Indian Broom, only 94 pounds, as contrasted to the 120 on Brevity when he made his mark. Another reason, perhaps, is the colt's personality.

Indian Broom was just ready for a Derby trial when we arrived at the track, so we waited until it was ended before approaching. With weight up, Jocky Burns aboard and pulled up at the end, he reeled off 1⅛ miles in 1:53. How he was restrained in later stages is shown from his first six furlongs in 1:11 3-5.

Looking up from the rubbing table on which he was being massaged, Indian Broom whinnied, "A newspaper man, I assume?"

We replied, "Yes, Old Man Wake of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE."

"Ho, ho," he continued, "your paper is opposed to the New Deal, isn't it? Let me warn you in advance. I'm what you'd call a parlor pink. My owner has plenty of money, but I absorbed humanitarian ideas while a hot dog at Harvard. Why, my frri-end," he went on with an inflection not entirely unfamiliar, "do you realize that over 90 per cent of the big stakes in this country are won by about 2 per cent of the racing colts? There should be wider distribution of that which we all produce, shorter racing hours, social security in our declining years—who wants to pull a garbage wagon in old age?

"Although born with a meshed silver nosebag over my muzzle, my ideas are not entirely based on theory. I determined to find out how the other fellow lived. Last season I was dropped down into claiming races when I failed to get along in the stake events of my kind. What I saw was deplorable. Not enough oats, not enough blankets, miserable barning conditions for many of my fellows and an unfair division of this world's goods. Then and there I resolved to devote my career to help if, possible, in providing a more abundant life and more comforts for the forgotten colt.

"That's why I'm back in this upper circle again, to proclaim to my kind that metropolis and breeding farm are as one, that city and farm must stand together. To do that I must break into that 2 per cent. I'm not afraid to experiment. If I don't win the Derby Saturday, which I expect to do, I'll try something else—like the Belmont Stakes or the Arlington Classic. Our cause must and will go on.

"I started 15 times as a 2 year old with 4 victories, earning $4,650. In seven starts as a 3 year old I've been out of the money only twice. I was winter raced in California and naturally I'd like to beat Brevity, which was Florida raced.

"It's all right for you writing fellows to underestimate my California performance because of weight, but any one who beats Top Row by seven lengths with any kind of weight is worth considering. And remember I'll be carrying the banner of all colts and fillies oppressed by the capitalistic system. We should be owned by the government anyway under an HIC bureau, the initials standing for Horse Improvement corporation. Come around some other time and I'll tell you more about our program."

It was only a few steps to the stall of Bold Venture, owned by M. L. Schwartz, which has 2 year old victories over Grand Slam and Granville. This son of St. Germans-Possible was in high humor.

"Hello, Wake," he greeted, "so I'm a Derby candidate. Funny, isn't it? Naw, I don't know whether I'll win or not, but I have a great chance. You and French saw that full route workout this morning in 2:10, just breezing at the end and not let out at any part of the journey.

"Isn't a laugh, though, for a fellow whom no one liked well enough at Mr. Schwartz's dispersal sale last year to make a respectable bid. So Mr. Schwartz kept me and leased me part of the year to Admiral Cary Grayson. I'm back in my old colors now, and it would give me a still bigger laugh to put it over.

"I can't take all this stuff as seriously as your friend Indian Broom over there. I'm more concerned with my daily quantity of oats than with the future.

"Seriously, I have a smart chance. I was real good last year until messed around and injured in the Hopeful stakes. I won romping in my first start this season, although I didn't beat much. Trainer Maxie Hirsch likes my chances, and he's a keen appraiser. So if that fellow for whom nobody would bid high last year when they had a chance to own him comes down in front Saturday don't be surprised. Hope I see you again, Wake, here or along the circuit."

PHILLIES ROUT BLANTON; BEAT PIRATES, 9 TO 7

Pound Two Other Pitchers for Victory.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 28.—(AP)—The Phillies knocked Cy Blanton from the mound and continued a 17 hit assault on two other Pirate pitchers to win, 9 to 7, today. Blanton, rookie flash of last season, lasted only three and two-thirds innings, and yielded six hits.

Philadelphia collected 17 hits with Leo Norris, shortstop, leading the attack. He made five hits, including a home run. An attempt to make a shoestring catch put Fred Schulte, Pirate center fielder, out of the game in the fifth with minor injuries.

At Arcadia Gardens—Five professional wrestling bouts.

At 124th Field Artillery armory—Seven amateur boxing matches and one wrestling bout.

Boxers of various dimensions tonight will display their wares in seven contests at Chicago Arena, 333 East Erie street. Every division will be represented except the bantamweight and flyweight.

Pat Murphy, Danville, Ill., and Ernie Kulasik, Chicago, meet in one of five encounters at six rounds at the welterweight poundage. It is a grudge affair. Kulaski won a previous meeting with Murphy on a foul in six rounds a few weeks ago. An attractive lightweight bout at six rounds involves a rematch between Sammy Verse, former Omaha sectional Golden Gloves champion, and Tony Michaels, Ashtabula, O. Verse won the decision in their first meeting at the Arena last Wednesday. Other bouts:

George [Tiny] Bittner vs. George Vallos [6], heavyweights.

Jack Moran vs. Joe Mendoza [6], middleweights.

George Dixon II. vs. Tommy Cross [6], featherweights.

Floyd McNulty vs. Raymond [4], light heavyweights.

Tommy Atkins vs. Georgie Trapp [4], welterweights.

Ten wrestlers go on parade tonight in five encounters at Arcadia Gardens, 4444 Broadway. John Swenski, Lynn, Mass., clashes with Stanley Buresch and Frank Malcewicz opposes Julius [Mephisto] Woronick, Detroit, in two feature matches, each of which is set for one fall with a 60 minute time limit. Whitey Walberg faces Mike Kilonis, John Silvy opposes Red Vagnonne, and Denny Lentz encounters Frank Schroll.

Meanwhile principals in the boxing show at the Arcadia arena and the wrestling program at the Coliseum tomorrow night are marking time.

The card at the Arcadia is a continuation of the heavyweight tournament Co-Matchmakers James C. Mullen and Nate Lewis have been offering at Chicago Stadium the last few months. An eight round bout between Harry Thomas and Vincent Parrille is the reputed headliner tomorrow, but another match at this distance involving Johnny Erjavec and Sandy McDonald is attracting as much attention. Erjavec is undefeated in his last thirteen appearances, including a one round knockout he scored over Eddie Boyle at the Stadium Feb. 14.

McDonald, who calls Dallas, Tex., his home, was unveiled at the Stadium March 26. He lived up to every expectation by giving Packy Gardner of Indianapolis a severe beating in six rounds. He returned from the east the other day where he knocked out Johnny Daniels in two rounds at Pittsburgh April 15 and Tony Cappa in one session at New York April 24.

Headliners at the Coliseum mat show tomorrow are Ed [Strangler] Lewis and Sun Jennings and Danno O'Mahoney and Jim McMillen. They will be supported by three other bouts, also between heavyweights. The combined weight of the ten performers is approximately one ton. The principals and the poundage each will carry into the ring follows:

O'Mahoney, 228 pounds, vs. McMillen, 218.
Lewis, 240, vs. Jennings, 235.
Orville Brown, 218, vs. Howard Blazer, 212.
Ernie Zeller, 225, vs. Lou Plummer, 240.
Sam Cordovano, 215, vs. Jack Ross, 200.

dict he will prove himself a logical choice for the Olympic team.

Each boxer who competes in the National Golden Gloves meet will receive a souvenir gold medal. The eight champions in the finals May 20 will receive golden gloves inscribed to indicate that these boys are United States Olympic winners. The eight runnersup that night will receive silver gloves.

The eight boys who will represent the Golden Gloves team of 1936 in the Olympic tournament will assemble in Chicago next Monday. They will workout at least twice in order to be certain that they will make weight and that they are ready. The out of town members of the team have been notified of the training date. Johnny Brown, bantamweight champion, and Chester Rutecki, welterweight champion, now are training at the Catholic Youth organization.

Faber Signs to Teach in Traveling Baseball School

Muscatine, Ia., April 28.—(AP)—Urban [Red] Faber, former Chicago White Sox pitcher, is to serve as an instructor for Ray Doan's traveling baseball school this summer, Doan, a Muscatine promoter, said today. Faber will assist Tris Speaker, George Sisler, and other former major league players in the school, Doan said.

U. S. CURTIS GOLF TEAM CLOSES INFORMAL PLAY

Leaves for Gleneagles and Serious Practice.

MAIDSTONE, ENGLAND, April 28.—(AP)—Final informal practice over, the American women's Curtis cup golf team tonight headed for Gleneagles, Scotland, where they will settle down to serious preparations for defense of the cup there May 6 against a British side.

The eight invaders from the United States, captained by Glenna Collett Vare, the American champion, engaged in four ball mixed foursome matches with British amateurs and professionals for partners this morning and then, with the same partners, participated in a match play-against bogey competition for a special trophy presented by Lady Baillie.

Mrs. Hill Wins Trophy.

The trophy was won by Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, who, with Sam King, made two turns around the nine hole Leeds Castle course seven up on bogey, which corresponds roughly to women's par. For his part in the winning performance King received ten pounds, approximately $50.

Diana Fishwick, the former British queen of the links, and Arthur Lacey, brother of Charlie Lacey who is a pro in New York area, also were seven up, but Mrs. Hill and King were declared winners because they had the better record for the last six holes.

Mrs. Vare, Padgham Six Up.

Other results:

Mrs. Vare and Alf Padgham, six up; Maureen Orcutt crews of Coral Gables, Fla., and Abe Mitchell, four up; Patty Berg of Minneapolis and Denis Kyle; Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., and R. Kelly and Joyce Wethered and Sir Adrian Baillie, each three up; Charlotte Glutting of South Orange, N. J., and William Steele, all square; Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth, Tex., and A. G. Wallis, one down; and Mrs. Leona Cheney of Santa Monica, Cal., and Capt. F. Anson, two down.

Miss Miley, the women's western champion, and Kelly won by the widest margin in the mixed foursomes. They defeated Joy Winn and Hugh Mitchell, 3 and 2. Miss Berg and Kyle were beaten 2 and 1, by Miss Wethered and John de Forest, the former British amateur ruler.

American Players Tired.

The American players were tired after having played 72 holes of strenuous competition in the last two days. Mrs. Vare said practice sessions at Gleneagles would be as "private as possible." From now on the Americans will compete among themselves until the proper combinations are worked out for the foursome matches in the cup competition.

BADGERS BEAT ILLINOIS STATE NORMAL, 4 TO 3

Madison, Wis., April 28.—[Special.]—Scoring the winning run in the ninth inning, Wisconsin opened its home season today with a 4 to 3 victory over Illinois State Normal. Nick De Mark singled with two out to score Joe Capicek, who had singled and stolen second.

The Bagders led 3 to 1 going into the ninth inning, but State Normal rallied to tie the score. Score:

State Normal	001	000	002—3	8	3
Wisconsin	001	000	201—4	6	1

Batteries—McCambridge, Brandt and Augustine; G. Zuehls, W. Zuehls, and Radke.

12,000 Women Take 2d Lesson in Tribune's Free Golf School

last night, with a class of 3,500 watching Harry Cooper, Glen Oak star, give the exhibition, while Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley lectured. Meanwhile Matt Matteson of Ridge, Al Megeff of Postl's, Charley Raddatz of Jackson park, and Eddie Garre of La Grange gave individual attention to each group of students. Garre's pupils were so enthusiastic that a searching party finally was sent out for the group and its teacher.

Smith Braves Fog.

Horton Smith, winner of the recent Masters' tournament, stayed through the fog overhanging the Diversey course in Lincoln park to aid Jock Anderson of Techny Fields in helping the second largest class of the night, 3,000. With them were two new members of THE TRIBUNE school faculty, Jock Hutchison of Glen View, and Eddie Gayer of Twin Orchard, both of whom came a considerable distance to lend a hand. Packy Walsh and Frank Crowe of Bryn Mawr, and Tod Hardy of Diversey also assisted the classes.

Tony Penna, newcomer to Chicago's tournament ranks, journeyed all the way from Itasca to aid Joe Jemsek of Cog-Hill, the boss teacher at Marquette, where Victor Soitz of Southmoor, and Wally Reich of Cog-Hill, continued their individual instruction. Penna pointed to swinging with the hands and keeping the head in position as two of the best aids to beginners.

Meet Mr. Dub.

Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr, and Lee Waldron of Mohawk, gave the class of 2,000 at Columbus park an interesting lesson. They were aided by Ren Smith and Harold Beers of Oak Park, and Al Huske and Herb Johnson of Butterfield. Waldron impersonated a dub, while Walsh gave a critical impression of Lew's swing, stance, and grip, as such.

The inner courses of the Daily Fee association reported the best attendance they have seen in the current school, nearly 5,000 coming out to Mid City, Evergreen, and Big Oaks. Mel Thompson was in charge at Mid City, aided by Joe Tivnan, Tim Hartnett, and Hank Kassman. Abe Espinosa directed the pupils at Evergreen, with the aid of Ray Hutchison and Wally Dixon. Abe stressed body action in the pivot.

Revolta Helps Out.

Johnny Revolta, Evanston's national professional and western open champion, was the featured artist at Big Oaks, where Jack Norton and Harry Adams also were in attendance. All three concentrated on the pivot and backswing.

Charley Blasgen of Westgate Valley, Jim Dwyer of Elmgate, and Julian Strud of Vernon, instructed approximately 800 pupils on the three outlying courses of the Daily Fee organization. Dwyer was assisted by Dick Metz of the Mill Road farm course, Tom Kelly of Sunset Valley, Charles Dwyer, Harry Maroney, and Clio Campbell, while Blasgen and Strud handled the instruction alone at their courses.

OFFICIALS FOR CASTING CONTEST ARE ANNOUNCED

H. J. Butler Is to Have Charge of Events.

BY BOB BECKER.

The enthusiastic reception given the casting tournament held last year at the Chicago national boat and sports show has prompted THE TRIBUNE to sponsor a similar event this year. The show where the tournament will be held opens next Sunday afternoon on the Navy pier.

Some kind of casting contest will be held every day during the show and the finals on Sunday night, May 10, the closing evening of the show. Handsome silver cups will be awarded by THE TRIBUNE to the winners of the various events. Plans for the casting tournament, completed yesterday, provide that H. J. Butler of the Shedd aquarium be in charge of the various casting events, assisted by other local casting authorities.

Casting to Be Taught.

In as much as the activities around the casting pool at the show will emphasize not only the competitive angling in casting but also instruction for beginners Grove Walters, lecturer on casting and fishing tactics and an exhibition caster who has addressed thousands of fishermen at various outdoor shows in the United States, will serve as chief instructor during THE TRIBUNE tournament. Mr. Walters will assist Mr. Butler in conducting the several events. Whenever the pool is not being used for contests he will be available to teach fishermen how to improve their skill at handling either a bait casting rod or fly rod. H. M. Gephart and Max Shannon also will be on duty to help beginners master the rudiments of correct casting form.

Fishermen's Contest May 7.

Fishermen who enter the casting contests will use regulation fishing tackle. The event for fishermen is scheduled for Thursday night, May 7. Entry is free. Entries may be mailed on a postcard to this department or late entrants may register at the show in a booth which will be set aside for fishermen and casters. Those entering casting events will be admitted to the boat and sports show without charge. Casting equipment will be provided without charge for entrants who do not bring rods and reels with them to the casting pool.

In addition to events for fishermen, women casters, and boys and girls, Chicago casting clubs will have nights on which their members may compete against each other. The Illinois Casting club, located in Washington park, already has filed 28 entries for its evening of competition, Tuesday, May 5. Preceding this contest fishermen may visit the casting pool for instruction in bait or fly casting.

AURORA TRACK WILL BROADCAST STORY OF DERBY

Fox Valley Oval Opens Season on Friday.

The Chicago racing season opens at Aurora on Friday with the 14th running of the Fox Valley Inaugural handicap, in which a limited field of good sprinters will come together over six furlongs. On Saturday such of the Chicago racing public as is not in Louisville for the Kentucky Derby is expected to be on hand at Aurora to hear that stake broadcast over the loud speaker system as an attraction added to the eight races scheduled at the Fox valley track.

Aurora now needs nothing except good weather to start its most successful spring meeting Friday. All remodeling has been completed, all of the racing officials are on the grounds, and the track crew has worked over the racing strip until it is now in its best condition. One hundred thousand dollars in purses will be offered winners during the 19 day meeting, which closes with the $12,000 added Illinois Derby on May 22.

Horses Arrive from Texas.

The last of the horses that will race at Aurora arrived late yesterday from Arlington Downs in Texas. There were two cars containing the strings of Mrs. A. M. Creech and C. E. Davison. Nine cars arrived from Texas late Monday to fill every available stall at the race course.

Veteran track followers will recall that stretch runners fare best at Aurora. Aside from possibly Belmont Park, Aurora has the longest stretch in America. Horses that cannot stand off a challenge through the 1,450 foot straightaway win few races there.

Another point turf fans will remember is that jockies who previously have done little riding must be watched closely at the Fox valley track. Every year there has been at least one unknown apprentice—such as Paul Keester or Dan Brammer—who has become a successful rider.

Change in Surface May Surprise.

The effect the new Aurora racing strip will have upon horses that previously liked the old racing surface is being awaited with great interest by race followers. Racers that ran best on a hard track have always been Aurora favorites and have won many races. The new cushion will take away much of their advantage.

OLYMPIC WEIGHT LIFTING TRIALS ON YOUTH PROGRAM

Central district tryouts for the American Olympic weight lifting team will be one of the athletic events to be held during the Exposition of Youth which opens Tuesday night at the International amphitheater, Halsted and 43d streets. This was announced yesterday by Harry Berz, director of recreational activities for the National Youth Administration of Illinois, under whose direction the exposition is to be held.

Contestants from Minnesota, Iowa, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Missouri will compete in the five weight classes, according to Paul J. Gillett, chairman of the central A. A. U. weight lifting committee. The winners will qualify for the final Olympic tryouts.

In addition to the weight lifting competition, nightly exhibitions with bar and dumbells will be given by members of the Chicago Weight Lifting club. Basketball, boxing, volley ball, archery, table tennis, badminton, and numerous other sports will be featured as part of the exposition, which is a demonstration of the accomplishment of youth throughout the world. More than 12,000 boys and girls will take part in the various phases of the affair, which will continue until Sunday night, May 10.

How C. Y. O. Aids Youth Is Told by Bishop Sheil

Delinquency among Catholic boys of Chicago has decreased 50 per cent since the founding of the Catholic Youth organization, according to the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, who was the principal speaker at the annual C. Y. O. corned beef and cabbage dinner last night at the Palmer house. More than 1,100 attended.

The program, which included entertainment by musicians of the organization and radio artists from W-G-N, was climaxed with five boxing bouts. Proceeds of the affair will go to the C. Y. O. social service program.

At the speakers' table with Bishop Sheil were Judge James J. Kelly, D. F. Kelly, Dr. Edwin Thomas, Judge Lambert Hayes, Dr. L. D. Moorhead, F. J. Lewis, Dr. R. J. Tivnen, the Rev. W. J. Mockenhaupt, Judge Gibson Gorman, the Rev. J. A. Rebedeau, the Rev. James Walsh, William Campbell, Judge Jacob M. Braude, Howard Mann, Edward Geiger, Charles Blake and Arch Ward.

Building of Riverview Speedway Is Started

Thorne Donnelley, president of the Midwest Auto Racing association, yesterday announced the start of construction on the Riverview speedway, which will be the home track of the association's circuit during the outdoor season. The new speed bowl is to be located off Addison street, just west of Western avenue, bounded by the Chicago river on the west, Riverview park on the south and the Lane Tech athletic field on the east. The bowl will ultimately seat 12,000 spectators.

THE SCOTCH THAT CIRCLES THE GLOBE

Critics agree in CAIRO and CHICAGO

From the Middle West to the Near East, the standard for Scotch is McCallum's. Every drop of this famous whisky is like every other drop—and every drop is eight years old. That's why the seasoned drinker of Scotch specifies "McCallum's Perfection" when he puts in his order. He knows he can depend on a whisky that has the traditions of the House of McCallum behind it. Imported only in convenient oval bottles, taped and sealed, with a useful jigger top for measuring spots.

South Gallant and that colt broke fully four lengths in front of The Fighter. The latter never did catch up, but could have done so had the rider permitted him to step out. The Fighter went the quarter in :24 4-5, the half in :49 4-5, the three-quarters in 1:15, and finished out the mile in 1:42 1-5.

Indian Broom Steps Out.

It was an impressive move, but a few minutes later Indian Broom, the San Francisco world's record breaker, overshadowed everything. The Fighter and all the other Derby candidates did. This fellow was engaging in his final hard prep and George Burns, who will ride him in the Derby, was in the saddle. Indian Broom showed fine speed from the beginning and went the first half in :46 2-5, the five-eighths in :58 3-5, the three-quarters in 1:11 3-5, the mile in 1:38 3-5. He was pulled up at the end of a mile and an eighth in 1:53.

Brevity, Coldstream, and Bold Venture traveled the full Derby route this morning, but none was called upon for anything resembling his best effort. They all were breezing with Bold Venture being clocked in 2:10, Coldstream in 2:11 2-5, and Brevity in 2:13 3-5. Each was full of run and to all appearances came out of the drill fit and ready for the great test on Saturday.

Six End Drill Today.

Six other formidable candidates will be sent through their final serious tuneups tomorrow morning. Granville and Teufel will be the center attention when they come out on the track. This pair finished first and second, noses apart, in the Wood Memorial in New York last Saturday.

Still they are not going to attract any more atention than will the Bradley Derby entry of Bein Joli and Banister. The entire Bradley board of strategy from the boss of Idlehour farm down to the keen eyed stable boys and careful observing grooms will gather in the infield to see this drill which will take place about 7 o'clock.

It is Col. Bradley's theory that if his Derby representatives work a mile [illegible] a quarter around 2:08 on the [illegible]inesday before the race, they usually win for him the following Saturday. There have been exceptions, of course, but the system didn't fail him on at least four occasions when Behave Yourself, Bubbling Over, Burgoo King, and Broker's Tip clicked in the Bradley silks.

The weather man has promised a shower or two tonight, but still sticks to his story that there isn't any immediate signs of much rain this week.

Col. Winn Looks for 15,000 Derby Fans from Chicago

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 28.—Col. Matt Winn estimated today that there will be 15,000 Chicagoans in the Derby throng on Saturday afternoon. This will top the delegations from any other city.

The first of the Derby special trains will arrive tomorrow morning. They will come in over the Pennsylvania, Chesapeake and Ohio, and the Louisville and Nashville.

Five thousand persons will dance at the Derby ball at the Jefferson county armory on Thursday night. Leading various divisions of the grand march will be the Derby festival king and queen, Russell J. Leonard and Miss Jean Able of Louisville, Gov. and Mrs. Paul McNutt of Indiana, and Gov. and Mrs. Chandler of Kentucky.

What to do? In Col. Matt Winn's mail this morning was a letter from a woman in Beardstown who enclosed a $5 bill and requested that it be bet on "Twenty Grand to win the Derby."

Business picked up in amazing fashion at the julep bars today after the 17,000 Kentucky colonels had read in the papers that they still were colonels instead of ex-colonels. A hurried call went out for the colonels to mobilize Friday night for their annual Derby reunion.

There are 69 steps to climb down and up if any of the gentlemen of the press grow speculative and decide to travel from the press box to the betting ring.

Joe Allen, the Cincinnati plunger, arrived by plane from Hot Springs just in time to see the first race this afternoon. He promises to release his Derby selection early Thursday evening.

Already throngs of Democrats are down at the depot looking wistfully up the track for the first sight of the train which will bring Patronage Dispenser Farley and the pork barrel to the Derby from Washington.

Col. E. R. Bradley will motor over from Lexington early tomorrow morning to see his Derby hopefuls, Bien Joli and Banister, engage in their final Derby training drill.

7TH SUCCESSIVE VICTORY IS WON BY GOLDEY F.

Havre de Grace, Md., April 28.—(AP)—Goldey F., the chestnut filly which brought only $150 at the Saratoga yearling sales last August, again outran more expensive horses to win the Aberdeen stakes, getaway day feature today at Havre de Grace, and gain her seventh consecutive victory in 2 year old races.

The daughter of Tall Timber-Naharanna, owned by Mrs. W. A. Bridges, outlasted the Foxcatcher farm's filly, Manatella, in a breath taking finish to take the big end of the $2,500 added purse. A. G. Vanderbilt's Irrepressible was third.

Manatella made a game bid in the final sixteenth of the 4½ furlong dash and, with both jockies lashing furiously, they raced together down the stretch, Goldey F. holding on to win by a neck. After bringing Irrepressible up with a tremendous burst to take third, Leo Fallon was ordered suspended indefinitly by the stewards and his case referred to the Maryland state racing commission for foul riding.

ANNUAL POLICE FIELD DAYS SET FOR JULY 4, 5, 12

The 14th annual Police field days will be held at Wrigley Field and Comiskey Park July 4, 5 and 12.

The department baseball championship will be decided at that time. Capt. Eugene J. Barry of Englewood, will head the South Side squad, and Capt. Harry J. O'Connell, of West North avenue, the North Side division.

SKINNY? WORN-OUT, WEAK NERVOUS..Add 5 Lbs. of Husky Solid "Stay-There" Flesh Rugged New Strength.. this quick new way or no cost!

It's Glands Starving for Iodine That Keep You Skinny, Nervous, Rundown!

Here's new hope and encouragement for thousands of even naturally skinny, weak, worn out, haggard-looking men and women whose energy and strength have been sapped by overwork and worry, who are nervous, irritable, always half sick and ailing. Science says the principal cause of these rundown conditions is "GLANDS STARVING FOR IODINE." When these glands don't work properly, all the food in the world can't help you. It just isn't turned into flesh. The result is, you stay skinny, pale, tired-out and rundown.

The most important gland—the one which actually controls body weight and strength—needs a definite ration of iodine all the time—NATURAL ASSIMILABLE IODINE—not to be confused with chemical iodides which often prove toxic. Only when the system gets an adequate supply of iodine can you regulate metabolism—the body's process of converting digested food into firm flesh, new strength and energy.

To get NATURAL IODINE in convenient, concentrated and assimilable form, take Seedol Kelpamalt—now recognized as the world's richest source of this precious substance. It contains 1,300 times more iodine than oysters, once considered the best source. 6 tablets alone contain more NATURAL IODINE than 480 lbs. of spinach or 1,387 lbs. of lettuce.

Try Seedol Kelpamalt for a single week and notice the difference. See flattering extra pounds of "stay-there" flesh appear in place of scrawny hollows. Notice how much better you feel, and if you don't gain at least 5 lbs. in one week, the trial is free. 100 jumbo size Seedol Kelpamalt tablets cost but a few cents a day to use. Your own doctor will approve this way. Get Seedol Kelpamalt today.

Comparison of Minerals in KELPAMALT vs. VEGETABLES
3 Seedol Kelpamalt Tablets Contain:
1. More Iron and Copper than 1 lb. of spinach, 7½ lbs. fresh tomatoes, 3 lbs. of asparagus.
2. More Calcium than 1 lb. of cabbage.
3. More Phosphorus than 1½ lbs. of carrots.
4. More Sulphur than 2 lbs. of tomatoes.
5. More Sodium than 3 lbs. of turnips.
6. More Potassium than 6 lbs. of beans.
7. More Magnesium than 1 lb. of celery.

NOTE NATIONAL HOSPITAL DAY HERE ON MAY 12

Florence Nightingale to Be Honored.

Chicago's nurses will join others throughout the United States and Canada on May 12 in the observance of National Hospital day, commemorating the birth 116 years ago of Florence Nightingale, founder of modern nursing and hospitalization.

Extensive plans are being made for the city's part in the celebration. On that day most of the city's leading hospitals will hold "open house," so that the public may become better acquainted with their services and needs. Luncheons, health talks, baby shows, radio broadcasts, and receptions will take place during the afternoon and evening.

Resolve Doubt of Anniversary.

Miss Nightingale was born in 1820. Until a few years ago there was some doubt whether the date was May 12 or May 15, but according to Dr. Bert W. Caldwell, executive secretary of the American Hospital association, a thorough investigation confirmed May 12 as the anniversary.

Of gentle blood, Miss Nightingale was the daughter of William Edward Nightingale of Embley Park, Hampshire, and Lea Hurst Nightingale of a Derbyshire family. As a child she exhibited outreaching sympathy for the suffering. One of her childhood games was nursing and bandaging her dolls.

Despite the wishes of her parents for a brilliant marriage, she visited hospitals, studied prison reform, and dedicated her life to suffering mankind.

The Angel of the Crimea.

It was in 1854 that Miss Nightingale was aroused by reports of deplorable conditions in British army hospitals at the Crimean front. She organized a band of 37 nurses and took them to the army hospital at Soutari.

There she found conditions worse than reported. Her first order was for 300 scrub brushes. Then she and her staf, abetted by other volunteers, overrode protesting army officers and set to work.

She gave herself body and soul to the task, often standing for a stretch of more than 20 hours to see that the wounded soldiers were attended. She became known as "The Lady with a Lamp" because of her custom of going from cot to cot during the night to cheer the patients.

The First Modern Nursing School.

Before becoming ill herself she reduced the death rate among the wounded from 420 to 22 per thousand. She remained in the hospital until the British evacuation in 1856, when she returned to England in broken health.

There she continued her activity in the interest of nursing and endowed a nursing school with funds provided by the British government. She died on Aug. 13, 1910.

RITES TOMORROW FOR ALBERT NYE STRAWBRIDGE

Funeral services for Albert Nye Strawbridge, who died April 9 at his home in Pasadena, Cal., will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the chapel at Rosehill cemetery. Mr. Strawbridge was 76 years old.

He was born in Richmond, Ind., and moved to Chicago in 1880 as an employé of Willoughby Hill & Co., clothiers. He later became manager of the old Boston Oyster house, and was connected with the dining car department of the Chicago and North Western railroad until his retirement in 1926.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Wilbur Higgins of Pasadena, Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcraft Jr. of Evanston, and three brothers, Edgar J. of Oak Park, Charles H. of River Forest, and Frank D. of Chicago.

Silas F. Leachman, Police Personnel Inspector, Dies

Silas F. Leachman, 78 years old, for the last 13 years inspector of personnel of the city police department, died of heart disease in his home at 3715 Concord place yesterday after a brief illness. Inspector Leachman was known among his friends as "the Kentucky colonel," because he was born in Louisville and formerly owned race horses. He was a trained singer and once sang in "Madame Butterfly." His widow, Amelia, survives. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 2410 North avenue. The body will be cremated in Montrose cemetery.

John Metz, Former Police Sergeant in Waukegan, Dies

John Metz, 63 years old, who served as a policeman and desk sergeant on the Waukegan police force for twenty-one years before his retirement on a pension in 1928, died in the Lake County General hospital, Waukegan, yesterday after an illness of several months. Metz is survived by his widow, Edith, and a son, Gustave, who live on a small farm in Wadsworth, Ill. The funeral will take place Friday in Christ Episcopal church, Waukegan. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery in that city.

R. F. Schenck, Real Estate Broker, Is Taken by Death

Robert F. Schenck, real estate and investment broker, died yesterday at his home, 1357 Hyde Park boulevard, after a brief illness. He was 69 years old. Mr. Schenck was born in Ohio and came to Chicago thirty years ago. Surviving are his widow, Clara, and a son, Robert.

Michael J. Sartor, Teller at City National Bank, Dies

Michael J. Sartor died yesterday of a heart attack in the City National Bank and Trust company, where he had been employed for ten years as a teller. He was 48 years old and lived at 1828 South Lyman avenue, Oak Park.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

As is its quadrennial custom W-G-N [this year with the aid of the Mutual Broadcasting system] will carry the complete proceedings of both national conventions—the Republican gathering, opening in Cleveland on June 9, and the Democratic sessions in Philadelphia starting June 23.

NBC and CBS also will cover the conventions; the March of Time will present dramatic highlights and the commentators and editorialists who have become popular since the Chicago conventions of 1932 will be on hand to interpret the action.

A staf of veteran political reporters, analysts, and announcers will cover the convention for W-G-N-MBS. Quin Ryan, as chief announcer for the Mutual pickup, will be assisted by Gabriel Heatter, WOR commentator. Arthur Sears Henning, chief of THE TRIBUNE'S Washington bureau, and Arthur Evans will speak from time to time.

The NBC report will be handled by Graham McNamee, Walter Lippmann, Dorothy Thompson, Lowell Thomas, Edwin C. Hill, and William Hard.

The Columbia staf is to include H. V. Kaltenborn and Mabelle Jennings, while journalists and editorial writers who have been invited to analyze the day by day developments of the convention include Henry L. Mencken, Frank R. Kent, Paul Mallon, Turner Catledge, Joseph V. Connolly, Mark Sullivan, and Raymond Clapper.

Arrangements for broadcasting the Republican convention were completed last week when representatives of the three chains met with the committee in charge. The favored front broadcasting booths on the speakers' platform for the G. O. P. convention were drawn by Mutual and by CBS.

NBC drew the rear booth. Speakers will give their addresses from a specially constructed rostrum with microphone imbedded in it—somewhat similar to the special radio device President Roosevelt uses when broadcasting. The same microphones will serve all three networks. Hanging microphones are to be made available for delegates speaking from the floor.

Wayne King's one night stands are attracting some terrific crowds, due to his radio popularity. Last Friday in Cleveland he played for 8,000 customers, next day for 8,100 at Flint, Mich.

Tomorrow night Bing Crosby will make his much ballyhooed radio appearance with Leopold Stokowsky and the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra. Bing has declined to divulge the song he will sing with the orchestra. But it definitly will not be "Music Goes Round and Round," for which Mr. Stokowsky lately manifested public aversion.

WHEAT RALLIES AS RAINS CEASE IN SOUTHWEST

Outlook for New Crop Is Still Uncertain.

The drastic decline in wheat which started Monday came to an abrupt halt yesterday. Failure of additional rains to develop in the southwest overnight and the highest temperatures of the season in the Texas panhandle led to a belief that it might be well to await more definite reports as to the probable outcome of the new crop.

There was no material pressure on the wheat market at any time and short covering and commission house buying caused a fractional upturn in the new crop months, while the May option went to 11⅝ cents premium over the July delivery, compared with 11 cents at the close on Monday. May wheat gained 1 cent for the day. In the last few months the May option has ranged from 6½ to 13½ cents over the July delivery, smallest spread occuring on April 20.

New Crop Outlook Uncertain.

There was sufficient uncertainty in the outlook for the new wheat crop in the southwest to cause operators to act with caution on the selling side. It was regarded questionable whether Texas and Oklahoma would show material improvement owing to the poor condition of the crop previous to the rains.

Outside wheat markets were firm. May wheat at Kansas City moved up 1⅛ cents, while the distant futures gained ½ cent. Winnipeg was ¼ to ⅜ cent higher, with export sales of 600,000 bushels reported. Minneapolis gained a small fraction. Liverpool closed about 1 cent per bushel lower.

Prices on July Deliveries.

Closing prices on the July delivery of leading grains, with comparisons, follow:

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Week ago.
Wheat	$ .87¼	$ .86⅞	$ .91⅝
Corn	.60⅝	.60¼	.62
Oats	.26⅛	.26¼	.27¼
Rye	.51⅞	.51¼	.53⅜

May corn yesterday closed nearly 1 cent higher, while the July option was up a small fraction and the September delivery was unchanged. Light country offerings and a continued aggressive shipping demand for cash grain had some effect on the May delivery, which went to 1⅞ cents premium over the July option.

May barley dropped 5 cents per bushel to 36 cents, the limit permitted for one day's decline under exchange regulations, and set a new low for the season. Trade in barley futures has been extremely light for some time. Oats and rye held within narrow limits and closed practically unchanged.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Fresh eggs continue in active demand, with prices ¼ to ½ cent per dozen higher. Receipts were 30,094 cases. Butter market was weak and prices off ½ to ¾ cent per lb. Arrivals were 10,871 tubs. Live hens were unchanged to ½ cent higher; old roosters ½ cent lower, and leghorn broilers 1 cent per [illegible]

AM. TELEPHONE LONG DISTANCE PROFIT ASSAILED

U. S. Witness Compares Earnings Sources.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Testimony that long distance operations of the American Telephone and Telegraph company have netted far larger profits on the investments made than have operations of the associated companies was given today before the federal communications commission.

J. A. Krug, FCC accountant, introduced exhibits stating that "a remarkable record of high profit" has characterized operation of long lines and that long distance activities of A. T. & T. have been "relatively free from regulation."

Calls Long Lines Profit High.

For the 23 year period ended last Dec. 31, said Krug, long lines' operations netted more than $400,000,000. This exceeded a 6 per cent return on average net plant investment by more than $180,000,000, he said, and was $143,000,000 more than a 7 per cent return.

Krug testified long distance business during the first three months of this year was 38 per cent greater than in the same period of 1935. He said a 9 per cent return on plant investment would be earned if that trend continues, producing a level approximately that of 1930.

In 22 years ended last Dec. 31, the average return on net book cost of associated companies of the Bell system was 6.72 per cent, compared with 10.9 per cent for the long lines, he added.

Explains Investors' Return.

C. P. Cooper, vice president of A. T. and T., commenting on Krug's report, said net earnings on all money put in or left in the Bell system by investors, including the long lines, have never been as high as 9 per cent in the last 25 years and were about 5.3 per cent last year.

"It is inevitable that earnings on various parts of a nation-wide system will vary from time to time," he said. "As to long lines, four separate reductions in long distance rates aggregating $14,500,000 a year on an annual basis were made in the five year period between 1926 and 1931. With improved earnings, a further reduction of $3,000,000 was made in 1936."

CHICAGO STOCKS STIFFEN AFTER EARLY DECLINE

Chicago stocks stiffened in late trading yesterday after early weakness. The majority of issues, however, continued to decline. Of 122 issues traded, there were 63 declines and 27 advances, while 32 remained unchanged. Volume was 73,000 shares.

Midland United common was the most active issue with a turnover of 6,900 shares. It closed at ¼, off ⅛ point. Cities Service closed ⅛ point lower at 4½. Chicago Corporation common was down the same amount, while the preferred rose 2½ points.

KRESGE HOPES THE FAIR WILL PAY DIVIDENDS

Tells Stockholders of Prospects.

BY HERBERT VEDDER.

S. S. Kresge, chairman of the board of The Fair, large Chicago department store operator, yesterday promised a resumption of dividends for common stockholders at the earliest possible date during the course of the liveliest annual meeting in the memory of the present management.

S. S. KRESGE. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

"If anybody is to be pleased with dividends," asserted Kresge, 'it's myself. I wish every stockholder were here to know just what is going on. I'd like their views and friendship. No store on State street has done a better job.

"We dipped into reserves to pay preferred dividend arrears. I ordered it, and I'll be glad when common dividends are available.

Warns of Critical Year.

"If such a thing is in the woods before the end of the year, I'll be tickled to death to do it. But we must remember we are in a very critical year—the European situation and a presidential election."

Kresge, who owns a large majority of the common stock as a result of investing $3,200,000 in The Fair in 1925, said that neither he nor D. F. Kelly, president, owns a share of the preferred stock on which dividends are being paid regularly now.

Several stockholders went so far as to argue that executives' salaries should be cut if such a step were necessary to obtain common dividends. E. J. Thelin, 6312 North Irving avenue, whose family owns 70 common shares, read a long statement dripping with figures. He proposed aggregate salary cuts of $90,000 to provide 24 cents a share on the common stock.

Kelly Tells Salary Cuts.

Kelly pointed out that executives' salaries have been halved during the last twelve years. In 1924, the year before Kresge's purchase of control, such payments totaled $335,876, said Kelly, while the figure last year was $163,490. The saving in 12 years, he added, aggregated $2,068,620.

Kelly added that salaries are not out of line with those paid by comparable corporations, and said the company would lose more than it saved by hiring $4,000 and $5,000 a year men as its leaders.

"I was getting $100,000 and reduced it to $60,000 a year," Kelly remarked.

Commenting on business, Kelly said he expects April figures to be better this year than in 1935. He said operations have been holding even with a year ago, although including much less "relief" business.

Suburban Branches Profitable.

Kelly said the company has found its Oak Park and Milwaukee avenue stores profitable investments, and is committed to a policy of acquiring other outlying stores when prices and locations appear advantageous. Outlying business centers have developed tremendously in recent years and will continue to expand because of convenience, he asserted.

Kelly said certain departments formerly operated by the store at losses now yield rents of $293,000 annually from outside organizations to which they have been leased. These departments include food, cigar, millinery, and flowers among others.

"I believe we are doing a better job on leased departments than any other store in Chicago," he added. "I found certain departments can't be operated by a store and make money. I use the personal pronoun because some seem to wonder what I do for my salary."

Adopt Semi-Annual Reports.

One change of policy was adopted as a result of the campaign of several years by a shareholder, Henry H. McNeill, for quarterly statements instead of a single annual report. McNeill's motion yesterday for semi-annual reports was seconded by Kelly and carried.

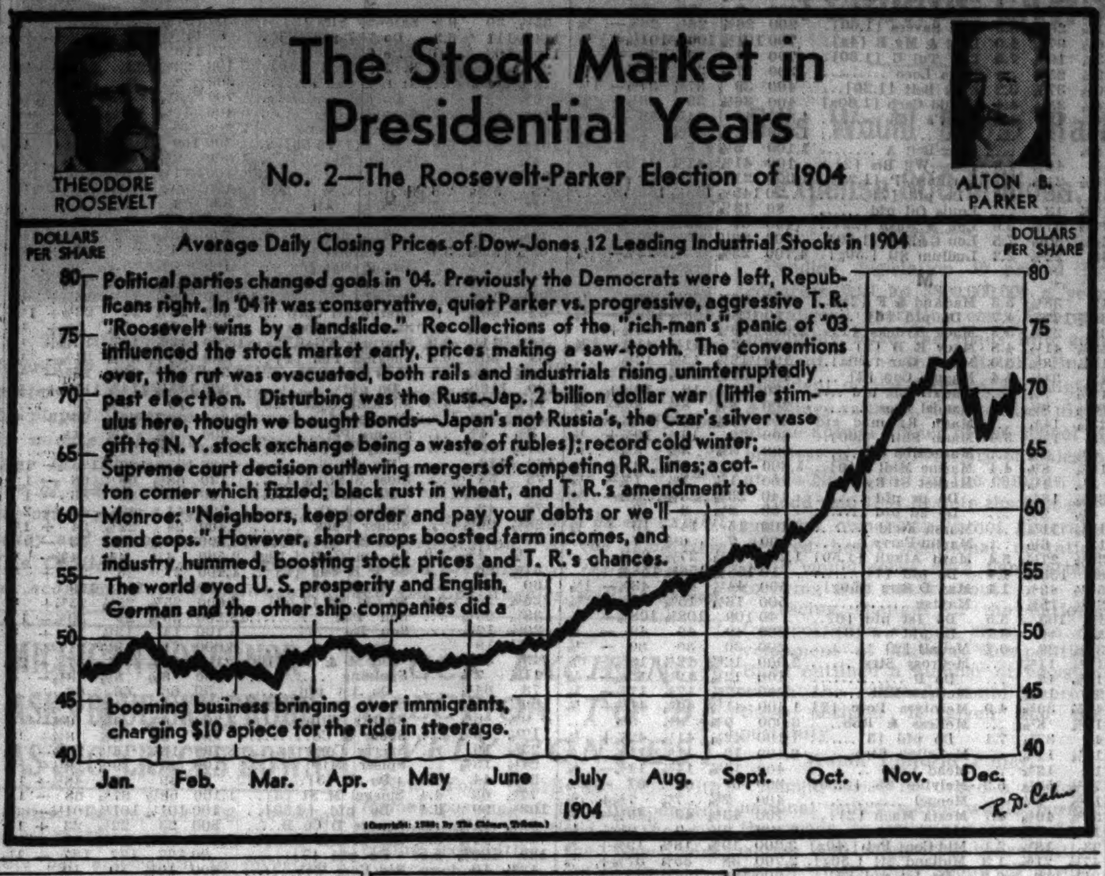
Only 35 shareholders, half of them officers or directors, attended the meeting, but discussion extended over a two hour period before the one scheduled piece of business was transacted—reëlection of all directors. The board then renamed all officers.

Referring to last Friday's spicy Montgomery Ward & Co. annual meeting at which President Sewell L. Avery resorted to pungent "hells" and "damns" to get his points across and also dropped his glasses, Kelly remarked at adjournment that his prediction of no broken glasses was fulfilled, despite the long discussion of salaries and dividends.

"And I want to say here that Mr. Avery is one of the finest, ablest, squarest, and most efficient executives and merchandisers I know anything about," he said. "If any of you also own Montgomery Ward stock take my tip and hold on to it."

Court Refers Stevens Hotel Fee Requests to Master

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday referred petitions for fees of $150,000 in connection with the reorganization of the Stevens Hotel company under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act to Master in Chancery Jacob I. Grossman. The master will report back to the judge.



Eastern Roads to Fight Fare Cuts in Court

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—Eastern railroads today served notice they would fight the constitutionality of the interstate commerce commission order calling for an arbitrary reduction in passenger fares to two cents a mile.

After a conference of eastern railroad presidents here it was announced the roads would accept the commission's order "under protest" and file tarifs to make the new schedule effective.

Plan to Seek Injunction.

The new rates would become effective June 2. Before that date, however, the roads will seek court injunctions to stay the effectiveness of the new rates until the legality of the commission's order has been tested. In this way while formally complying with the order the roads hope to maintain their present passenger fare rate of 3.6 per cent per mile.

Under the commission order the Pullman surcharge would also be dropped and the mileage rate for Pullman travel would be 3 cents per mile.

Decision to fight the commission order was concurred in by a "majority" of the eastern roads. The Baltime & Ohio, however, which has consistently favored the low rate, did not subscribe to the decision.

It is understood the eastern carriers will seek to enlist the coöperation of western roads in their fight.

Terms Action Unprecedented.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Members of the interstate commerce commission said today the action of the eastern railroads in deciding to accept the new 2 cent passenger rate and at the same time challenge the reduction in court, was without precedent. Patrick J. Farrell of Vermont, a member of the commission's legal staf, will handle the case for the government, it was announced.

The commission today authorized railroads to maintain their rates on news print from Port Arthur and West Fort William, Ont., to Chicago, without observing the long and short haul clause of the interstate commerce act. The action is designed to aid the rail carriers in meeting water competition.

U.S. TRADE PACT WITH FRANCE NEARLY READY

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Negotiation of a reciprocal trade agreement between the United States and France is nearing completion. The pact may be signed early next Monday and is expected to be concluded by May 15 at latest.

The state department was drafting a note today setting forth the American position on final details. If these are found satisfactory in Paris, all that will remain presumably will be the arrangement of the formalities of signing.

While the negotiation is surrounded with secrecy, it is understood that French luxuries, such as cosmetics and laces, and American industrial and agricultural products are affected. Beyond this lies the possibility that some relaxation may be agreed to by France in her system of quotas and other artificial trade barriers.

CHICAGO MAIL ORDER COMPANY TO PAY EXTRA

Directors of the Chicago Mail Order company yesterday declared a regular dividend of 37½ cents and an extra dividend of 12½ cents, payable June 1. There are 346,181 shares outstanding.

An initial quarterly dividend of $1.25 cents on the new preferred stock and the regular quarterly dividend of $1 on the common were decleared yesterday by the Sherwin-Williams company. The dividend on the common is payable May 15 and that on the preferred June 1. Holders of deposit receipts for the new preferred stock of record May 15 also will receive the dividend.

AYRES GIVES THREE 'GUIDING' INFLATION RULES FOR BANKERS

Hot Springs, Va., April 28.—(AP)—While asserting there did not seem to be any immediate prospect of severe inflation in this country, Col. Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland banker, tonight outlined what he called "three important guiding rules" for bank management during a period of inflation.

Col. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company and chairman of the American Bankers' association's economic policy commission, addressed the executive council of the association.

The records of European inflation yield three important guiding rules for the management of banks in such periods, he said. They are:

"The first is that during inflations short term interest rates rise above long term rates, and it is important, both for the earnings of the bank and for its safety, that as the crisis period approaches the institution should have as large a proportion of its loans as possible in short term obligations. "The second rule is that during inflations the expenses of bank operations are greatly increased so that in preparation for such a period the bank should institute service charges on as many of its operations as it can with the intent of increasing them later on.

"The third important fact about inflations is that they end in depressions which bring exceptionally large numbers of bankruptcies. The most difficult part of an inflation for a bank is its termination."

SEC DISCLOSES MORE SALARIES OF FIRMS HERE

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Corporations listed the following salaries to officers for 1935 with the securities commission today:

La Salle Extension university, Chicago—G. R. Carlock, $55,940; A. C. Shaughnessy, $52,278; H. H. Fitts, $49,967.

Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago, Ill.—E. H. Ravenscroft, board chairman, $25,000 and same for 1934; S. Dewitt Clough, president, $25,000 and $22,500; R. M. Cain, executive vice president, $22,500 and same.

The Curtis Publishing company, Philadelphia, Pa., reported that George H. Lorimer, board chairman, received a salary of $90,000 in 1935, as compared with $100,000 in 1934. Salaries of other top officers in the company were: W. D. Fuller, president, $54,999 in 1935 and $46,894 in 1934; P. S. Collins, vice president, $60,750 in both years.

A report by Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation, New York, showed Clarence H. Mackay, president and director of subsidiaries, was paid $30,780 in 1935; Robert A. Gantt, director of registrant and subsidiaries, $22,840.

DEALER INVOKES COURT AGAINST ACTIONS OF SEC

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—J. Edward Jones, dealer in oil royalties, obtained today an order from Federal Judge John C. Knox, requiring the Securities and Exchange commission to show cause on May 5 why it should not be required to surrender all records which it seized from Jones in an investigation of his business.

The order also requires the SEC to show cause why an injunction obtained against Jones should not be set aside. The injunction restrained him from violating terms of the Securities and Exchange act, and from using the mails "fradulently" to sell securities.

Jones' action was based on a decision of the United States Supreme court, which held that the SEC had acted in an arbitrary manner and directed that Jones be permitted to withdraw registration statements he made with the commission.

Palyi Finds New Peril in Nazi's Move

The appointment of Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering as controler of national economics in Germany is the most significant move made in European politics recently, Dr. Melchior Palyi, former economist at the Deutsches bank, Berlin, and guest professor at the University of Chicago, said last night.

DR. MERCHIOR PALYI.

Speaking before the foreign trade division of the Chicago Association of Credit Men and the Export Managers Club of Chicago at the La Salle hotel, Palyi said this move means that Germany is placing rearmament ahead of everything else.

What France and Great Britain plan to do in the future depends entirely upon what Hitler does, and France is highly nervous over the German menace, the economist asserted.

"French March to Banks."

"When the German army marches the Frenchman marches right to his bank," Palyi commented.

"Without foreign help, Germany and Italy, as well as a number of other countries to the east of them, are bound to break down financially very soon. Italy could get along with help from one friendly financial nation—and that would be France—but Germany needs international support.

"Germany is not going to get foreign credits from any countries with which it may make war the next day," Palyi continued, "and this applies to France, Great Britain, and possibly the United States."

System Firmly Installed.

Asked what would be the result of "something" happening to Hitler, Palyi protested that the question was somewhat off economic discourse, but said the German position no longer depends upon one man since the Nazi system has become thoroughly installed.

"Financial breakdowns in either Germany or Italy," Palyi said, "would not necessarily affect western European countries.

"Germany's munition reserves rather than her gold reserves are more important as far as western Europe is concerned. A quick airplane attack would do much to alter the long term outlook in any of these countries."

Elections make no difference on France's monetary policies as regards either devaluation of going off gold, Palyi said, as only war or war preparations will bring this about. England is keeping France on the gold standard because the pound cannot stand much more depreciation, he declared.

PIT EXPELS FORMER EMPLOYE OF ROSENBAUM

Morton Mannheimer, former employé of the Rosenbaum Grain corporation, was expelled from membership on the Chicago Board of Trade by directors yesterday. The action came as an aftermath of the failure more than a year ago of the Rosenbaum firm, which was one of the largest operating on the exchange.

A special committee of directors has been investigating activities of various officers and employés of the firm for several months. E. F. Rosenbaum, president of the firm, was expelled several months ago.

Mannheimer's explusion, the exchange announced, was voted on "charges of violating rules 141 and 145 of the association, which cover conduct inconsistent with just and equitable principles of trade."

STOCKS SINK, THEN RALLY, BUT CLOSE IS LOWER

Tape Falls Behind Market at Times.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 28.—After a fresh sinking spell that carried 213 issues to new lows for the year stocks rallied slightly in late dealings today, although the upturn did little more than bring about an irregularly lower closing. Some of the carrier shares and a number of miscellaneous industrial stocks finished with modest gains.

Volume of trading again exceeded the 2,000,000 share mark, amounting to 2,231,520 shares. Traders were still jittery and an outburst of liquidation at the start of the second hour saw the ticker tape lagging a few minutes behind actual operations on the floor.

Selling Is Orderly.

Despite the changing trend dealings were orderly, though the financial community exhibited disappointment at the market's performance.

Trade news was favorable and a good part of the day's offerings was attributed to sales due to margin calls which were sent out last night following yesterday's drastic shrinkage in values. Liquidation of speculative accounts was also reported to be taking place.

Little interest was paid to foreign developments, although the question of devaluation of the French franc is expected to be a topic of conversation in board rooms until after the runoff elections next week, at least.

Steel Falls Below 60.

Bears concentrated their early fire on the steels, coppers and motors. United States Steel was pounded below the 60 mark and suffered a loss for the session of more than a point.

Anaconda and Kennecott came back strongly from their day's lows to keep their losses in fractional limits. Chrysler showed resiliency as it rose over 2 points from its low of the day to register a gain of 1⅛ points. General Motors, despite its excellent first quarter statement, was forced to absorb a loss exceeding a point.

Issues to lose a point or more in the day's proceedings included American Telephone, J. I. Case, du Pont, Eastman Kodak, General Railway Signal, Bayuk Cigar, and Owens Glass.

Atchison, Central, Union Pacific, Delaware and Hudson, Louisville and Nashville, Southern Pacific and Southern Railway erased early losses and replaced them with advances ranging from fractions to a point and more. Sugar shares and aviation issues also moved up a bit.

Thin Market Shown.

Several sharp declines on a few sales were pointed to as emphasizing the thinness of the market. Detroit Edison gave up 6½ points, New Jersey Central was off 10½, the high priced Homestake lost 4⅞, International Business Machines dropped 7½, and Keystone Steel retreated 4 points.

Sears-Roebuck reflected its good earning statement by moving up a major fraction. Rubber shares improved fractionally and the utilities just about held their own in quiet dealings.

ABANDON PLANS TO MERGE TWO MACHINE FIRMS

Jersey City, N. J., April 28.—(AP)—Plans for merging the Niles-Bement Pond company with the General Machinery corporation have been abandoned, it was announced at the adjourned annual stockholders' meeting of the Niles-Bement company today.

Action on the proposed consolidation was held up by a New Jersey Chancery court order which restrained the Niles-Bement company from submitting it to shareholders. The order was obtained a fortnight ago, just before the date of the company's annual meeting. Owing to the litigation the meeting was postponed until today.

At the meeting it was said that even if the restraining order, obtained by Donco, Inc., a Niles-Bement stockholder, should be dissolved, the disarrangement of financing plans incident to the merger proposal would prevent adoption of the plan in the form originally submitted.

Brokers Resent New Margins; May Quiz Landis, Szymczak

BY HOWARD WOOD.

When James M. Landis, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, and M. S. Szymczak, Chicago member of the federal reserve board, make their expected arrival in Chicago today La Salle street will be ready and waiting for them with a barrage of questions.

Landis is slated to address members of the Economic Club of Chicago at its dinner tonight on the subject of "Finance." Szymczak's scheduled talk on "The Banking Act of 1935" has not been announced by the club—at the express request of the speaker. Inasmuch as everybody in La Salle street yesterday was talking about Szymczak's coming visit, however, it was hardly regarded as a secret.

Brokers, deeply concerned over the recent drop in stock prices which have shaved ten or more dollars per share from scores of leading issues during the last week or two, are hoping to get a chance to lay their arguments on margin requirements before the boss of the SEC and the Chicago member of the reserve board.

Brokers Resent Margin Boost.

Resentment has been growing in La Salle street against the action of the reserve board in steadily jacking up the margin requirements on stock transactions. On April 1 the minimum margin requirement on loans by brokers to their customers was boosted from 45 to 55 per cent. On May 1 a new regulation by the board puts the collateral loans of banks on the same basis.

Old timers in La Salle street declare that the increased margin requirements impair the liquidity of the stock market and cause wider fluctuations in stock prices because of the unwillingness of large traders to step in and steady the market when it swings sharply upward or downward. The present market's danger, they say, is its thinness, the volume of transactions being reduced by the disinclination of the "big fellows" to participate.

Reserve Board Controls Margins.

As chairman of the SEC, Landis has charge of the administration of all provisions of the Securities and Exchange act except the setting of margin requirements—a job conferred by the act upon the federal reserve board.

Reasons for the tightening up of margin requirements are outlined by the federal reserve board in the current issue of its monthly bulletin as follows:

"Adoption of these restrictions at this time has the advantage of providing for control of the use of credit for speculation in securities without limiting the supply or raising the cost of credit available for commercial, industrial or agricultural purposes."

In La Salle street, however, the belief is widely held that the reserve board's action in boosting margin requirements is merely a gesture to meet the criticism that the board was remiss in not doing something to reduce the vast idle reserves of commercial member banks.

Federal Borrowing Is Handicap.

Unable to take forthright action to reduce excess reserves by exercising the controls conferred upon it in the banking act of 1935, because it must keep money "easy" to accommodate the treasury's large borrowing needs, the federal reserve board merely boosts margin requirements. Thus, the troublesome excess reserves still glut the banks, but the board hopes to prevent these funds from being diverted into the stock market.

The general impression in La Salle street is that the reserve board, in attempting to dodge the excess reserves issue, has deliberately given the stock market a bump.

RISE OF FRANC STOPS FURTHER GOLD SHIPMENTS

The dollar yesterday eased against French francs, which rose to a level that precluded further shipments of gold from Paris to New York, on the basis of 6.58⅜ cents as the profit point. The franc gained ⅛ point to 6.58½ cents and other leading currencies were mostly steady to slightly higher against the dollar.

Dealers were unable to decide whether the improvement in foreign exchanges was due to official control or a natural play of forces.

The rise in the franc reduced the value of the American dollar against francs to 100.73 cents from 100.75 cents Monday, and compared with 100.66 cents a month ago.

The pound sterling yesterday gained ⅛ cent to $4.93⅞ in New York. Swiss francs lost 1 point to 32.58 cents and Canadian dollars lost 3⅛ points to 99.65⅝ cents.

Engagement of $142,000 gold in India for shipment here was announced at the New York Federal Reserve bank. The bank's daily statement of gold transactions showed imports of $2,965,700 from Canada and $994,900 from India.

FEWER IDLE REPORTED DURING MARCH THAN MONTH AND YEAR AGO

Unemployment in March decreased 2 per cent from February and 3.9 per cent from a year ago to a total of 9,649,000, the national industrial conference board announced yesterday. The actual decline from the preceding month was 201,000 persons and the drop from a year ago was 390,000 persons.

From February to March the decrease in unemployment by industrial groups was: Manufacturing and mechanical industries, 132,000 persons; trade, 79,000; domestic and personal service, 19,000; transportation, 4,000; and miscellaneous industries, 7,000. There was an increase of 9,000 persons in mining.

Compared with March last year, unemployment in March declined 11.6 per cent in domestic and personal service, 10.9 per cent in the manufacturing and mechanical industries, 8.4 per cent in transportation, 7.8 per cent in trade, 4.1 per cent in the extraction of minerals, and 4.3 per cent in the miscellaneous industries.

QUARTER PROFIT OF U. S. STEEL BEST SINCE 1931

Competitors' Record Less Favorable.

Earnings results for the first quarter of 1936 were announced yesterday by several major steel companies. The United States Steel corporaton reported the largest first quarter profits and the highest operating rate for a comparable period since 1931.

Results announced by several other concerns were less favorable in comparison with 1935, which was attributed to the lower prices prevailing during the quarter and the curtailed demand from the automobile industry during the severe cold weather in January and February.

First quarter profit of U. S. Steel was $3,376,000, equal to 94 cents a share on the preferred stock. In the corresponding period last year the company sustained a deficit of $2,174,000, while in the last three months of 1935 a profit of $4,784,000 was earned. Net earnings before depreciation, depletion and interest were $17,665,000 last quarter, compared with $12,428,000 in the first three months of 1935 and $20,418,000 in the December quarter.

Average Rate 47%.

The company operated at an average rate of 47 per cent of capacity during the three month period, the highest for the quarter since 1931. The earnings likewise were at the highest level since that year.

Directors authorized the distribution of a dividend of 50 cents on the preferred stock, payable May 29 to stockholders of record May 4, similar to payments made in recent quarters. Dividends are cumulative at the rate of $1.75 quarterly, and accumulations, after allowing for the dividend voted yesterday, amounted to $17.50 a share.

Myron C. Taylor, chairman, following the directors' meeting, said that in the first quarter pay rolls had jumped 15 per cent over the same period last year to $69,259,055 and that the number of employés had risen 4.8 per cent to 198,269.

Inland Earnings Drop.

The Inland Steel company and subsidiaries of Chicago reported a drop in earnings. Net income for the first quarter was $1,935,000, equal to $1.34 a share. This was substantially below the $2,466,000 profit, or $2.05 a share, reported in the first three months of 1935, but was larger than

SOCONY-VACUUM 1935 TAXES RISE, PROFIT FALLS

Earnings Drop to 71 Cts. a Common Share.

Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, Inc., yesterday reported a decline in net income to 71 cents a common share in 1935 from 76 cents in 1934, and tax assessments larger than the company's pay roll in the United States and 3.8 times net earnings from all operations.

Net income last year amounted to $22,525,892, compared with $24,121,298 in the preceding year, according to the annual report. Taxes amounted to $85,851,604, compared with $78,781,053 in 1934. Earned surplus at the end of the year amounted to $33,553,387, equivalent to 5.4 per cent of the total net assets employed in the business.

Tells Need for Surplus.

While making no specific mention of the proposed tax on corporate earned surpluses, John A. Brown, president, in his message to stockholders discussed the amount of dividends declared and the need for using cash resources for capital expenditures.

In the last five years total dividends paid have exceeded earnings by $35,475,636, while in the last two years large capital expenditures have been necessary for replacements, modernization of plants, and improvement of the fundamental conditions of the company's position, he asserted.

Expenditures to Continue.

"These expenditures will continue to be large during 1936 and 1937," Brown said. "Directors believe the value of the stockholders' equity is better preserved by meeting the capital expenditure requirements out of earnings rather than by borrowing the required funds or restricting necessary developments and improvements."

Current assets on Dec. 31, last, amounted to $245,792,616, including cash of $33,592,858 and marketable securities of $36,766,844, against current liabilities of $58,933,785.

U. S. STEEL FIRST QUARTER PROFIT BEST SINCE 1931

Competitors Have Less Favorable Results.

earnings for the same period in the four years prior to 1935. First quarter operating profit was $3,807,000, against $4,103,000 last year.

Directors yesterday continued the quarterly dividend rate established three months ago by declaring a cash dividend of 75 cents per share on the capital stock, payable June 1 to stockholders of record May 15.

Stockholders of the company at their annual meeting elected E. C. Burke and W. A. Kendrick as directors succeeding C. R. Robinson, first vice president, and Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland, who resigned. Burke and Kendrick are members of the Inland organization. The position of first vice president was not filled.

Republic Has Decline.

Lower earnings were also reported by the Republic Steel corporation. Net income was $361,000 for the first quarter, compared with $1,191,000 in the preceding three months and $1,834,000 in the corresponding 1935 period. A nonrecurring charge of $286,000, incident to the refunding of the company's bonds, cut into profits.

Another factor was the $155,000 initial payment made for unemployment insurance taxes. The company was operating near 70 per cent of capacity at the close of the quarter.

A net loss of $933,000 was reported by Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation, which compares with a loss of $795,000 in the first quarter of 1935.

Sheet and Tube to Expand.

The Youngstown Sheet and Tube company announced yesterday that directors have approved expenditures of $3,420,000 for plant improvements including $1,300,000 to be spent to increase the capacity of the company's cold rolled tin plate mill at the Indiana Harbor plant. The company allotted $350,000 for a new turbine plant in Youngstown to provide additional power for plants there.

H. G. Dalton, chairman, said directors were studying the possibility of clearing up back dividends on the preferred stock which amount to $2,887,500 or $19.25 a share. The company is now operating at 76 per cent of capacity, he said.

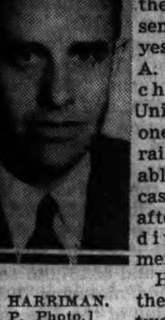
U. P. IMPROVES SERVICE TO MEET ITS COMPETITION

Harriman Tells Changes in Annual Report.

How radical improvements in railroad transportation are being used by the Union Pacific railroad to combat competition are emphasized in the annual report sent stockholders yesterday by W. A. Harriman, chairman. The Union Pacific was one of the few railroads in 1935 able to transfer cash to surplus after common dividend payments.



W. A. HARRIMAN.

Harriman said the road now has two streamlined passenger trains in operation, and soon will install four more.

Further, he said, the road has air conditioned substantially all cars used on its main line service. It has paid special attention to making coach travel more pleasant by remodeling and redecorating car interiors, providing new and adjustable seats, commodious lounge cars, and other conveniences.

Buy New Equipment.

With respect to freight service improvements Harriman said that the road has purchased fifteen new locomotives capable of hauling heavy loaded trains at a speed of 60 miles an hour. He pointed out that the road has reduced running time of freight trains from 23 to 55 per cent during the last seven years.

As an example of what has been accomplished he commented on a freight run between Council Bluffs, Ia., and Ogden, Utah, a distance of 1,000 miles on the road's heaviest trafic line. Present time for the run is 39½ hours, compared with 80½ hours in 1928.

In anticipation of an increase in freight trafic, he continued, the road has had under way a progrem of rebuilding and modernizing 3,235 box and automobile cars. Two-thirds were completed up to the end of last year, and the rest will be finished this year.

Operating Revenues Gain.

Operating revenues of the Union Pacific for 1935 totaled $129,404,941, compared with $120,437,499 in 1934. The increase of $8,967,442 was more than absorbed by higher operating expenses, of which $3,700,000 was due to wage and salary restorations. The balance was for increased expenditures for maintenance, improvements in service, and a greater expenditure for advertising. During the year the road spent $9,870,201 for additions, betterments, and improvements.

Net income from transportation operations totaled $18,615,068 for 1935, compared with $18,444,384 in 1934. Income from investments and other sources totaled $15,253,168, a similar amount being reported for 1934. Total income stood at $33,868,236, compared with $33,967,547.

After charges there was available $14,543,805 for common stock, equal to $6.54 a share, compared with $14,723,624, or $6.62 a year for the preceding year.

It will be on exhibit today and tomorrow at the North Western station. At the same time The Challenger, fast all coach and tourist sleeping car train designed for economical travel between Chicago and Los Angeles, will be shown.

MICHIGAN GOVERNOR ASKS BLUE SKY PROBE AS SEC 'CRACKS DOWN'

Detroit, Mich., April 28.—(AP)—Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald today asked the state bar association to investigate the state securities commission, as a federal investigator charged that Detroit is the "worst place in the country" for high pressure stock selling tactics.

John T. Callahan, assistant general counsel for the Securities and Exchange commission, announced that within two weeks he would petition the federal court for injunctions against numerous Detroit securities firms which he charged were using "boiler rooms" where sales are made by telephone.

The governor asked Robert P. Hudson, president of the integrated state bar, to direct the investigation of the state securities commission.

Callahan charged that at least a dozen of the 150 officers and employes of local stock firms he had interviewed were found to have been indicted in other cities or to have been connected with concerns closed by injunctions.

Coal Mine Wage Parley Adjourned Until Today

New York, April 28.—(AP)—Conferees attempting to write a new wage contract for the anthracite industry failed to reconcile their differences in a three and a half hour session today, and adjourned until 11 a. m. tomorrow. The possibility of a walkout on Friday which would affect 106,000 workers in the Pennsylvania anthracite mines confronted the negotiators.

STOCK EXCHANGE ELECTION TO BE LIVELY CONTEST

New York, April 28.—(AP)—With formal posting of two independent candidates for positions on the governing committee, the New York Stock exchange's annual election campaign got away to a contentious start today.

The independents are Allen L. Lindley, chairman of the business conduct committee and former vice president, and Edward Roesler, both of whom were not renominated to succeed themselves on the governing committee. Their terms expire in May. Indications in stock exchange circles were that with 12 stock exchange members running for 10 posts on the committee there would be a brisk fight for votes which will be cast on May 11.

Membership on the governing committee of the stock exchange, which is the "cabinet" of that institution, has long been considered a plum in exchange quarters.

SEARS-ROEBUCK FOUR WEEK SALES SET HIGH RECORD

Sales of Sears, Roebuck & Co. for the four weeks ended April 23 totaled $36,034,157, a new high record for the period and 14.6 per cent above the $31,435,278 total for the corresponding four weeks of 1935, it was reported.

The increase shown over the preceding four weeks' total of $33,965,053 was moderately larger than for the same period in recent years. The percentage gain over a year ago was slightly higher than that shown in the preceding period, although it was under the 17.1 per cent figure recorded in the first period of the new fiscal year.

Cumulative sales of the company for the 12 weeks ended April 23 amounted to $95,541,035, against $83,590,330 in the same 1935 period, an increase of 14.3 per cent.

BUDD ASSAILS HUGE COSTS OF PENDING LAWS

Bills Would Boost Rail Expense 800 Millions.

Pending legislation if passed by congress will ad $800,000,000 a year to railroad operating costs and will inevitably force the roads into government ownership, Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, declared last night at the annual dinner of the school of business of the University of Chicago at Ida Noyes hall on the campus.

Budd said that despite the fact government ownership is not generally desired heavy additional operating costs would serve as a flank attack to bring this result about.

Tracing changes in the nation's transportation system since the development of highway competition, Budd outlined a number of ways in which the railroads could improve their position if given the opportunity.

Wants Uniform Policy.

Among these he urged a uniform national policy which would permit the roads to pursue a more fixed course and suggested consolidation of all roads into about 25 strong roads.

"As it now stands the greatest confusion exists," he said. "The transportation act of 1920 tells us we must run our roads economically, but congress adds enormously to our costs. The federal coördinator tells us to effect economies through consolidation but other laws prevent us from displacing employés through such moves."

In stressing his plea for consolidation, Budd said the railroads were laid out and largely built at a time when it was deemed advisable to provide rail communication for communities within a 20 mile stretch of area.

Cites Change in Trend.

"Western farmers now drive long distances to market," he said, "passing up small towns close to their homes. The effect of this can be seen in the way small communities are drying up. Because of this railroads must abandon tracks where they are not profitable for they cannot compete with trucks for short hauls.

"If railroads will consolidate into strong systems able to provide elastic service they will give real competition in the field of transportation which will be of benefit to every one."

Budd saw a hope for the roads in new developments, such as the Diesel electric engine and the use of light weight materials which will allow railroads to carry greater loads in equipment weighing less. He predicted marked improvement in steam engine design as a result of the development of light weight materials.

BENEFICIAL RAINS CAUSE COTTON FUTURES TO FALL

Reports of highly beneficial rains in parts of Texas where drouth had become a serious factor and sharply lower cables from Liverpool led to a decline of 4 to 9 points in cotton futures in Chicago yesterday. Other markets closed with losses of 3 to 7 points [a point is equal to 1-100 cent]. There was some liquidation by holders of May contracts in evidence in New York.

Spot cotton closed 5 to 10 points lower, with New Orleans 11.40 cents; Houston and Galveston, 11.45 cents, and New York at 11.70 cents per pound. Prices follow:

LAMBS CONTINUE RECENT ADVANCE; HOG PRICES BREAK

Lamb prices continued their sensational rise to new highs for recent years yesterday. Receipts dropped to the lowest volume for a Tuesday since the middle of February and additional advances ranging up to $1 per hundred pounds were scored in wholesale markets for lamb meat.

Live costs rose 25 to 50 cents, indicating 75 to 90 cents gain in two days and $2.35 to $2.55 advance compared with early April, one of the sharpest upturns in many years. Prime wool stock soared to $12.75, highest since June, 1930, comparing with $8.25 a year ago. Lambs without fleece reached $10.90, the highest sale of shorn stock since May, 1929.

Other live stock sold under pressure. The average price of hogs slumped 30 cents to $10.15, the lowest average since March 11. It was the sharpest one-day break in ten weeks. Most were off 25 to 35 cents for the day.

Upward to $10.60 was paid sparingly for top grades at the opening, with the practical top at the close halting at $10.45. Receipts at Chicago, 16,000, were the largest for a Tuesday since Jan. 28.

Beef steers declined 10 to 25 cents to new sixteen months' low, with long feeds indicating the full loss. Top sales were lowered to $9.85, while the bulk cashed from $7.50 to $9.25. Yearling stock ruled steady to slightly lower as demand again favored the lighter weights. Calves were stronger.

LARD FALLS WITH DECLINE IN HOGS, COTTONSEED OIL

Lard futures declined rather sharply yesterday in sympathy with a decline in hogs and cotton seed oil. The latter sold at a new low for the season. Commission houses sold September lard, partly on orders to limit losses. Closing trades were at net losses of 7½ to 15 cents. Clear bellies [salt pork] lost 27½ to 35 cents.

Cash lard closed at $10.82; loose and leaf, $10.25, and clear bellies, $14 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

EGGS HIT NEW HIGH LEVEL FOR YEAR; BUTTER LOWER

Egg futures on the Mercantile exchange advanced ⅛ to ¼ cent early yesterday to a new high level for the year as the result of an advance of ¼ to ½ cent in the spot market and reports indicating the into storage movement was not as heavy as anticipated. While the best prices were not maintained the October contract closed ⅛ cent higher at 22⅞ cents per dozen.

Continued weakness in the spot butter market, with prices receding ½ to ¾ cent in the face of government buying of 90,000 pounds, had a depressing effect on futures, which closed ⅛ to ½ cent lower, with November at 26⅝ cents per pound. Sales of futures aggregated 29 cars. Prices follow:

The following is merely a brief outline of certain information contained in the offering prospectus and is subject to the more detailed statements in the offering prospectus and the registration statement, which also include important information not outlined or indicated herein. The offering prospectus, which must be furnished to each purchaser, should be read prior to any purchase of these shares.

The Company Central Illinois Light Company, 65.7% of the voting capital stock of which is owned by The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation (Delaware), was incorporated in Illinois on April 11, 1913. In 1933, it acquired the businesses, except the transportation business, formerly owned and conducted by Illinois Power Company and Illinois Electric Power Company (also subsidiaries of The Commonwealth & Southern Corporation). The Company serves a population, all in Illinois, estimated to be in excess of 280,000, supplying electricity, gas, or steam or hot water heating, or several of such services, in Peoria, Springfield, Pekin, DeKalb, Sycamore, and various other communities as well as in rural areas. The Company's electric operations in Springfield are subject to competition with municipal operations. Natural gas is purchased from Panhandle Illinois Pipe Line Company. The Company owns four electric generating plants with an aggregate rated installed generator capacity of 88,500 kilowatts (effective capacity 75,400 kilowatts), together with certain gas plants (used for stand-by purposes), steam plants, electric transmission lines, substations, and electric and gas distribution systems serving as of December 31, 1935, 59,745 electric and 45,637 gas customers' meters.

The annual dividend requirement on the 111,464 shares of 4½% Preferred Stock will be $501,588.

Certain Terms of the Preferred Stock It will be provided in proposed amendments to the Articles of Incorporation of the Company that Preferred Stock shall be presently authorized in an aggregate of 250,000 shares and may be issued in different series of which the dividend rates, redemption prices, and amounts payable on liquidation will be determined by the board of directors. No stock having a priority over the Preferred Stock may be issued without the affirmative vote of at least two-thirds of the preferred shares outstanding; and the Company may not incur indebtedness exceeding 15% of the stated capital represented by outstanding shares of Preferred Stock and stock junior thereto, together with surplus, except indebtedness maturing within one year or issued under the Company's existing mortgage and deed of trust to Bankers Trust Company or a mortgage providing for refunding bonds issued under the existing mortgage or to the extent secured by pledge of an equal principal amount of bonds issued under either of such mortgages, unless the question of incurring such indebtedness has been submitted to the stockholders and has not been voted against by holders of 33⅓% or more of the Preferred Stock outstanding.

No additional Preferred Stock may be issued unless the net income of the Company during twelve consecutive months of the fifteen months preceding such issuance has been equal to 2½ times the dividend requirements on all Preferred Stock and stock senior thereto, if any, to be outstanding after the additional issue. The outstanding Preferred Stock may not be increased beyond 131,464 shares unless, prior to such additional issue, the stated capital as of March 31, 1936 represented by shares junior to the Preferred Stock shall have been increased by an amount at least equal to the aggregate par value of the additional shares of Preferred Stock proposed to be issued.

No dividends may be declared on any stock junior to the Preferred Stock either out of paid-in surplus or out of surplus created by reducing stated capital, nor may dividends on any such junior stock be declared unless, after making provision for their payment, the balance of earned surplus shall amount to at least twice the annual dividend requirements on Preferred Stock and any stock senior thereto then outstanding.

The Preferred Stock will be fully paid and non-assessable. Each share will be entitled to one vote. The shares of Preferred Stock will have no preemptive rights.

Underwriting The underwriters named below have severally agreed, subject to certain terms and conditions and to the approval of Messrs. Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam & Roberts, their counsel, to purchase these shares of Preferred Stock from the Company, when, as and if authorized by adoption of the proposed amendments, at $102 a share (total $11,369,328) less underwriting discounts of $2.90 a share (total $323,245.60), leaving total net proceeds to the Company of $99.10 a share (total $11,046,082.40). If payment is made after May 12, 1936, there will be added to the price an amount equivalent to dividends at the rate of 4½% per annum from May 12 to the date of payment.

Delivery Delivery will be made on or about May 12, 1936, in the form of registered interim certificates, authenticated by Bankers Trust Company, as trustee under an agreement to be entered into on May 12. The interim certificates will be transferable, until June 26, 1936, on the books of the Company at its agency, 120 Wall Street, New York, N. Y., and will be exchangeable, on or after July 1, 1936, for definitive certificates for 4½% Preferred Stock, plus 62½ cents a share in cash, being interest equivalent to dividends at the rate of 4½% per annum from May 12, 1936, to July 1, 1936. If certificates for 4½% Preferred Stock are not received by Bankers Trust Company by July 15, 1936, holders of interim certificates will be entitled to payment of $102 a share called for thereby, plus interest equivalent to dividends at the rate of 4½% per annum from May 12, 1936 to five days after date of notice.

Price $102 a share

plus an amount equivalent to dividends at the rate of 4½% per annum from May 12, 1936, to the date of payment.

Further information, particularly financial statements, is contained in the registration statement on file with the Commission, and in the offering prospectus which must be furnished to each purchaser and is obtainable only from such of the undersigned as are registered dealers in securities in this state.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 28.—Bonds worked toward slightly lower levels in most sections of the corporate list today. Activity was somewhat heavier than yesterday, but price recessions were narrower and resistance was apparent in some spots.

Transfers of $10,060,000, par value, compared with $11,057,000 Monday.

Second grade rails continued heavy and were hardest hit by selling, although the industrial group was not far behind in giving up ground.

Utility Bonds Dip Grudgingly.

Public utility bonds lost their firmness of yesterday and dropped back grudgingly as support waned under the influence of general weakness.

High grade corporate issues were quiet and prices dipped slightly. Rail issues of the top bracket eased small fractions.

United States government bonds softened, partly due to a falling off in investment interest and in part reflecting the treasury announcement of increased borrowing through weekly bill sales. Turnover in the federal list, however, was light and liquidation was inconsequential.

Long Term Issues Ease.

Longer term federal maturities were 1-32d to 6-32ds net lower. There was little activity in the short term section.

Closing prices of a cross section of the corporate division included Anaconda 4½s, unchanged at 103¾, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, up ¾ at 68¼, Bethlehem Steel 4¼s, off ⅜ at 103¾, Allis Chalmers 4s, up 2 at 128, Alleghany stamped 5s up 1½ at 44½, American Rolling Mill 4¼s at 116.

Italian bonds continued weak, while other parts of the foreign list moved narrowly and irregularly.

Skelly Oil.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me a report on Skelly Oil?—N. L.

Answer: Skelly Oil company, one of the minor units in the petroleum industry, is fully integrated. Producing lands are in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, and New Mexico. It has its own refineries and has an interest in a pipe line company.

The company notified the New York Stock exchange April 12 of its plan to issue 120,000 shares of new no par preferred stock. The stock, it is understood, will be given to the present holders of the 6 per cent preferred stock in payment of accumulated dividends which amounted to $28 a share at the beginning of the year.

On March 1, 1936, the company completed the refinancing of its funded debt through the issuance of $3,000,000 of serial notes and $9,000,000 of 4 per cent debentures, due 1951. The notes, running from one to five years, bear interest of 1 to 3 per cent according to maturity. With the proceeds the company retired the entire funded debt of $9,150,000 5½ per cent debentures and increased its working capital account by $2,296,000.

Earnings for 1935 were the best since 1930. The earnings results for the last five years follow:

	Gross.	Net.	Inc. per sh.-com.
1935	$29,326,000	$2,586,000	$2.17
1934	24,617,000	714,000	.31
1933	19,008,000	821,000 [d]	1.26 [d]

On Sept. 30, 1935, the company reported its current assets at $9,689,000, including cash of $3,352,000, and current liabilities of $4,098,000.

The common and preferred stocks are speculative.

Harvard Brewing.

Investors' Guide: I shall appreciate a report on Harvard Brewing company, also its address.—G. H. T.

Answer: The company was organized in 1932 to brew beer, ale, and porter and manufacture malt liquors of all descriptions. Its plant is in Lowell, Mass. Capitalization consists of a $215,000 6 per cent first mortgage, due Dec. 12, 1936, and 527,739 shares of $1 par capital stock.

The company reported sales of $1,947,000 for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1935, and net income of $290,000, equal to 55 cents a share on the capital stock. Sales in the preceding year were $999,000 and net income was $55,000.

On Sept. 30, 1935, the company had current assets of $491,000 and current liabilities of $292,000.

BIG REFUNDING PLAN ANNOUNCED BY TEXAS CORP.

Notes Will Be Issued to Replace Debentures.

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—The outstanding $60,000,000 of 5 per cent debentures of the Texas corporation will be called by Oct. 1 and replaced with a note issue maturing in five years or less, T. Rieber, chairman, told stockholders at their annual meeting today.

When the operation is completed the company, including its subsidiary organization, will have eliminated all items of funded debt. At present it has an undisclosed amount of bank loans taken up recently ai aid in retirement of $30,000,000 of the 5s on April 1.

Rieber said the intention to call the remaining $60,000,000 of the debentures is predicated on the idea of obtaining money at a lower rate of interest.

Expect Payoff in Five Years.

He expressed the belief that the notes to be issued for the refunding operation will be paid off within the next five years, "if not sooner." The notes sold in connection with the April 1 operation were on a five year basis.

The chairman told the gathering that earnings of the corporation for the first quarter of the year would be equivalent to about 60 cents on the common shares. For the full year 1935 earnings were equal to $1.85 a share.

Commenting upon dividend prospects for the remainder of the year, Rieber statec he would not vote for an increase. He added, however, that he could not speak for the other fourteen directors. The annual rate currently is $1, this having been paid since 1932.

Argue Over Officers' Salaries.

In reply to a stockholder's question on officers' salaries, Rieber said he felt they were too small. This brought a somewhat heated discussion among stockholders present which resulted in a vote being taken to see if the chairman should be ordered to announce the amount of salaries. The motion was lost.

Taking up the question of a possible boost in crude oil prices, Rieber expressed the belief that prices at the moment are high enough, notwithstanding the fact that independent producers always like to receive more.

"I don't think," he said, "there will be an increase at the moment, but maybe later in the year."

Rieber revealed that the arrangement whereby the Texas corporation and the Socony-Vacuum Oil company will take over the South American-Gulf Oil company's holdings in the Barco concession in Colombia will be consummated Thursday and work will be started on development immediately. The purchase price was not disclosed.

ILLINOIS ROAD ASKS TO ISSUE NEW BONDS; PART FOR REFUNDING

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—The Chicago and Illinois Midland railway today made application to the interstate commerce commission for authority to issue $5,500,000 principal amount of 20 year 4½ per cent first mortgage bonds, series A; $1,500,000 of 21 year 6 per cent income noncumulative debentures and $2,400,000 par value of additional capital stock.

Of the 4½ per cent bonds, $4,600,000 par value would be applied to the redemption of all outstanding first mortgage 6 per cent gold bonds, series A; $381,000 to discharge a like amount of equipment obligations and the remaining $519,000 would be applied to the reimbursement of the railroad for additions and betterments not yet capitalized.

The additional capital stock, 24,000 shares of $100 par value each, and the $1,500,000 [M] in debentures would be sold at par to reimburse the treasury of the Chicago and Illinois Midland railway for expenditures made for additions and betterments to the property of the Springfield, Havana, and Peoria railroad, no part of which has been capitalized.

PARK DISTRICT SELLS 17 MILLION BONDS AT PAR

Deal Completes Large Refunding Program.

Arrangements were concluded yesterday by the Chicago park district to sell $17,336,087 of 3½ per cent bonds to Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., at par, completing a $110,833,750 refunding bond program undertaken by the park district in 1934.

Issues sold yesterday included the $6,000,000 of park improvement 4 per cent bonds, maturing 1955, previously sold to the PWA and later sold to the Reconstruction Finance corporation; $5,000,000 of revolving fund bonds, maturing 1956, created at the last session of the legislature to form a cash working fund; $3,199,042 funding bonds maturing 1956, to retire the floating debt of all superseded park districts; and $3,137,045 series C refunding bonds maturing 1953, for the rehabilitation of the Lincoln park improvement bond fund.

Considers Price High.

Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district, said the price obtained yesterday, with the exception of sales in 1935 by the city of Chicago and the Chicago Board of Education, was the highest figure at a 3½ per cent rate obtained for many years by any major taxing body in Cook county.

The interest rate on the bonds sold to the RFC was scaled down from 4 to 3½ per cent after a conference between officials of the Park district and Halsey, Stuart & Co. following consideration of an alternative offer of 4 per cent and premium of $180,000. It was said that the choice of the lower interest rate was made when it was pointed out that the figure would make possible an immediate saving to taxpayers.

Offer Utility Stock.

Offering will be made today at par of 111,464 shares of preferred stock of the Central Illinois Light company 4½ per cent preferred stock by a banking group headed by Bonbright & Co. The total amount involved is $11,464,000. Proceeds from sale of the stock will be used to redeem outstanding 6 and 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock in the same amount. The company serves Peoria, Springfield, and other Illinois cities.

Blyth & Co. announced yesterday an offering of $30,000,000 of 3¾ per cent bonds of the Pacific Gas and Electric company had been oversubscribed.

Sale of an issue of $1,000,000 in temporary notes at an annual rate of interest of 1 per cent, the lowest ever obtained by the city, was announced yesterday by A. F. Minisi, Newark, N. J., director of revenue and finance. The issue is for emergency relief purposes.

FIRST QUARTER PROFIT REPORTED BY STUDEBAKER

Sales Rise Sharply; Other Firms Show Gains.

The Studebaker corporation earned $104,654 in the first quarter of 1936, Paul G. Hoffman, president, announced yesterday. He said comparative figures for the first quarter of 1935 are not available because the reorganized Studebaker corporation commenced operations on March 9, 1935. Net sales for the quarter totaled $15,738,737, compared with $33,837,892 for the period March 9 to Dec. 31, 1935.

First quarter profit was equal to 5 cents a share on the 2,155,660 shares of stock outstanding.

Hoffman said that during the 1936 period Studebaker factory sales were 50 per cent ahead of the same period a year ago and retail deliveries of Studebaker dealers in the United States were 56 per cent higher.

For the first 20 days of April factory sales exceeded 1935 by 51 per cent, he said, and retail deliveries were 62 per cent ahead of the corresponding period of last year.

Other Companies Report.

International Business Machines corporation yesterday reported earnings for the three months ended March 31 of $1,889,921 after charges and taxes, equal to $2.56 a share on the capital stock. In the same quarter last year the company had net earnings of $1,771,914, equal to $2.39 a share.

Norfolk and Western railway announced net income of $7,444,588 for the first quarter, equal to $5.13 a common share, compared with $553,649, or $3.07 a share in the 1935 period.

Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing company reported net income in the March quarter amounted to $791,042, after charges, equal to $5.27 a share on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock. This compares with a loss of $239,968 in the same quarter last year.

Utility's Profit Rises.

Commonwealth and Southern corporation reported net income for the 12 months ended March 31 of $9,995,649, equal to 3 cents a share on the common stock. This compares with $7,760,863 or $5.17 a share on the preferred stock for the 12 months ended March 31, 1935.

Pacific Lighting corporation reported for the 12 months March 31, net income of $7,967,529, equal to $4.22 a share, compared with $6,439,204, or $3.27 a share in the preceding year.

Phillips Petroleum company had net income of $3,156,159 for the first quarter of 1936, equal to 76 cents a share, against $1,542,334, or 37 cents a share in the quarter a year ago.

[H]azel-Atlas Glass reported for the 12 months ended March 28, 1936, net profit of $3,071,176, equal to $7.07 a share. For the 12 months ended March 30, 1935, net profit was $2,174,426, equal to $5 a share.

Net Income Doubled.

The American Bank Note company had a first quarter net income of $279,.55, equal to 32 cents a share, compared with $171,666, or 16 cents a share for the March, 1935, quarter.

Lindsay Light and Chemical company reported net earnings for the first quarter of 1936, equivalent to 6 cents a share, compared with 26 cents a share in the corresponding 1935 period.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—Raw sugar was unchanged today at 3.75c for spots based on the last business in nearby sugars. There was nothing available below 3.85c. Interest centered in new crop supplies and the only sale confirmed was 20,000 bags of Porto Ricos for Jan.-Feb. shipment at 3.55c or about unchanged from previous sales of 1937 quota sugar. Futures remained in a narrow range, closing unchanged to 1 point higher on present crop deliveries and 1 lower on new crops. Sales were 4,500 tons.

Raw sugar prices in cents per lb:

MEN

Here is the most amazing moneymaking opportunity ever offered to the readers of this or any other newspaper. It is a remarkable new kind of business that will pay a steady net cash profit of from $50 to $100 comm. a week to any ambitious level headed man who wants to succeed. It is business that offers unlimited opportunity.

It doesn't matter what your former occupation may have been; you don't have to sell a thing; we train you thoroly and pay you well while you are in training.

This nationally known electric device company will finance you and maintain offices for your success. There isn't any investment, and absolutely no experience is required to quickly become successful in this new business.

We insist that you be clean cut, able to furnish good references and be between the ages of 22 and 45.

Apply Hotel Sherman

Wednes., Apr. 29, 1:30 P. M.

NO OTHER TIME

Ask for Mr. B. M. Baldwin

WE ARE INTERESTED IN MEN who wish to start into business for themselves. We can finance you. We are well known in Chicago as manufacturers of electrical units. The market will absorb thousands. There is an increasing demand.

We are interested in men who have been doctors, lawyers, business men, builders and mechanics, who would like to make commissions and bonus ranging from $2,000 to $5,000 between now and Jan. 1. At the present time we have openings for men living on the north side, northwest, Park Ridge, and Des Plaines, etc. Married men between the ages of 25 and 50, who can furnish references. CALL WED., APRIL 29, 2:00 P. M. 4802 BROADWAY, ROOM 5, GREENMILL BLDG.

LEGAL NOTICES.

PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS ex rel. Ernest Palmer, Director of Insurance, Plaintiff vs. Old Colony Life Insurance Company, Defendant. Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois. In Chancery. No. B-253179.

Public notice is hereby given that pursuant to an order entered on April 20, 1936 in the above entitled cause, the following described real estate located in Vilas County, Wisconsin, to-wit:

Lots One [1], Two [2], Three [3] and Four [4] in Section Twenty-nine [29]; the Southeast Quarter of the Northwest Quarter of said Section Twenty-nine [29]; the Northwest Quarter of the Southwest Quarter of said Section Twenty-nine [29]; the East Half of the Southwest Quarter of said Section Twenty-nine [29]; all of Southeast Quarter of said Section Twenty-nine [29]; and the Northwest Quarter of the Northeast Quarter of Section Thirty-two [32]; all in Township Forty-four [44] North, Range Six [6] East, will, on May 20, 1936, at 2 o'clock p. m., be sold in open court before the Honorable Benjamin P. Epstein, one of the judges of said court, in his court room No. 742 in the County Building in Chicago, Illinois, to the highest and best bidder for cash, the successful bidder to then and there pay one-fourth of the bid price in cash and the balance thereof within 30 days.

Said real estate comprises approximately 515 acres; it is improved with a summer house or cottage; a lake covering approximately 33 acres is located thereon; and the property is about four miles distant from the town of Winegar, Wisconsin.

Any further information desired will be given by the undersigned, whose office is at Room 1605, No. 100 W. Monroe-st., Chicago, Illinois, and whose telephone number is Randolph 0040.

HENRY G. MILLER,
Receiver of Old Colony Life Insurance Co.

TO HOLDERS OF CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT OF PARK FIRE PROOF STORAGE CO. 1st Mortgage 6% Bonds:

You are hereby notified that the Bondholders' Protective Committee has adopted the Plan of Reorganization of Park Fire Proof Storage Co. under Section 77-B of the Bankruptcy Act whereby you are to receive Werner Bros.-Kennelly Company First Mortgage 5% Sinking Fund Bonds to be secured by a first mortgage on the same property secured by the present bonds, in the amount of 50% of the principal amount of the present bonds and maturing December 1, 1955. Further details are being sent you.

You are hereby notified that you have the right to dissent in writing with the Depositary that you dissent from this Plan and Agreement, and it will not become effective if notice of dissent is filed by over 50% in amount of deposited bonds. Such notice, however, must be filed on or before May 9, 1936. If you approve the Plan, no action is necessary.

Compare These Rates

This bank is one of the few companies in the country which will lend on the same rates and terms regardless of whether you borrow on a new car or a used one and so far as insurance is concerned Fire and Theft is all we require, although we strongly urge that every car owner insure himself against collision hazards. In all cases we want the insurance to be placed with the borrower's own broker or agent. Premiums may be added to the loan account, the broker paid in full, and the borrower settles up with us in monthly installments.
